THE EARLY
MASONIC CATECHISMS
THE EARLY
MASSONIC CATECHISMS
THE

EARLY MASONIC

CATECHISMS

TRANSCRIBED AND EDITED BY

DOUGLAS KNOOP, M.A., Hon. A.R.I.B.A.

Professor of Economics in the University of Sheffield

G. P. JONES, M.A., Litt.D.

Lecturer in Economic History in the University of Sheffield

AND

DOUGLAS HAMER, M.C., M.A.

Lecturer in English Literature in the University of Sheffield

THE SECOND EDITION

EDITED for QUATUOR CORONATI LODGE

by

HARRY CARR, P.A.G.D.C., P.M.

Published by

QUATUOR CORONATI LODGE, NO. 2076, LONDON
PRÉFACE

TO THE SECOND EDITION

The first edition of this work appeared in 1943 and it was instantly recognized by historians as an indispensable tool for the study of the evolution of early masonic ritual. The book was very soon out of print, and for many years it has been virtually unobtainable. That a major work of this calibre should have had to wait twenty years for its second edition is perhaps a sad reflection on the limited field that exists for the more substantial works of masonic scholarship. Yet the work is not a whit less valuable to-day than when it was first published. Nothing has appeared to replace or supersede it, and its splendid thirty-page Introduction is as important to-day as it was in 1943.

The present-day economics of printing tend to make any venture in the field of masonic publishing a matter of hazardous speculation, but the Standing Committee of the Quatuor Coronati Lodge, No. 2076, agreed unanimously that the re-issue of this work should be the first undertaking in their newly enlarged publishing programme.

Two important texts have been discovered since the first edition was published:

1. The Wilkinson MS., c. 1727, which was the subject of a separate study by the same authors, in 1946.
2. The Kevan MS., belonging to the period c. 1720, which was discovered in 1955.

It is noteworthy that the appearance of these widely different texts has served only to confirm the findings of the three distinguished scholars who collaborated in the original work. In pursuit of their expressed . . . endeavour to supply reliable texts of all the early masonic catechisms . . we have included the Wilkinson and Kevan MSS. in this publication; the former, complete with Introduction, photographs and Notes, as in the 1946 production; the latter with a brief introduction and commentary by the present writer.

The addition of these two texts is the only major difference between the first and second editions. It has necessitated changes in the paging of the new book, with some additions to the Index, but the original transcripts have been preserved intact, and in this new form the second edition is really up to date, presenting in one slim volume reliable transcripts of all the early English masonic catechisms that are known at present.

Out of respect to the learned editors of the first edition, no changes have been made to the Introduction. From the student's point of view, no changes are necessary, except at those points where the text refers to the actual number of documents reproduced, etc. (as on page 3), and in similar items of a minor character which do not affect the scholarly quality of the Introduction.

The location of several texts has changed in the twenty years that have elapsed since the first edition was published. Three of the documents reproduced here have changed ownership, and for the benefit of future students we note the following:

The Dialogue between Simon and Philip, c. 1740, is in the same Library.

The Wilkinson MS., c. 1727, belongs to the Pomfret Lodge, No. 360 (Northants.), and is on loan to the same Grand Lodge Library.

Writing as one who has devoted much time to the study and teaching of masonic ritual, I offer the following hints—with some diffidence—on the hope that they will enable less-experienced students to enjoy the work more fully. For the untrained reader the old English and Scottish spelling and a few unusual words may present some difficulties, but they will disappear very quickly, and he will soon find that it is much more interesting to read the texts in their original form than in modern spellings which seem somehow unsuited to the words themselves.

At first the reader will automatically find himself comparing these old catechisms with the present-day ritual. Later, there is much pleasure and instruction to be gained by comparing the earlier texts, c. 1700, with the more highly developed versions of the 1730s.

For study purposes, especially in Lodges and Lodges of Instruction, it is extremely useful to read the texts aloud, from the book or from typescripts, two or more Brethren sharing Question and Answer. Even a longish text, like Prichard's Masonry Dissected, would require only a moderate amount of preparation, and in this form it is possible to give a great deal of entertaining and simple instruction in the early development of the ritual.

The Early Masonic Catechisms is by far the most important work that was ever compiled in this particular field of masonic study. Primarily, it was designed for students, but not for them alone. There is a great deal of profit and pleasure to be derived from it for the rank and file of the Craft, if its contents are studied as they deserve.

Finally, and on behalf of the Quatuor Coronati Lodge, No. 2076, London, I take this opportunity of expressing our thanks to Professor G. P. Jones and to the authorities of the University of Sheffield for their valued help in permitting this publication; also to the Grand Lodge of Scotland and to the various Libraries and individuals (all listed in the Preface to the first edition, below), who granted permission to reprint the rare and valuable documents which are reproduced here.

H. C.

1963

---

PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION

The early masonic catechisms have been examined, analytically and comparatively, in some detail by Bro. H. Poole in "Masonic Ritual and Secrets before 1717" [A.Q.C., xxxvii (1924)]. His paper, however, was written before the discovery of the Chesham, Edinburgh Register House and Graham M.S. Further, although he actually took 1730, as his boundary date, notwithstanding his title, he excluded Prichard's Masonry Dissected, published in October, 1730, on the ground that it raised the large question of the number of degrees given during the period 1717-1730, which he felt unable adequately to discuss in the space at his disposal. Much of his paper is as valuable to-day as when it was first written, some twenty years ago, though failure to distinguish between an apprentice and an entered apprentice and to realize that the catechisms apply to the admission of the latter (ex-apprentices or improvers aged 21 or so) and not to that of the former (boys aged 14 or so) did lead him to some extent astray, and some of the commentators on his paper more so. Unfortunately, Bro. Poole's paper has no appendix of illustrative documents; owing to lack of space, he had to content himself with indicating the more accessible reproductions. Thus, though it stimulated interest in the catechisms, his paper whetted the appetite without supplying any ready means of satisfying it, because some of the publications in which catechisms have been reproduced are not likely to be found in an ordinary masonic library. In this volume, which may be described as a utility edition, we endeavour to supply reliable texts of all the early masonic catechisms, and of the contemporary rejoinders, with the exception of the Chesham MS. and the first part of the Essex MS., which are practically identical with other early catechisms which we print in full. As space is limited, we have curtailed our general introduction and the introductory and explanatory notes to particular documents, and have omitted reproductions of title pages of pamphlets and specimen pages of MSS. Further, we have been unable to follow the exact lay-out of certain catechisms, in so far as they devote separate lines to each question and each answer, however short. In these days of paper economy such spacious setting is precluded. Our aim is to give complete and accurate texts of the documents, with sufficient introductory and explanatory matter to help those masons who wish to study for themselves the origins of masonic ritual and ceremonies. The prevailing conditions prevent us from catering for the masonic bibliophile. For the facilities afforded to us in the obtaining of photostats and photographs, and for permission to print or reprint documents, we have to thank the authorities of the British Museum, the Bodleian Library, the Trinity College, Dublin, Library, the Edinburgh Register House, the United Grand Lodge of England, the Grand Lodge of Ireland and Lodge Dumfries Kilwinning, No. 53; also the Editors of A.Q.C. and of the Leicester Masonic Reprints, and Bro. Rev. H. I. Robinson, Bro. Rev. H. Poole, Bro. J. Heron Lepper and Bro. Philip Crossle. We have also to thank Bro. Rabbi Barnet I. Cohen for assistance with certain Hebrew words; Bro. Philip Crossle for information about the Chetwode Crawley MS.; Dr. B. Schofield and Mr. A. J. Collins of the MSS. Department of the British Museum for help in dating certain manuscripts; and our colleagues, J. M. M. Jenkinson and J. H. Read, for making the tracings required for the preparation of blocks. Lastly, we have to thank Mr. H. M. McKechnie, Secretary of the Manchester University Press, for his unfailing help and co-operation.

D. K.
G. P. J.
D. H.

THE UNIVERSITY,
SHEFFIELD,
February, 1943.

Postscript. We are greatly indebted to Bro. Fred. T. Cramphorn for placing at our disposal his typescript copies of the two catechisms referred to in the Note on p. xi.
April, 1943.
CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION :
COMPARISON WITH THE OLD CHARGES .  1
EARLY OPERATIVE WORKING 4
AUTHENTICITY OF THE PRINTED CATECHISMS :
Relation of Printed to MS. Catechisms . 10
Reaction of the Craft to the Publication of the Catechisms 13
CLASSIFICATION OF THE EARLY CATECHISMS .  18
EVOLUTION OF THE EARLY CATECHISMS Misc. Lat. 19
ACCEPTED OR EARLY SPECULATIVE CEREMONIES 22
TREATMENT OF THE TEXTS . 30

CATECHISMS :
THE EDINBURGH REGISTER HOUSE MS., 1696 31
THE CHETWODE CRAWLEY MS., C. 1700 Thorp 35
THE KEVAN MS., C. 1714-20 39
THE SLOANE MS., 3329, C. 1700 . 45
THE DUMFRIES No. 4 MS., C. 1710 . 50
THE TRINITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN, MS., 1711 69
A MASON’S EXAMINATION, 1723 . 71
THE GRAND MYSTERY OF FREE-MASONS DISCOVER'D, 1724 76
THE WHOLE INSTITUTION OF MASONRY, 1724 81
INSTITUTION OP FREE MASON S, C. 1725 . 83
THE WHOLE INSTITUTIONS OF FREE-MASONS OPENED, 1725 87
THE GRAHAM MS., 1726 . 89
THE GRAND MYSTERY LAID OPEN, 1726 97
A MASON’S CONFESSION, ? 1727 99
THE WILKINSON MS., C. 1727 108
THE MYSTERY OF FREE-MASONRY, 1730 152
PRICHARD’S MASONRY DISSECTED, 1730 157
THE CHESHAM MS., C. 1740 174
DIALOGUE BETWEEN SIMON AND PHILIP, C. 1740 175
THE ESSEX MS., C. 1750 . 182

REJOINERS
THE FREE-MASONS VINDICATION, 1725 . 184
THE PERJUR'D FREE MASON DETECTED, 1730 187
A DEFENCE OF MASONRY, 1730-I 210

POSSIBLE REJOINERS :
THE SISTERHOOD OF FREE SEMPSTRESSES, 1724 226
A LETTER FROM THE GRAND MISTRESS, 1724 229
NOTES AND GLOSSARY 240
INDEX . 243

LIST OF ABBREVIATED REFERENCES

A.Q.C._Ars Quatuor Coronatorum [Transactions of the Quatuor Coronati Lodge, No. 2076, London].
Leics. Reprints Masonic Reprints [of the Lodge of Research, No. 2429, Leicester].
Manc. Trans. Transactions of the Manchester Association for Masonic Research.
Misc. Lat Miscellaneous Latomorum.
Q.C.A. Ars Quatuor Coronatorum Antigrapha [Masonic Reprints of the Quatuor Coronati Lodge, No. 2076, London].
Thorp J T Thorp, Bibliography of Masonic Catechisms and Exposures, 1929.

NOTE TO THE FIRST EDITION

After this book had gone to press, the existence of two other early catechisms was brought to our notice by Bro. Fred. T. Cramphorn of Upper Moulsham, Chelmsford. In a MS., stated to bear an almost illegible name and address, "M' John Page ... N° 5 ... Bristol ", and recently in the possession of the late Bro. Lister Salisbury, who lent the document to Bro. Cramphorn to copy, there are three catechisms: (i) The Whole Institution of Masonry, 1724 ; (ii) an entry headed " The following is part of Free Masonry as Printed in London 1725 " ; A Dialogue between Simon, a Town Mason, and Philip, a Traveling Mason. The first is an early and shorter version of The Whole Institutions of Free-Masons Opened, 1725 (see p. 87 below) ; the second is a copy of the examination in The Grand Mystery of the Free Masons Discover'd, 1725 (see p. 76 below) ; the third possesses considerable affinities with other early masonic catechisms, but resembles no particular one very closely. We print the first and third, with introductory notes, on pp. 81 and 175 below ; it has not been possible, however, to refer to them in the Introduction, which was already paged.
INTRODUCTION

COMPARISON WITH THE OLD CHARGES

For many years the study of masonic manuscripts has been largely directed to the documents known as the MS. Constitutions of Masonry, or, more familiarly, as the Old Charges. These usually begin with an invocation or opening prayer, followed by a legendary history of the building industry and a body of regulations governing the masons' trade. This study has been distinctly fruitful, and has led to the discovery of numerous new versions of the Old Charges, so that there is a fairly substantial body of material available for classification and analysis. The genuineness of the documents as a whole has never been seriously questioned, though Gould devoted considerable space in his History of Freemasonry to considering how far any particular version could be regarded as an accredited or authoritative writing, and the authenticity of one or two versions has provided matter for discussion. The legendary history and the masons' regulations of the MS. Constitutions from time to time underwent considerable changes, which we have briefly discussed in our Short History of Freemasonry 1730, but no revision appears to have been made after about 1725. Although a particular version may not have been copied or printed until the late eighteenth or early nineteenth century, nevertheless it will generally prove to be a more or less exact copy of a pre-1730 manuscript. Consequently, there is no need to impose a date-limit when discussing the Old Charges, or to differentiate between the versions which have survived in manuscript and those which have survived only in print.

In this volume we deal with a different class of masonic document, much smaller in number and considerably more suspect in character, namely, the manuscript and printed masonic catechisms, which originally were mainly concerned with the form of giving the Mason Word, and the questions and answers used to test persans claiming to have the Mason Word. These catechisms underwent considerable changes during the eighteenth century, gradually becoming much more elaborate in character. Lionel Vibert devoted some attention to this development in his Prestonian Lecture for 1925 on the Trigradal System, and subsequently discussed it more fully in a paper on "Eighteenth
Introduction

The Century Catechisms (Misc. Lat., xiv). As we are concerned only with early masonic catechisms, we have taken as the end of our period the year 1730, which for three reasons forms a good boundary date. (i) For several years after 1730, Prichard's Masonry Dissected, first published in October 1730, had no rival as a masonic catechism in this country. (ii) For a time after 1730, commencing in 1734-5, masonic publications in England mainly took the form of Pocket Companions, popular masonic handbooks, which temporarily displaced interest in catechisms or rituals. Commencing in 1737-8, translations of French exposures began to appear, and French influence on the development of masonic ceremonies, began to make itself felt. Although we take 1730 as the end of our period, we do, however, bring under review four later documents, the Institution of Free Masons, of uncertain date, but assigned to the first half of the eighteenth century, the Chesham MS. of c. 1740, the Essex MS. of 1750, and A Mason's Confession of 1755. All of these appear to relate to conditions prevailing in the third decade of the eighteenth century, rather than to the period at which they were written or printed.

Our sixteen documents cover the period 1696 to 1730, twenty-one years before the formation of Grand Lodge in 1717, and thirteen after its establishment. Nevertheless, these thirty-four years can be regarded as constituting a unity, for freemasonry in the third decade of the eighteenth century appears to have been substantially the same as in the immediate pre-Grand Lodge period. Thus we are primarily concerned with the first thirty years of the eighteenth century, a period when accepted or speculative rites were being evolved out of the earlier operative practices and customs; this very possibly accounts for the somewhat diverse conditions pictured in the different documents. On the other hand, the third decade of the eighteenth century was a period in which public curiosity about freemasonry was widespread, and this makes it very necessary to be on guard against possible hoaxes or forgeries, more especially in the case of the printed versions, or so-called exposures which usually claim to be either confessions of disgruntled masons, or compilations from the papers of deceased brethren. As no authoritative ritual for this period has survived (assuming that one ever existed), we can never feel sure how far any particular document reflects what happened in any particular lodge, or, assuming that the document was genuine, and not a mere skit or hoax on current practice, how widespread its use was. Thus a considerable element of uncertainty must always remain in interpreting these documents, even after their authenticity has been established, so far as that can be done.

In this volume we are concerned primarily with sixteen documents, nine of which are in manuscript (but see also Preface, p. v.):

- Edinburgh Register House MS., 1696,
- Chetwode Crawley MS., c. 1700,
- Sloane MS. 3329, c. 1700,
- Dumfries No. 4 MS., c. 1710, Trinity College, Dublin, MS., 1711, Institution of Free Masons, c. 1725, Graham MS., 1726,
- Chesham MS., c. 1740,
- Essex MS., c. 1750,

and seven in print:

- A Mason's Examination, 1723,
- The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd, 1724,
- The Whole Institutions of Free-Masons Opened, 1725,
- The Grand Mystery Laid Open, 1726,
- A Mason's Confession, ? 1727 [printed 1755],
- The Mystery of Free-Masonry, 1730,
- Prichard's Masonry Dissected, 1730.

Both Thorp (p. 11) and Bro. Baxter (Manc. Trans., xxx, 78) include two other publications among the early catechisms and exposures, viz., the Briscoe pamphlet and The Perjur'd Free Mason Detected. We deliberately exclude the former, The Secret History of the Free-Masons (1724), because it is principally a version of the Old Charges, with observations on Anderson's Constitutions, and in no sense a catechism. The latter pamphlet, a reply to Prichard's Masonry Dissected, does include a good deal of dialogue, and may perhaps be regarded as a catechism, though of an unusual type. We prefer to treat it as a reply to a catechism, and accordingly print it with the other Rejoinders.

The fact that we have been able to trace only nine versions of the MS. catechisms written, or relating to the period, before 1731, whereas some seventy versions of the MS. Constitutions copied before that date have been discovered, may perhaps be accounted for in three ways. (i) The MS. catechisms, usually written on one or two sheets of paper, are more likely to have been mislaid or destroyed than versions of the Old Charges, which are frequently in the form of books or rolls. (ii) As the subject matter of the catechisms was partly esoteric in character, it would presumably be imparted orally, and the possessors of the necessary knowledge would be chary about committing it to writing, though doubtless that might be done occasionally as an aid to memory. Even the writing of such a guide, however, is prohibited by Dumfries No. 3 MS. (iii) When catechisms had been committed to writing, the documents may have been deliberately destroyed after they had served their immediate purpose. Thus, according to Anderson (Constitutions of 1738, p. in), several valuable manuscripts concerning the Fraternity, their lodges, regulations, charges, secrets and usages, were burnt by some scrupulous brothers in 1720, so that these papers might not fall into strange hands. Nevertheless, we are disposed to think that when the importance of this class of document is more fully appreciated, and when the quest for such documents has received the same attention as the quest for new versions of the Old Charges, more versions of the MS. catechisms may be discovered. Of the existing nine versions, Sloane MS. 3329 was known to masonic students in the 1860's; Dumfries No. 4 MS. was discovered in 1891; the Trinity College, Dublin, MS. had been traced in or before 1898; the Chetwode Crawley MS. was discovered in 5904, and the Institution of Free Masons about 5903; the Essex MS. was known in 1955 and probably earlier; the Chesham MS. was known in 5929, the Edinburgh Register House MS. in 1930, while the existence of the Graham MS. was only made known as recently as 1976. Of the printed versions, two broadsheets, The Whole Institutions of Free-Masons Opened and The Grand Mystery Laid Open, were mere turnes to most masonic students until Bro. Poole reprinted them in A.Q.C., 1., in 5937. Actually, the discoveries of the last ten or fifteen years have added not only to the number of versions of the catechisms known, but also quite materially to the body of knowledge concerning early eighteenth-century masonic working. By way of contrast, it may be noted that recent discoveries of versions of the Old Charges have merely confirmed legends and regulations, the existence of which was already well established.

EARLY OPERATIVE WORKING

Before we can discuss the authenticity of the catechisms in general, or of any one catechism in particular, we must first briefly examine removed, after taking an oath of secrecy, out of the company with the or master mason, after taking an oath of secrecy, was sent out of the company with the youngest master to learn the postures, words and signs of fellowship. Further, the appointment of 'attenders' is indicated in Sloane MS. 3329; the candidate had to swear to keep secret all that his attenders bid him keep secret. According to A Mason's Confession, one person in the lodge instructed the candidate a little about the secrets the same day that he entered, and was called his author. Another person in the lodge, whom the candidate selected to be his instructor for the ensuing twelve months, was called his intender.

Introduction

iv. From the Mark Book of the Lodge of Aberdeen, the first records in which were written in 1670, we learn that it was ordained by the members in that year that the so-called 'Measson Charter', i.e., the version of the MS. Constitutions now known as the Aberdeen MS., was to be read before a meeting of masons, and presumably, therefore, at the admission of every entered apprentice.

That the regulations or charges, if not the history or legend, were read to the candidates is stated in the Aberdeen MS. itself, as also in the Aitchison's Haven MS., which was engrossed in the Minute Book of the Aitchison's Haven Lodge in 1666. The same is true of versions of the Old Charges which belonged in the second half of the seventeenth century to the old Scottish lodges at Kilwinning, Stirling, Melrose, and Dumfries.

According to the oath in the catechism Sloane MS. 3329, the candidate was to swear to keep secret "the mason word and everything therein contained" and "truly observe the charges in ye constitution", which implies that at least the charges or regulations of the MS. Constitutions had been read to the candidate before the oath was taken. From the printed catechism, A Mason's Examination, we learn that "when a Free-Mason is enter'd . . . he is to hear the * * * * * belonging to the Society read to him by the Master of the Lodge ". The asterisks, resulting possibly from ignorance of masonic terms, or from difficulty in deciphering the manuscript on which the printed version was in all probability based, are tantalizing, but it seems not unreasonable to fill the gap with the word constitutions ' or 'charges'. In making this suggestion, we merely follow the instructions con-

v. According to the first statute in the Laws and Statutes of the Lodge of Aberdeen, adopted or confirmed 27 December 1670, the master masons and entered apprentices received the benefit of the Mason Word at their entry.

Although all the catechisms do not distinguish very clearly between (a) entered apprentices and (b) fellow crafts or master masons, several of them do so, and make it quite clear that the entered apprentices received the benefit of the Mason Word at their entry, as stated in the Aberdeen Statutes. Further, some catechisms show that additional esoteric knowledge was imparted to candidates when they were admitted fellow crafts or master masons, though whether that was the case at Aberdeen is not clear from the Statutes of the Lodge.

vi. The surviving fragment of a minute of the Lodge of Haughfoot, dated 22 December 1702, contains what appears to be the closing portion of the description of the admission of a fellow craft or master mason. To show the significance of this fragment, we set it out side by side with an extract from the Edinburgh Register House MS.:

\[
\text{Edinburgh Register House MS.} \\
\text{He makes the masters sign, and says the same words of entrie as the apprentice did} \\
\text{Leaving out (The Common Judge) Then} \\ \text{they whisper the word as before —} \\
\text{and the Master Mason grips his hand after the ordinary way.}
\]

vii. Certain seventeenth-century versions of the Old Charges contain an oath of secrecy which presumably formed part of the ceremony of admission.

To facilitate comparison between these oaths and those embodied in certain MS. catechisms, we print three from the Old Charges and two from the Catechisms side by side :

1 Vernon, History of Freemasonry in Roxburghshire, 282.
OLD CHARGES

Buchanan MS.1, c. 1670

These Charges that you have received you shall well and truly keepe not disclosing the secrecy of our Lodge to man woman nor Child : sticke nor Stone : thing moueable nor vnmoveable soe god you helpe and his holy Doome

Drinkwater No. i M.S., c. 2700
The Signs & Tokens, y I shall declare unto you, you shall not write in Sand, paper, or Green haves ; And you shall not tell it to any Dumb Creature in y' hearing of any person, Neither to Stick, Stock nor Stone in y' hearing of any person, Neither to Man Woman nor Child but to such as you fend to be a Mason. So help you God.

Harleian MS. 1942, c. 1675
I : A : B : Doe in the presence of Almighty god, & my ffellowes, & brethren, here prescrit, promise and declare, that I will not at any time, hereafter, by any Act or Circumstance whatsoever, Directly, or Indirectly, Publish, discover, reveale, or make knowne, any of the secrets, priviledges, or Counsells, of the fraternity or fellowship of ffree Masonry, wthch at this time, or at any time hereafter, shallbe made knowne vnto mee, soe helpe mee god, & the holy contents of this booke.3

CATECHISMS

Sloane MS. 3329, c. 1700
The mason word and every thing therein contained you shall keep secret you shall never put it in writing directly or Indirectly you shah keep all that we or your attendants shall bid you keep secret from Man Woman or Child Stock or Stone and never reveal it but to a brother or in a Lodge of Freemasons and truly observe the Charges in y' Constitue Non all this you promise and swere faithfully to keep and observe without any manner of Equivocation or mental Reservation directly or Indirectly so help you god and by the Contents of this book

Edinburgh Register House M.S., 1696
By god himself and you shall answer to god when you shall stand naked before him, at the great day, you shall not reveal any part of what you shall hear or see at this time whither by word nor write nor put it in wryte at any time nor draw it with the point of a sword, or any other instrument upon the snow or land, nor shall you speak of it but with an entered mason, so help you god.

AUTHENTICITY OF THE PRINTED CATECHISMS

In the previous section, we have endeavoured to show that the main features of early masonic operative working, as deduced from such independent seventeenth-century evidence as is available, correspond fairly closely with the picture given by the early masonic catechisms, more particularly by certain of the manuscript versions. It so happens that these are rather older than any of the printed versions, and even if they themselves were not written before c. 1700, they may represent a working that is several decades older. The printed versions, assuming they are genuine, relate to the period 1723-30, by which date the seventeenth-century working may well have undergone considerable modifications, a problem which we discuss below. In consequence of such modifications, no very close correspondence with early operative working, as depicted by independent seventeenth-century evidence, can be expected.

The authenticity of the Dumfries No. 4 MS., a masonic catechism combined with a version of the Old Charges and a disquisition on King Solomon's Temple, can hardly be questioned, as it has almost certainly belonged to the Old Lodge of Dumfries (now Dumfries MS. 40,45) are a version of the Old Charges and a scrap of paper, tom off irregularly, containing an oath of secrecy in respect of "seuerall words and signes of a free Mason ". Both are in the handwriting of Randle Holme the third (1627-1699), the Chester genealogist, and are reproduced in Q.C.A., iii.

As the phrasing of the oath does not resemble that in any known catechism, we do not print it.

1 See facsimile in Q.C.A. iv.
2 There follows [see facsimile in Manc. Trans. xv.] a form of oath very similar in phrasing to that in Harleian MS. 1942.
3 Among items of masonic interest in another Harleian MS., [B. M. Harleian.
Kilwinning No. 53) ever since it was first written early in the eighteenth century. At one time it was probably employed at Lodge meetings, as it shows signs of considerable use. Nothing is known of the early history of the Edinburgh Register House MS. (apart from its probably having belonged to a lawyer in the eighteenth century), but as it shows signs of having been folded and considerably used, it seems not unlikely that at one period it was a mason's aide mémoire, and the same thing would appear to be true of the Trinity College, Dublin, MS. In any case, a MS. catechism is far less likely to have been a hoax or forgery than a printed version offered for sale, and it is the authenticity of the printed versions which particularly calls for investigation. Leaving aside the doggerel verse or rhyming jingles in certain versions, and archaic and corrupt expressions, which suggest an element of antiquity, if not of genuineness, and leaving aside, also, the ready sale, over a long period of years, of successive editions of Prichard's Masonry Dissected, which seems to imply a masonic demand and recognition 'so far as Prichard's pamphlet is concerned, two methods of approaching our problem suggest themselves. One is to examine the relationship existing between the printed catechisms and the MS. catechisms, the genuineness of at least some of the latter being taken for granted; the other is to study the reaction of the Craft to the publication of the printed catechisms. A third method of approaching the problem, which may suggest itself to the reader, would be to trace possible similarities between early printed catechisms and modern ritual. That, however, would be inconclusive, because, supposing similarities could be traced, it would be uncertain whether the elements in question existed in masonry prior to 1723 (when the first catechism was printed), or whether they had been introduced into freemasonry at a later date, possibly as a result of influence exercised by the publication of the catechisms. Conversely, supposing no similarities could be traced, it would be no proof that the printed catechisms were unauthentic. They might give a correct picture of early eighteenth-century working, which had been so modified in the course of two centuries as to be no longer recognizable in the light of modern ritual.

Relationship of printed to MS. catechisms. A careful perusal first of the MS. catechisms and then of the printed catechisms printed below cannot fail to leave on the mind of the reader a general impression of similarity or affinity, many of the questions and answers of the MS.

Authenticity of the Printed Catechisms
or to instruct, the masons present, just as the Mason Charter, or Aberdeen MS., to judge by the heading in the Mark Book of the Lodge of Aberdeen. A discourse had before a Meeting of Meassones commonly called the Meason Charter was read or recited at each meeting of the Lodge. Nevertheless it is to "the forme of givinge the mason word", or what corresponds to that in the printed catechisms, that we must look for an indication of the ceremony of admission, and on that subject the printed catechisms are hardly more explicit than the MS. catechisms. It is not improbable that the ceremonies of admitting accepted masons were still in a somewhat fluid condition as late as 1730, and that they consisted partly at least of addresses, or charges, or explanations, which had not as yet become stereotyped. Taking everything into account, we are disposed to think that versions of the MS. catechisms, rather than any actual ceremonies of admission, served as a basis for the printed catechisms.

With this suggestion in mind, two of the printed catechisms may be examined more closely. It so happens that two manuscript versions of the printed catechism, The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover’d, 1724, have survived, viz., Institution of Free Masons, of the first half of the eighteenth century, and the first part of the Essex MS. of c. 1750. The text of the Institution differs in so many respects from that of the Grand Mystery, as a study of the two documents printed below will show, that we can have no hesitation in saying that the manuscript version was not copied from the printed version, or vice versa, and in the opinion of Bro. Poole (A.Q.C., xxxvii, ro) the same is true of the first part of the Essex MS. All three are doubtless descended from a common ancestor, though the exact line of descent has not been determined. It seems, however, safe to conclude that the printed version was based on a pre-existing manuscript version. Similarly, there have survived two manuscript versions of the printed catechism, The Whole Institutions of Free-Masons Opened, 1725, viz., the masonic examination contained in the Graham MS., 1726, and the second part of the Essex MS. of c. 1750. Whilst there is a good deal that is common to all three, there are features common to the Graham and the Whole institutions only, and there are others common to the Graham and the Essex only, whilst the Graham has some questions and answers which do not occur in either of the other two. Thus it seems probable that none of the three was copied from the other two, but that all three are descended from a common ancestor, presumably manuscript. What was almost certainly true of the Grand Mystery and of the Whole Institutions being copies of pre-existing MS. catechisms, was probably true of A Mason’s Examination, to judge by the two blanks in the printed version, and of the other printed catechisms. The problem of the extent to which the manuscript and printed catechisms reflect the ceremony of admitting an accepted or speculative mason is discussed in a later section of this Introduction.

Reaction of the Craft to the publication of the Catechisms. I. With regard to A Mason’s Examination, printed in the Post-Boy of April 11-13, 1723, we have the following statement made in The Free-Masons Accusation and Defence (pp. 35-6), a pamphlet published in 1726:

I remember, when I was last in Town, there was a Specimen of their Examinations published in the Post-Boy; but so industrious were the Masons to suppress it, that in a Week's time not one of the Papers was to be found; where-ever they saw 'em they made away with them. They went from Coffee-house to Coffee-house, and tore them privately out of the Books. Those they could not come at so easily they bought, even at the extravagant Price of as. 6d. and 5s. a Paper. By this means there is hardly one to be met with...

The Free-Masons were prodigiously nettled at the Publication of this Post-Boy: yet, according to their wonted Assurance, they put a good Face on the Matter, and said there was nothing in it; but, at the same time, huddled up the Affair with all the Privacy imaginable; and presently put out a sham Discovery to invalidate the other. But you may depend upon it, that in the Post-Boy is a genuine Discovery...

As the object of the pamphlet was to injure the Fraternity, the statements must be accepted with reserve. The semi-official attitude of the Craft towards the catechism and a possible sham discovery is probably reflected in the last stanza of the swordbearer’s song, printed in Anderson's Constitutions of 1738:

Then let us laugh, since we've impos'd
On those who make a Pother,

1 We quote from the reproduction in Leics. Reprints. iii.

2 Possibly a reference to the Briscoe pamphlet, which, notwithstanding its title, The Secret History of the Free-Masons. Bein an Accidental Discovery of the Ceremonies made use of in the several Lodges [1-2s], gives no account of any ceremonies, and is primarily a version of the Old Charges, and a criticism of Anderson's Constitutions.
Introduction

And cry, the Secret is disclos'd
By some false-hearted Brother:
The mighty Secret's gain'd, they boast,
From Post-Boy and from Flying-Boy (? Post1).

2. The publication of The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Dis-cover'd, which was advertised for sale on 10 January 1723/4, possibly led to the appearance of an anonymous letter on The Sisterhood of Free Sempstresses, printed in Read's Weekly Journal of 25 January 1723/4. It is a mock parallel between the Brotherhood of Freemasons and the Sisterhood of Free Sempstresses. Lepper and Crossle (p. 446) describe it as a travesty which professes to ridicule the Grand Mystery, but we have to confess that apart from the date of its publication (and that may be quite fortuitous) we can find nothing to connect it with the Grand Mystery; it does not give us the impression of being a caricature of an intended exposure of freemasonry, but rather of being a skit on freemasonry and on women. However that may be, we print it among the Possible Rejoinders, so that the reader may form his own opinion of the nature of the document.

In 1724, also, probably in August, there appeared in Dublin A Letter from the Grand Mistress of Female Free-Masons, an anonymous pamphlet described by Chetwode Crawley (Introductory Chapter to Sadler's Masonic Reprints) and by Lepper and Crossle (p. 446) as a caricature of the Grand Mystery. Most of their comments are devoted to the problem of the authorship of the pamphlet (see our Introductory Note to the text, p. 229 below), and they rather take its nature for granted. Our immediate problem is (i) whether it is a travesty of a so-called exposure of freemasonry; (ii) if so, whether that exposure was the Grand Mystery; or (iii) whether it was a sham disclosure; or (iv) whether it was intended as a genuine exposure.

About one-third of the way through the pamphlet there is a short paragraph which refers to a publication issued to mislead the public:

It is worth observing, that a certain Lodge in Town Publish'd sometime ago a Sheet full of Mock Masonry, purely to puzzle and banter the Town, with several false Signs and Words as Macla or Adam, Writ backwards, Boas, Nimrod, Jakins, Pectoral, Gutteral, &c. . . .

This description does not apply very aptly to the Grand Mystery, or to the only other exposure printed before August 1724 with which we are acquainted, viz., A Mason's Examination. On the other hand, it might be a reference to the sham discovery put out by the freemasons, according to The Free-Masons Accusation and Defence (see p. 53 above), shortly after the appearance of A Mason's Examination, in April 1723. We have suggested in a footnote on p. 13 that this sham discovery was possibly the anonymous Briscoe pamphlet. As that included a version of the MS. Constitutions of Masonry, it embodied an historical or legendary account of masonry, and this might explain why the Letter devoted so much space to the history of masonry. The Briscoe pamphlet also contains numerous signs; on the other hand, it contains no words, and was not issued as a sheet so far as we are aware. If the Letter is a rejoinder to an exposure, or to a mock disclosure, printed in or before August 1724, we do not think that it was aimed at the Grand Mystery, or even at the Briscoe pamphlet, but rather at some document as yet undiscovered. The various documents to which we have just referred by name were all printed in London. As, however, the Letter was published in Dublin, it may well be that the ' Town ' mentioned in the early part of the paragraph quoted, as the seat of the Lodge which published " a sheet full of Mock-Masonry ", was not London, but Dublin. In that case, the sheet was probably printed in Dublin and remains undiscovered, as no such Irish sham discovery, or tease, as it would have been called in the eighteenth century, has been traced to our knowledge.

The early part of the Letter, which states that freemasons refuse to swear by the New Testament, is possibly a reference to the fact that the Christian basis of freemasonry had been affected by deistic doctrine (see our Freemasonry and the Idea of Natural Religion), though there is no reason to suppose that the deistic attitude was more favourable to the Old Testament than to the New. Some reference may be intended to the admission of Jews into the Craft. The historical matter at which fun is poked could be found not only in the Briscoe pamphlet of 1724, but also in the Roberts Constitutions of 1722, and in Anderson's Constitutions of 1723, or in almost any version of the MS. Constitutions of Masonry. On the other hand, it is not until 1726 that we find a printed catechism, The Grand Mystery Laid Open, stressing the connection between masonry and the Cab-bala. In view of the fact, however, that nothing is known of the " sheet full of MockMasonry " referred to in the Letter, it is impossible to say with any certainty whether it was written with the object of making fun of that particular sheet, or of some other undiscovered document of a similar kind, or whether it was merely a sham discovery or tease the publication of which was suggested by the appearance of such a sheet. In certain respects the Letter appears to be a parody of contemporary popular ideas concerning freemasonry, though it is perhaps noteworthy that it does not parody 'The Free-Masons Song', it prints correctly, but wrongly attributes to Anderson instead of to Matthew Birkhead, who is clearly stated in Anderson's Constitutions to be the author of the song, there printed under the title "The Enter'd Prentices Song". This rather suggests that the writer of the Letter had never seen a copy of Anderson's Constitutions, which does not make the problem of the elucidation of the Letter and its authorship any easier. Nevertheless, we think it may be a sham disclosure, interlarded with some elements of truth, intended to mislead the general public. For example, it is quite possible that the episode of the Lodge at Omagh may actually have occurred, i.e., that some masons got so drunk in their tavern at Omagh that they could not complete an admission ceremony. On the other hand, the possibility that the Letter was intended as a genuine discovery of masonic secrets cannot be excluded, even though it does not take the usual form of a Catechism. On the whole, as between a sham disclosure and a supposed genuine discovery of masonic secrets, we are inclined to favour the former solution. As between a sham disclosure (conceivably inspired by the publication of a sheet full of mock masonry) and the travesty of a mock disclosure so far undiscovered, the distinction may be more apparent than real. For want of any certainty as to the true character of the Letter, we print it among the Possible Rejoinders.

It was probably in the following year, 1725, that there was printed, also in Dublin, an anonymous and undated broadsheet, The Free-Masons Vindication, being an Answer to a Scandalous Libel, entitled the Grand Mystery of the Free Masons, discover'd. This definite rejoinder to the Grand Mystery was professedly by a freemason; whether the author of the Letter from the Grand Mistress was a freemason is uncertain; the Sisterhood of Free Semprstresses, whatever its connection, if any, with the Grand Mystery, gives the impression of being the fantasy of a journalist seeking to fill a gap in a newspaper. Even if these documents were all three written by freemasons, they were clearly unofficial publications.

1 It originally appeared as "The Free Masons Health" in Read's Weekly Journal, December 1, 1722.

3. The Mystery of Free-Masonry, printed in the Daily Journal, 15 August 1730, led Grand Lodge to take action, as is shown by the following extract from the minutes of Grand Lodge, under date of 28 August 1730 (Q.C.A., x, 128):

Dr. Desaguliers stood up and (taking Notice of a printed Paper lately published and dispersed about the Town, and since inserted in the News Papers, pretending to discover and reveal the Misteries of the Craft of Masonry) recommended several things to the Consideration of the Grand Lodge, particularly the Resolution of the last Quarterly Communication for preventing any false Brethren being admitted into regular Lodges and such as call themselves Honorary Masons.

The Deputy Grand Master seconded the Doctor and proposed several Rules to the Grand Lodge to be observed in their respective Lodges for their Security against ail open and Secret Enemies to the Craft.

Neither the Resolution referred to by Dr. Desaguliers, nor the Rules' proposed by the Deputy Grand Master, are recorded in the minutes of Grand Lodge.

4. The publication of Prichard's Masonry Dissected in October 1730 is also referred to in the minutes of Grand Lodge, under date of 15 December 1730 (Q.C.A., x, 135-6):

The Deputy Grand Master took notice of a Pamphlet lately published by one Pritchard who pretends to have been made a regular Mason: In Violation of the Obligation of a Mason wth he sweats he has broke in order to do hurt to Masonry and expressing himself with the utmost Indignation against both him (stiling him an Impostor) and of his Book as a foolish thing not to be regarded. But in order to prevent the Lodges being imposed upon by false Brethren or Impostors: Proposed till otherwise Ordered by the Grand Lodge, that no Person whatsoever should be admitted into Lodges unless some Member of the Lodge then prevent would vouch for such visiting Brothers being a regular Mason, and the Member's Name to be entred against the Visitor's Name in the Lodge Book, which Proposal was unanimously agreed to.

On the same day, 15 December 1730, there was announced in the Daily Post the publication "thi, day" of a reply to Prichard's pamphlet, viz., A Defence of Masonry, occasioned by a Pamphlet called Masonry Dissected. This anonymous pamphlet was reprinted in Anderson's Constitutions of 1738 and in Smith's Pocket Companion of the same year, so that it must be regarded as enjoying at least semi-official approval. There was also published in 1730, probably prior to the appearance, of A Defence of Masonry, another anonymous reply to Prichard, viz., The Perjur'd Free Mason Detected. We print the three definite rejoinders to early catechisms immediately following the last of the catechisms.

The two lines of approach to the problem of the authenticity of the printed catechisms, viz., the relation of the printed to the MS. catechisms, and the reaction of the Craft to the publication of the catechisms, both suggest that the printed catechisms deserve a good deal more study than Gould would have us believe when he wrote (A.Q.C., iv, 34) > and the reaction of the Craft to the publication of the catechisms, both suggest that the printed catechisms deserve a good deal more study than Gould would have us believe when he wrote (A.Q.C., iv, 34)

Of one and all of these publications, it may be safely affirmed that the only persons who at any time have been deceived by them, were the extremely credulous purchasers upon whom they were palmed off as genuine revelations.

CLASSIFICATION OF THE EARLY CATECHISMS

Whereas the hundred or so versions of the Old Charges (apart from half a dozen sundry versions) have been grouped into eight families, of which only the Regius MS. is in a class by itself, the sixteen catechisms with which we are concerned, or eighteen if we count the two catechisms of the Essex MS., and the two catechisms of the Chesham MS. separately, do not appear to lend themselves to any simple system of classification: they are characterized far more by differences than by similarities. The exceptions appear to be as follows: (i) The Edinburgh Register House MS. and the Chetwode Crawley MS. are closely related, though the second part of the one comes first in the other, and vice versa. Of the questions and answers, two-thirds are exactly alike, and one-third approximately so, apart from one question and answer in the former MS. which has no counterpart in the latter MS. The form of giving the Mason Word, as set out in the two MSS., is very similar, though not identical. (ii) The masonic questions and answers in the Graham MS. have a close affinity to the catechism in The Whole Institutions of Free-Masons Opened, and to that in the second part of the Essex MS. On the other hand, the legendary matter of the Graham MS. bears little resemblance to that in any other masonic document so far discovered.

The Kevan MS. should be included under (i) below and under I on page 19. [Ed. and edn.].

---

(iii) The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd, the Institution of Free Masons, and the first part of the Essex MS. are almost certainly descended from a common ancestor, as stated above (see p. 12).

(iv) The Mystery of Free-Masonry appears to be almost exactly copied in the first part of the Chesham MS. (v) Prichard's Masonry Dissected would seem to have served as the original for the second part of the Chesham MS. Apart from these five groups, comprising twelve documents, there are six other catechisms, Sloane MS. 3329, Dumfries No. 4 MS., Trinity College, Dublin, MS., A Mason's Examination, The Grand Mystery Laid Open, and A Mason's Confession, none of which bears a close affinity to any other known document. At the present time there is not sufficient material available to formulate a satisfactory classification.

EVOLUTION OF THE EARLY CATECHISMS

As the development of operative into speculative masonry was almost certainly slow, extending over several generations, it would be unreasonable to expect to be able to trace much development in the early catechisms during such a short period as the thirty-four years from 1696 to 1730. If, however, our former suggestion (see p. 9 above) is borne in mind, that the Edinburgh Register House and Chetwode Crawley MSS. possibly represent an operative working which existed some decades before the date at which the documents were written, it will be realized that the catechisms printed in this volume may provide evidence relating to a longer period than thirty-four years. Further, it so happens that whereas The Mystery of Free-Masonry, published in August 1730, still resembles fairly closely the earlier printed catechisms, Prichard's Masonry Dissected, published in October 1730, is the first of a new and more elaborate type of catechism. Thus our documents can be divided into four groups:

The Edinburgh Register House and Chetwode Crawley MSS. not improbably represent Scottish operative working in the later decades of the seventeenth century. Four features of these catechisms, which tend to disappear in those belonging to later groups, are (i) the words of entry [found only in A Mason's Confession]; (ii) allusions to horseplay [found only in A Mason's Examination]; (iii) reference to the Mason Word [found only in A Mason's Confession and in Sloane MS.3329]; and (iv) the distinction between those who have been in the kitchen and those who have been in the hall [found only Pennell in 1730, in his Irish edition of the Constitutions, published, according to Chetwode Crawley, a few weeks before Masonry Dissected, refers to three degrees, viz., those of (a) Brother Entered Apprentice, (b) Fellow-Craft, and (c) Master, but gives no indication as to how the working was divided. In a speech delivered on 27 December 1726, Francis Drake, Junior Grand Warden of the Grand Lodge of All England at York, states that "three parts in four of the whole earth might be divided into E.P., F.C. and M.M.", which suggests the existence of three degrees. The Graham MS. of 1726 refers to (a) entering, (b) passing, and (c) raising and conforming candidates by three several lodges. From the minute book of the Philo-Musicae et Architecturae Societas we learn that certain persans were (a) made masons, (b) passed fellow crafts and (c) passed masters in London in 1726. The Sloane MS. 3329 of c. 1700 defines a just and perfect lodge as consisting of three classes of mason, each with its own secrets, but makes no attempt to divide the working into three. (iii) The earlier catechisms either give a description or narrative of the ceremony (or form of giving the Mason Word) together with test questions and answers, or omit any description of the ceremony and content themselves with test questions and answers from which very little or any idea of the nature of the ceremony can be deduced. Prichard's Masonry Dissected, on the other hand, omits the independent descriptive section, but introduces what is more or less an account of the ceremonies into the questions and answers. Although these are a good deal fuller than in any previous catechism, they still retain the form of questions addressed to someone who has already been admitted, and answers rehearsing what happened at a ceremony of admission. The account they give of the ceremonies may be more or less correct, so far as it goes, but we are of opinion that in any case it is not a complete account of the ceremonies. Like the other early catechisms, it contains, for example, no reference to a prayer, or to a charge to newly admitted brethren, botte of which, there is reason to believe, formed part of the ceremonies. The nature of the rites of accepted or early speculative masons is discussed in the following section.
Murray Lyon has described Desaguliers as the co-fabricator and pioneer of the system of symbolical masonry. Again, both Begemann and Vibert have questioned Anderson's claim that the manner of constituting a new lodge and of installing a master (as given in his Constitutions) was "according to the ancient Usages of Masons", which seems to imply that they attribute the invention of the ceremony to Anderson or his contemporaries. This conception of how masonic changes came about appears, however, to be contrary to the weight of the available evidence, which points to the transition from operative to speculative masonry being a slow growth extending over several generations. Developments which can first definitely be traced c. 1730 almost certainly had roots back in the late seventeenth century, and possibly earlier. We have already indicated that Prichard was not the fabricator of the trigradal system, although his Masonry Dissected is the earliest known catechism to give a fully-fledged division of masonic working into three ceremonies. Similarly, we do not think that Anderson was the inventor of the Installation Ceremony first described in his Constitutions of 1723 (see p. 26, below). Nor do we think that Pennell was the composer of the following opening prayer, which has first been traced in his Constitutions of 1730:

MOST Holy and Glorious LORD GOD, thou great Architect of Heaven and Earth, who art the Giver of all good Gifts and Graces; and hast promised that where two or three are gathered together in thy Name, thou wilt be in the midst of them; in thy Name I assemble and meet together, most humbly beseeching thee to bless us in all our undertakings, to give us thy Holy Spirit, to enlighten our Minds, with Wisdom and Understanding, that we may know, and serve thee aright, that all our doings may tend to thy Glory, and the Salvation of our Souls.

And we beseech thee, O LORD GOD, to bless this our undertaking, and grant that this, our new Brother, when any may dedicate his Life to thy Service, and be a true and faithful Man, may be made.

Brother among us, endue him with Divine Wisdom, that he may, with the Secrets of Masonry, be able to unfold the Mysteries of Godliness and Christianity.

This we humbly beg in the Name and for the Sake of JESUS CHRIST our LORD and SAVIOUR. AMEN.

Nor do we think that 'W. Smith' was the compiler of the following if the catechism contained in Prichard's Masonry Dissected, the Prayer contained in Pennell's Constitutions, and the Charge to new admitted Brethren' printed in Smith's Pocket Companion are any guide to contemporary practice. This, to some extent at least, they must be, as Pennell's publication was the acknowledged Book of Constitutions of the Grand Lodge of Ireland, and as the Dublin edition of Smith's Pocket Companion, published in 1735, contains an approbation by the Grand Lodge of Ireland. It is true that the evidence is Irish and not English, but until about 1735 English and Irish masonry would appear to have been practically identical. If, as we are firmly convinced, the transition from the operative rites of c. 1685 to the accepted rites of c. 1735 was a gradual evolution and not a sudden revolution, then a prayer and a charge, which in one form appeared in the rites of c. 1685 and in another form appeared in the rites of c. 1735, had undoubtedly in some shape or other, played their part in masonic ceremonies in the intervening years. Consequently, we hold that Prichard's Masonry Dissected and the other early catechisms, which contain neither prayer nor charge, do not give a complete picture of masonic ceremonies in 1730, even if they are reliable in other respects.
By 1735 the ceremony of acceptante had undergone great changes,

In the interval between c. 1680 and c. 1730, accepted masons gradually introduced various modifications into the ceremonies. The changes, however, were by no means completed by 1730, and the process of expansion and evolution went on right through the eighteenth century. Among the changes gradually introduced were the division of the esoteric knowledge, and subsequently of the whole ritual, into three parts; the elaboration of the opening prayer; and the recasting and re-orientation of the charges of the MS. Constitutions. The extent to which changes had been effected in these particular directions by c. 1730, though not the extent to which they had been adopted, can be traced from the surviving evidence. There is, however, at least one other modification of operative ritual which may very well have been introduced before 1730, but in support of which no direct evidence can be quoted. We refer to the possibility that some observations concerning charity were addressed to the candidate on his admission. The only reference to charity contained in most versions of the MS. Constitutions is the charge to receive and cherish strange masons, either by setting them to work for at least a fortnight, or by refreshing them with money to the next lodge. On the other hand, the Statutes of 1670 become a Proficient therein, both for his own Credit, and for that of the Lodge.

He is not to neglect his own necessary Avocations for the sake of MASONRY, nor to involve himself in Quarrels with those who through Ignorance may speak evil of, or ridicule it.

He is to be a Lover of the Arts and Sciences, and to take all Opportunities of improving himself therein.

If he recommends a Friend to be made a Mason, he must vouch him to be such as he really believes will conform to the aforesaid Duties, lest by his Misconduct at any Time the Lodge should pass under some evil Imputations. Nothing can prove more shocking to all faithful MASONs, than to see any of their Brethren profane or break through the sacred Rules of their Order, and such as can do it they wish had never been admitted.

As indicated in a previous section, early operative working in Scotland consisted of (a) the reading of a version of the MS. Constitutions of Masonry, or Old Charges, including an Opening Prayer, (b) the communication of the Mason Word and all thereby implied, and possibly (c) a rehearsal of the questions and answers used to test those who claimed to have the Mason Word. Gentleman masons in Scotland were received into lodges of operative masons with the same ceremonies as working masons, except that usually they were admitted Entered Apprentices, and Fellow Crafts or Masters on one and the same occasion. Gentleman masons in England were originally received into lodges of accepted masons with similar ceremonies to those which prevailed in lodges of operative masons in Scotland, the reading of a version of the Old Charges being an essential element. In the case of the occasional or semi-permanent lodges of accepted masons which have been traced in the seventeenth or early eighteenth century in London and at Warrington, Chester, York and Scarborough, there is some evidence to suggest that a version of the MS. Constitutions played a part in the ceremony of admission. The fact that numerous versions of the Old Charges were copied in the last quarter of the seventeenth and the first quarter of the eighteenth centuries, and the reference in Plot's Natural History of Staffordshire to the fact that members of the Society of Freemasons had a large volume containing the history and rules of the craft of masonry, both point to the importance attached to the Old Charges by the accepted masons.

By 1735 the ceremony of acceptante had undergone great changes, of the Lodge of Aberdeen contain regulations about the Mason Box for the support of distressed brethren, and Dumfries No. 4 M.S., of the early eighteenth century, enjoins operative masons to relieve the poor. That the operative masons' practice of relieving brethren in distress had been adopted by the accepted masons as early as the 1680's is suggested by Aubrey's statement of 1686 that "when any of them fall into decay, the brotherhood is to relieve him." There is also a reference in the Dublin Tripos of 1688 to the help given to a reduced brother by the Fraternity of Freemasons in and about Trinity College. In the early days of Grand Lodge, as we learn from the Constitutions of 1723, every candidate had to make a voluntary contribution, in addition to the small allowance stated in the by-laws of the particular lodge, for the relief of indigent and decayed brethren, and it seems not merely possible, but almost probable, that some reference to charity was made when a candidate was admitted. Thus in this respect, also, the early catechisms probably do not reflect accurately the ceremony of acceptance.

As the manner of constituting a new lodge and of installing the master (contained in a Postscript to Anderson's Constitutions of 1723) is the earliest official account we possess of a masonic ceremony, we reprint it here in full:

A New Lodge, for avoiding many Irregularities, should be solemnly constituted by the Grand-Master, with his Deputy and Wardens; or in the Grand-Master's Absence, the Deputy shall act for his Worship, and shall chuse some Master of a Lodge to assist him; or in case the Deputy is absent, the Grand-Master shall call forth some Master of a Lodge to act as Deputy pro tempore.

The Candidates, or the new Master and Wardens, being yet among the Fellow-Craft, the Grand-Master shall ask his Deputy if he has examin'd them, and finds the Candidate Master well skil'd in the noble Science and the royal Art, and duly instructed in our Mysteries, &c.

And the Deputy answering in the affirmative, he shall (by the Grand-Master's Order) take the Candidate from among his Fellows, and present him to the Grand-Master; saying, Right worshipful Grand-Master, the Brethren here desire to be form'd into a new Lodge; and I present this my worthy Brother to be their Master, whom I know to be of good Morais and 1 John Aubrey, Natural History of Wiltshire.

2 See Sadler, Masonic Reprints, introductory chapter by W.J. Chetwode Crawley.

accepted or Early Speculative Ceremonies

Then the Grand-Master, placing the Candidate on his left Hand, having ask'd and obtain'd the unanimous Consent of all the Brethren, shall say; I constitute and form these good Brothers into a new Lodge, and appoint you the Master of it. Not doubting of your Capacity and Care to preserve the Cement of the Lodge, &c. with some other Expressions that are proper and usual on that Occasion, but not proper to be written.

Upon this the Deputy shall rehearse the Charges of a Master, and the Grand-Master shall ask the Candidate, saying, Do you submit to these Charges, as Masters have done in all Ages? And the Candidate signifying his cordial Submission thereunto, the Grand-Master shall, by certain significant Ceremonies and ancient Usages, install him, and present him with the Constitutions, the Lodge-Book, and the Instruments of his Office, not all together, but one after another; and after each of them, the Grand-Master, or his Deputy, shall rehearse the short and pithy Charge that is suitable to the thing presented.

After this, the Members of this new Lodge, bowing all togethet to the Grand-Master, shall return his Worship Thanks, and immediately do their Homage to their new Master, and signify their Promise of Subjection and Obedience to him by the usual Congratulations.

The Deputy and the Grand-Warden, and any other Brethren present, that are not Members of this new Lodge, shall next congratulate the new Master; and he shall return his becoming Acknowledgments to the Grand-Master first, and to the rest in their Order.

Then the Grand-Master desires the new Master to enter immediately upon the Exercise of his Office, in chusing his Wardens: And the New Master calling forth two Fellow-Craft, presents them to the Grand-Master for his Approbation, and to the new Lodge for their Consent. And that being granted,

The senior or junior Grand-Warden, or some Brother for him, shall rehearse the Charges of Wardens; and the Candidates being solemnly ask'd by the new Master, shall signify their Submission thereunto.

Upon which the New Master, presenting them with the Instruments of their Office, shall, in due Form, install them in their proper Places; and the Brethren of that new Lodge shall signify their Obedience to the new Wardens by the usual Congratulations.

The general impression left on the mind of the reader by this description is that of dignified proceedings, very different from the ceremonies depicted in the earliest catechisms, with their "thousand ridiculous postures and grimaces" to frighten the candidate. It is, consequently, yet another piece of evidence which makes us doubt whether the catechisms accurately reflect the character of the ceremonies by the accepted masons. This account of the installation ceremony contains the first allusion known to us to "the Charges of a Master" (possibly the prototype either of the Antient Charges read by the Secretary to the Master Elect prior to his Installation, or of what is now called the Address to the Master), to the "Charges of Wardens" (possibly the prototype of what is now called the Address to the Wardens), and to "the short and pithy charge that is suitable to the thing presented," which was to accompany the presentation of each of the instruments of office (the forerunner, possibly, of the practice of moralizing upon the working tools on occasions when they are presented to candidates). It is not impossible that this practice had been introduced by accepted masons at an earlier date, as the use of tools by freemasons is referred to by Randle Holme the third in a well-known passage in his Academie of Armory, published in 1688, though he does not indicate what the tools were, or how they were used. A much earlier reference to freemasons' tools occurs in the London Freemasons' Ordinances of 1509-10, where it is provided that the Wardens of the Freemasons shall have the power of search "with these ordinances that is to say plumme rule compass levell & squyer." As the ordinances were concerned with the proper length, breadth and thickness of freestone, marblestone and hardstone, the presumption is that the tools were to be used, not figuratively, but operatively, to test the stones in question. From Thomas Deloney, The Gentle Craft, London, 1597, we learn that the Brotherhood of Shoemakers required its journeyman members to be able to reckon up their tools in rhyme. It is, therefore, always conceivable that the operative masons at the end of the sixteenth century, or even earlier, had a somewhat similar custom, and that the practice was adopted and elaborated by the accepted masons. The fact, as Bro. Ivor Grantham has pointed out, that the expression used is "the short and pithy charge," and not "a short and pithy charge," seems to imply that the charge referred to was already in existence at the time when Anderson wrote.

Although we think it not unlikely that the double ceremony of constituting a lodge and installing the master, as described by Anderson, represented a considerable elaboration of any pre-existing practice, we do not believe that it was entirely new in 1722. There can be no question that the Lodge of Kilwinning had constituted daughter lodges in the last quarter of the seventeenth century, and the formalities (simple though they may have been) of installing the master of a lodge must have been a more frequent occurrence. If Anderson and his friends, such as Desaguliers and George Payne, were responsible for constructing the ceremony, it would seem unlikely that they would promptly allow it to be dropped out of use by the subordinate lodges under the premier Grand Lodge, as was actually the case. But it would seem even more unlikely that Laurence Dermott and the Grand Lodge of the Antients, who prided themselves on their adherence to old-established usages, would have been so enthusiastic about a ceremony invented by those whom they scornfully designated as the Modems. They doubtless adopted it because it was approved by the Grand Lodge of Ireland, which having been established within a couple of years of the publication of Anderson's Constitutions of 1723, would hardly have been misled by Anderson's claim that it was according to the ancient Usages of Masons", unless there were some grounds for believing that at least certain formalities connected with the installation of a new master had existed before Anderson's time. In any case, it was undoubtedly the lodges of the Antients which worked the installation ceremony until it was re-introduced, early in the nineteenth century, into the lodges under the premier Grand Lodge.

The evidence reviewed in this section appears to support the view that various important changes in masonic working, which can be definitely traced only in the third or fourth decade of the eighteenth century, had actually originated at an earlier period, very possibly in the 1680's, or even somewhat earlier. That considerable modifications of the operative working had probably been introduced by accepted masons by 1686 is also suggested by Aubrey's statement 1 that the mariner of their adoption was very formal, a statement which would not apply very aptly to the somewhat crude practices associated in Scotland in the seventeenth century with the imparting of the Mason Word. Thus taking everything into account, there

2 see J. Heron Lepper, A.Q.C., xli 151-2, who quotes from the 1648 edition.
3 In his comment on "The Genesis of Speculative Masonry," A.Q.C., iv. would seem fairly good grounds for thinking that the early masonic catechisms, written or printed before 1731, however reliable they may be in some respects, do not accurately reflect the character of the ceremonies practised by accepted masons in the first three decades of the eighteenth century.

TREATMENT OF THE TEXTS

The orthography, initial capitals and punctuation (or lack of punctuation) of the MS. catechisms, printed catechisms, and rejoinders have been carefully followed, with the exception that everywhere we print the old-fashioned long f as s. To save space, however, no attempt has been made to follow the lay-out of the originals, either line by line, or page by page. Further, in many cases small paragraphs of a line or two have been run together.

We have printed our transcripts of MS. catechisms in roman type throughout, using capitals for what appear to be headings, however written in the original. Where a particular text has required special treatment, the details are given in the introductory note to that document.

In the case of the printed catechisms and rejoinders, we have made no attempt to imitate the many varieties of type used in title pages, prefaces, etc.; the body of each document is, however, reproduced as in the original.

The catechisms are printed in what we believe to be chronological order; for this purpose Dumfries No. 4 MS. (fairly early eighteenth century) is treated as c. 1710; the Institution of Free Masons (first half of the eighteenth century) as c. 1725; and A Mason’s Confession (printed 1755) as though it were written in 1727, the year to which it daims to relate. The catechisms are followed by the rejoinders, also in chronological order, and they by the possible rejoinders, similarly arranged.

Footnotes occurring in the documents are indicated by asterisks and other signs. For numbered footnotes the Editors are responsible.

---

CATECHISMS

THE EDINBURGH REGISTER HOUSE MS. 1696

This catechism was discovered early in 1930 by Bro. Charles T. Mclnnes in the Old Register House, Edinburgh, among a number of old documents transferred in 1808 from the Court of Session, Edinburgh, to the Historical Department of the Register House, but is apparently in no way related to any of the records among which it was found. Apart from this, the early history of the catechism is unknown. It consists of a double sheet of folio paper folded once to form four pages about 7 X 11 ½". The catechism was written on pp. 1, 2 and the top half of p. 3; the document was then folded into six, roughly 7 X 2", and shows considerable signs of use. Across the top of the outside was endorsed "Some Questiones Anent the mason word 1696 ". It is catalogued in the Register House as Miscellaneous Papers No. 52. It was reproduced photographically on a reduced scale (about 3 ½” X 5 ¾ “) in A.Q.C., xliii, in 1932, and printed in Manc. Trans., xxii, in 1933, in both cases with an introduction by Bro. J. Mason Allan, who gave it the name by which it is now known to masonic students. The transcript we print is made from a photostat of the document. See Introduction, pp. 18,19 above; cf. Chetwode Crawley MS.

Treatment of the Text.

In certain cases the writer joins two words together, e.g., ‘aperpend’, ‘aweel’ ‘amaster’; we print such formations as separate words.

SOME QUESTIONES THAT MASONS USE TO PUT TO THOSE WHO HAVE YE WORD BEFORE THEY WILL ACKNOWLEDGE THEM

Quest.1 Are you a mason. Answer yes

Q: 2. How shall I know it ? Ans: you shall know it in time and place convenient. Remark the forsd answer is only to be made when there is company present who are not masons But if there be no such company by, you should answer by signes tokens and other points of my entrie

Q: 3- What is the first point ? Ans: Tell me the first point ile tell you the second, The first is to heill and conceall, second, under no less pain, which is then cutting of your throat, For you most make that sign, when you say that Q: 4 Where was you entered? An: At the honourable lodge.
Q: 5 What makes a true and perfect lodge? An: seven masters, five entered apprentices, a dayes Journey from a burroughs to can without bark of dog or crow of cock.
Q: 6 Does no less make a true and perfect lodge, An: yes five masons and three entered apprentices &c.
Q: 7 Does no less. An: The more the merrier the fewer the better chear.
Q: 8 What is the name of your lodge An: Kilwinning.
Q: 9 How stands your lodge An: east and west as the temple of jerusalem.
Q: 10 Where was the first lodge. An: in the porch of Solomons Temple.
Q: 11 Are there any lights in your lodge An yes three the north east, s w, and eastern passage The one denotes the master mason, the other the warden The third the setter croft.
Q: 12 Are there any jewells in your lodge An: Yes three, Perpend Esler a Square pavement and a broad aval.
Q: 13 where shall I find the key of your lodge, yes [? Ans] Three foot and an half from the lodge door under a perpend esler, and a green divot. But under the lap of my liver where all my secrets of my heart lie.
Q: 14 Which is the key of your lodge. An: a wcel hung tongue.
Q: 15 where lies the key. Ans: In the bone box.

After the masons have examined you by all or some of these Questions and that you have answered them exactly and mad the signes, they will acknowledge you, but not a master mason or fellow croft but only as an apprentice, soe they will say I see you have been in the Kitchine but I know not if you have been in the hall, Ans I have been in the hall as weel as in the kitchine.

Quest 1 Are you a fellow craft Ans yes.
Quest 2 How many points of the fellowship are ther Ans fyve viz foot to foot Knee to Knee Heart to Heart, Hand to Hand and ear to ear. Then make the sign of fellowship and shake hand and you will be acknowledged a true mason. The words are in the 1 of the Kings Ch 7, v, 21. and in 2 chr: ch 3 verse last.

Imprimis you are to take the person to take the word upon his knees and after a great mar y ceremonies to frighten him you make him take up the bible and laying his right hand on it you are to conjure him, to sec[r]ecie, By threatning that if [he] shall break his oath the sun in the firmament will be a witness agst him and all the company then present, which will be an occasion of his damnation and that likewise the masons will be sure to murder him, Then after he hes promised secerecie They give him the oath a[s] follows

By god himself and you shall answer to god when you shall stand nakd before him, at the great day, you shall not reveal any, part of what you shall hear or see at this time whither by word nor write nor put it in wryte at any time nor draw it with the point of a sword, or any other instrument upon the show or sand, nor shall you speak of it but with an entered mason, so help you god.

After he hes taken the oath he is removed out of the company, with the youngest mason, where after he is sufficiently frightened with 1000 ridicolous postures and grimaces, He is to learn from the sd mason the manner of makeing his due guard whis [? = which] is the signe and the postures and words of his entrie which are as follows ffirst when he enters again into the company he must make a ridiculous bow, then the signe and say God bless the honourable company. Then putting off his hat after a very foolish manner only to be demonstrat ed then (as the rest of the signes are likewise) he sayes the words of his entrie which are as follows

Here come I the youngest and last entered apprentice As I am sworn by God and S' Jhon by the Square and compass, and common judge to attend my masters service at the honourable lodge, from munday in the morning till saturday at night and to keep the Keyes therof, under no less pain then haveing my tongue cut out under my chin and of being buried, within the flood mark where no man shall know, then he makes the sign again with drawing his hand under his chin alongst his throat which denotes that it be cut out in case he break his word.

Then all the mason present whisper amongst themselves the word beginning at the youngest till it come to the master mason who gives the word to the entered apprentice.

Now it is to be remarked that all the signes and words as yet spoken of are only what belong to the entered apprentice. But to be a master mason or fellow craft there is more to be done which after follows.

First all the prentices are to be removed out of the company and none suffered to stay but masters.

Then lie who is to be admitted a member of fellowship is putt again to his knees, and gets the oath administered to him of new afterwards he must go out of the company with the youngest mason to learn the postures and signs of fellowship. Then coming in again, He makes the masters sign, and says the same words of entr'ie as the apprentice did only leaving out the common Judge. Then the masons whisper the word among themselves beginning at the youngest as formerly afterwards the youngest mason must advance and put himself into the posture he is to receive the word and says to the eldest mason in whispering:

The worthy masters and honourable company greet you weel, greet you weel, greet you weel.

Then the master gives him the word and grips his hand after the masons way, which is all that is to be done to make him a perfect mason.

ENDORSEMENT

Some Questiones Anent the mason word 1696

MS.: greeet.
him. Then after he hes promosed Secrecy, the[y] give him the Oath as ffollowes.

The words are Jachin and Boaz

By God himself, As yow Shall answer to God, when yow shall stand before him naked at the great day, yow Shall not reveal any part of what yow hear or see at this time, Neither by word nor write, nor put it into write at any time, Nor draw with the point of a Sword or any Instrument, upon the Snow or Sand, Nor shall yow Speak of it, but with an entered Mason, So help, God.

After he hes taken that Oath, he is removed out of the Company with the youngest Mason ; where, after he is, Sufficiently frightened with a Thousand ridiculous postures & Gramacies, he is to learn from the Said Mason, the mariner of making Guard, which is the Sign, Word & Postures of his Entry, and are as follows.

Here am I the youngest & last entered Aprentice, As I am sworn by God and st John, by the Square & Compass, and Common Judge, to attend my Masters Service, at the Honourable Lodge, from Munday in the Morning, to Saturday at Night, and to keep the Kyes thereof, under no less pain, Then to have my Tongue cutt out under my Chin, and of being buried within the flood-Mark, where no man shall know. Then he makes the Sign again, which is by drawing his hand under his Chin, alongst his throat ; which denotes that it is to be cutt out, in case he shall break his word.

Then all the Masons present, whisper amongst themselves the word, begining at the youngest till it come to the Master-Mason, who gives the word to the entered prentice

Now it is to be remarked, that all the Signs & words, as yet Spoken off, are only what belongs to the entered prentice : But to a MasterMason, or fffellow-Craft, there is more to be done, as after follows.

ffirst, All the Apprentices are to be removed out of the Company, and non Suffered to Stay, but only Mason Masters. Then, he who is to be admitted a member of the fffellowship, is put again to his knees, and gets the Oath administrstred to him a-new. Afterwards, he must go out of the Company with the youngest Master to learn the words & Signs of fffellowship Then Comming in again, he makes the Master-Sign, and Says the Same words of Entry as the prentice did, only leaving out the Common Judge. Then the Masons whisper the word amongst themselves, beginni at the youngest, as formerly. Afterwards, The young Master must advance & put himself in the posture wherein he is to receive the word, And says to the Honourable Company, whispering

The Worthy Masons & Honourable Company that I came from, Greet yow well, Greet yow well.

Then the Master Mason gives him the word & grips his hand, and afterwards, all the Masons, which is all to be done to make a perfect Mason.

SOME QUESTIONS THAT MASONS USE TO PUT TO THOSE WHO PROFESS TO HAVE THE MASON WORD, BEFOR THEY WILL ACKNOWLEDGE THEM.

Quest. I. Are yow a Mason ? Ans", Yes indeed that I am
Q. 2d. How shall I know it ? Ans". Yow shall know it in time & place Convenient.
Nota. The foresaid Ans is only to be made where there is a Company present who are not Masons : But if there be no such Company by yow, yow should ans" by Signs & other. Tokens of Entry.

Q. 3d. What is the first point ? Ans". Tell me the first and Ile tell yow the Second. The first is, Hear & Conceal ; The 2d, Under no less pain then the Cutting of the throat : But yow must make the Sign when yow Say this.
Q. 4th. Where was yow entered ? Ans". At the Hon ble Lodge.
Q. 5th. What makes a true perfect Lodge ? Ans". Seven Masters, ffive Apprentices, a days Journey from a Borrows-Towne, without bark of a Dog, or Crow of a Cock.
Q. 6th. Does not less make a true perfect Lodge ? Ans". 4 Masters, 3 Entred prentices, & the rest as formerly.
Q. 7th Does no less ? Ans The moe the Mirrier, and the fewer the better cheer.
Q. 8th. Whats the name of your Lodge ? Ans". The Lodge of Killwinning .
Q. 9th How stands your Lodge ? Ans". East & West, as the Temple of Jerusalem.
Q. 10th. Where was the first Lodge ? Ans". In the porch of Solomons Temple.
Q. 11th. Are there Lights in your Lodge ? Ans". Three, The Northeast, the Southwest, & the Eastern passage. The one Denotes the Master mason, The other the Words and the Third The fffellow-Craft.
Q. 12th. Are there any Jewells in your Lodge? Ans'. Three, Perpendester, a Square pavement and an Broked-mall.

Q. 13th. Where shall I fend the kye of your Lodge? Ans. Three, and an half foots from the Lodge under the perpendester & a Green divot.

Q. 14. What mean yow by a Perpendester and Green-Divott? Ans'. I mean not only under a perpendester and Green divott, but under the lap of my Liver, where all the Secrets of my heart ly hid.

Q. 15. Which is the Kye of youw Lodge? Ans'. A well hung tongue.

Q. 16. Where lyes the Kye of yo’ Lodge? Ans'. In the Bone Box.

After the Masons have Examined yow by all or Some of these Questions, and that yow have answered the Same exactly & made the Sign, they will acknowledge you, Not as a Master-Mason or fellow-Craft, but only as a prentice. So they will furder say.

Q. 17. I see yow have been in the Kitchin, but I know not if you have been in the Hall? Ans'. I have been in the Hall as well as the Kitchin.

Q. 18th. Are yow a fellow-Craft? Ans'. Yes.

Q. 19. How many Points of fellowship are there? Ans’ ffive, viz'. 1st. ffoot to ffoot. Knee to Knee. 31y Heart to Heart. 4th. Hand to Hand. 5th Ear to Ear. These make the Signs of fellowship; And Shaking hands, yow will be acknowledge a very Mason.

Q 20th. Where are the words to be found? Ans' in 1 King. Chap. 7th verse 21. And 2 Chron : 3 Chapter Last verse.

---

THE KEVAN MS., c. 1714-20

This manuscript was discovered in 1954, among a collection of old legal documents, by Bro. P. D. Kevan, a P.M. of Lodge Dramatic and Arts, No. 757, S.C. He presented it to the Library of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, which has granted permission for its reproduction here, and the document is named after its donor.

Provenance. The collection of papers in which this text was found appears to have belonged to a firm of solicitors or Writers practising in Duns, Berwickshire, but it has proved impossible to trace any of its original owners with certainty. The manuscript is undated, and written on a single sheet, 12" X 7 5/16 " paper and ink being slightly browned with age, and the upper right-hand edge of the sheet has frayed or been carelessly trimmed, so that the text runs to the very edge of the paper. Happily, no words of the text have been lost by this accident.

The sheet had at some time been folded in four across the narrow way of the paper, but was subsequently pasted along its left-hand edge to a stout manilla folder, and that was the condition in which it was found. The paper bears an early G.R. watermark, and as George I ascended the throne in 1714, that is the earliest date that could be assigned to this text. Orthography and spelling are consistent with that date, and Mr. A. J. Collins and Dr. Schofield of the MS. Dept. of the British Museum confirm that it was probably written between 1714 and 1724.

The text is closely related to the Edinburgh Register House MS., of 1696 (Edr. Reg. Ho. Misc. MSS. No. 52), and the Chetwode Crawley MS., of c. 1700, but it follows the latter more particularly in the arrangement of its contents, since it begins with the narrative description of the ceremonial procedure and finishes with the catechism, while the Edr. Reg. Ho. MS. has those two portions in reverse order.

These three texts are so much alike in minute detail that it is quite certain that they all purport to describe the same procedure. Nevertheless, it is equally certain that neither of the two earlier documents was copied from the other. The Kevan MS., moreover, exhibits so many variations and omissions from its twin text, the Chetwode Crawley MS., as to show beyond doubt that it was not a copy of that text, although it may well have been compiled from memory of that, or a similar version. It yields nothing new in regard to ceremonial procedure, or in the details of the catechism. Its main importance lies in the confirmation that it brings to the evidential value of this whole group of masonic ritual documents, the earliest of their kind. They may be listed, in approximate date order
The Kevan MS.

The Edinburgh Register House MS., 1696
The Chetwode Crawley MS., c. 1700
The Haughfoot 'fragment', 1702, or earlier
The Kevan MS., c. 1720

Their differences are sufficient to indicate that these are not original versions, but that they doubtless share descent from a common ancestor. Their anxiety, in matters of detail, indicate that the ceremonies and procedures which they describe were fairly standardized and widespread practice in the south of Scotland. The three complete texts all aim to describe The Forme of giving the Mason-Word', and as there are numerous references to the Mason Word' in Scottish literature, from 1637 onwards, it is fairly safe to assume that this group of texts represents the forms and ritual-practices of the Scottish masons from the early decades of the seventeenth century at least.

The text of the Kevan MS. has already been reproduced photographically with brief notes by Bro. G. S. Draffen, R.W. Junior Grand Warden of the Gr. L. of Scotland, in A.Q.C. lvii, p. 139, and in the G.L.S. Year Book for 1955, and I am indebted to him for the physical description of the document and for the notes on provenance, which have been used extensively above. A more detailed examination of the text appears in Carr, Mother Kilwinning No. o, pp. 320-4, where the variations and omissions noted above are traced in relation to the other texts in the group, and the same procedure has been followed in this transcript.

Bro. Draffen noted that the back of the document has been used at some time for recording a series of payments representing rentals or feu duties paid by a number of farmers to their landlord. On one of the external folds, there is an endorsement recording a series of payments representing rentals or feu duties paid by a number of tenants, The Manner of Giving the Mason Worde', and below it a large figure 7 arrangements for storing the document. The transcript we print is from a photograph of the original, and the contractions and superscribed letters (such as w' and q") are reproduced as in the original. H, C.

The Edinburgh Register House MS., 1696

THE FORME OF GIVING THE MASON WORDE

The Persone q' is to geet y' word is put upon his knees," & after a grate many Serimons to frighten him they / make him take up the Bible & Laying his right hand upon it, they Conjure him by Severall thretings y' if he / shall brake his Oath ; The Sun in y' Firmament & all y' Company there present will be witnesstes ag' him q' will be ye occasione of his Damnatione & y' Likewise they' be sure to Murder him : Then after he has sworne secrestie they / wille give him the Oath as Follows /

By : God himselfe & as you shall answer to God q' you shall Stand nacked befor him at ye grate day of Judgment you shall not reveall any poynt of what you shall see or hear at this time neither by word or writing at any time or / draw it w' y' poynct of a Sword or any other instrument upon y' Snow, or Sand, Nor shall you Speake of it but w' an Entered Measone . So helpe me God /

After he has taken the oath he is removed out of y' Company w' y' yowngast Masone, where after he is Sufficiently frightn / ed wt a thousand Grimasses & poystures He is to Learn from y' Sd Mason ye manner of Makeing which is the Signs & Postures 2 of / his q' are as follow Here corne I y' yowngast & Last Entered prentise, as I am sworne by God & St. John by y' Square & Campass / & common Judge to attend my Mrs : service at y' Honourable Lodge from Monday Morning till Setturdays night to keep y' Keys thereof under no Less paine then to have my tounge cut out under my Chinn & to be buryed w'in y' flood marke wher I no man shall know /

Then he makes y' Signe again q' is by Drawing his hand under his Chin alonge his throate q' denotes it is to be Cut in case he broke his worde Then ail y' Masons present whisper the word amongst emselves begining 3 till it / come to y' Mr Masone, q' gives y' worde to the entered Prentise /

Now it is to be Marked y' all y' Signs & words as yet spoken off are only q' belongs to Entered prentises but to a Mr : / Masone or

1 Three words missing. This passage should read : "... manner of Makeing the due guard which is the Signs • • •, etc.
2 Text defective. This passage should read : '. . . Signs Postures and words of his entry which are as follow .
3 Three words omitted here. This passage should read : "... beginning at the youngest till it corne to ye Mr . . .", etc.
fellow craft. First all ye Prentices are to be removed out of the Company & none Suffered to stay but only Mrs: Then q'is to be admitted a member of fellowship is put again to his knees & geets ye oath administered to him anew. Afterward he most go out of the Company w' y' youngest Mr. to Learne the word & Signs of fellowship y' coming, inn again he makes y' Mr Signs of fellowship & says the same words of entry only keeping out y' Coming Judge only whisper the word among emselfes beginning at ye youngest as befors, Afterwards ye younge masone advanceys & puts / him selfe in a posture wherein he is to receive y' word & says to them : The Honourable company y' worthy Masons & / honourable company y' I corne from Greet ye well, Greet ye well, Greete ye well.

Some Questions that Masons use to put to these who profess to have ye Mason word befors they wille Acknowladge them

1 Are you a Masone, Answer Yes endeed that I am
2 How shall I know that Anr : In time and place convenient Note : This answer is only to be made when there / are company present q' are not masons, Bot if there be no such company by you you should answer, by Signs & / tokens & other poynets of Entry
3 What is the first poynet of Entry ? anr : tell me the first & I 'i tell thee the seconed : The first is to hear & Conseal / The Second under no Hell pain Drawing the right Hand from the Left car to the right y" Cutting y Throat

Several words omitted here. This passage should read : "... but to [be] a Mr : Masone or fellow craft there is more to be done as after follows. First, all ye Prentices ...", etc.

2 The word " he " is omitted here.
3 Four words omitted here. This passage should read : "... and says ye same words of entry as the apparende did only keeping out ye Common Judge".
4 " Coming Judge " is usually written as Common Judge, i.e., a gauge or templete used as a guide in cutting stones. Jedge is defined in Jamieson's Scottish Dictionary as a gauge or standard. See Glossary, p. 241.
5 A whole sentence is omitted here, and the two main texts differ slightly —

Edr. Reg. House MS
Then the master gives him the word and gripes his hand after the masons way which is all that is to be done to make him a perfect mason.

Chetwoide Crawley MS
Then the Master Mason gives him the word & grips his hand and after wards, all the Masons, which is all to be done to make a perfect Mason.

6 This passage has been transcribed carelessly, and there is also an important omission. h should read : "... The second under no less pain, [Drawing the right hand from the left car to the right] yn Cutting yr Throat, for you must make that sign when you say that."

1 The Edinburgh text says:"... five masons and three entered apprentices &c ".
2 Should read : " Eastern passage ".
3 Chetwoide here says : " The one Denotes the Master Mason, the other the Words, and the Third The Fellow-Craft ".
4 " Coming Judge " is usually written as Common Judge, i.e., a gauge or templete used as a guide in cutting stones. Jedge is defined in Jamieson's Scottish Dictionary as a gauge or standard. See Glossary, p. 241.
5 A whole sentence is omitted here, and the two main texts differ slightly —

Edr. Reg. House MS
Then the master gives him the word and gripes his hand after the masons way which is all that is to be done to make him a perfect mason.

Chetwoide Crawley MS
Then the Master Mason gives him the word & grips his hand and after wards, all the Masons, which is all to be done to make a perfect Mason.

6 This passage has been transcribed carelessly, and there is also an important omission. h should read : "... The second under no less pain, [Drawing the right hand from the left car to the right] yn Cutting yr Throat, for you must make that sign when you say that."
The Kevan MS.

the Lape of my Liver where all the Secrets of my Hart Lie

15 Which is the Key of your Lodge Anr : A well Hungne tounge

16 Where Lys y' Key ? anr : In The Bone Box

After The Masons have Examened you by all or Some of there Questions & y' / you Have answered em Exactly ; they will acknowledge you as a Prenticer /

But not as a Mason or Fellow Craft /

17 So They will say We see you have been in the Kitchin but know not y' you have been in y' Hall Anr : I have / been in the Hall as well as in the Kitchin /

18 Are you a Fellow Craft Anr : Yes /

19 How many Poynts of Fellowship are there. Anr 5 : Viz: Foot to Foot, Knee to Knee, Harte to / Harte, Hand to Hand, & Ear to Eare, q' make the Signs of Fellowship ; & shake hands, & / You wille be Acknowledged to be a true Mason or / The Worde is in I : Kings 7 : 21 : & in 2 a : Chron 3 d : Last Varse the wholl / Varse but especially the words Jachin & Boaz.

1 Kevan follows Chetwode in questions 13 and 14. Edinburgh makes only one question of the two.

2 Four words omitted here. Text should read : "... answered them exactly and made the sign(s), they will acknowledge . . . ", etc.
their Masters gripe is grasping their right hands in each other placing their four finger's nails hard upon the Carpus or end of others wrists and their thumb nailes thrust liard directly between the second Joynt of the thumb and the third Joynt of the first fin in but some say the mast's grip is the same I last describ'd only each of their middle fingers must reach an inch or three barly comes Length higher to touch upon a vein y comes from the heart.

Another signe is placing their right heel to the inside of their left in forme of a square so walk a few steps backward and forward and at every third step make a little stand placing their feet Square as forme of a square so walk a few steps backward and forward and at receipt of which you must come from what place or company soever you are in by or three barly corners Length higher to touch upon a vein y comes from the heart.

Another signe is by twisting their eyes toward the east and twisting their mouth toward ye east and if it be night or dark they will give two little shakes and a big one. Another signe is knocking at any door two little knocks and the third a big one. They have another signe used at the table drinking when the glass goes not fast enough round they say Star the guile.

To discourse a mason in France, Spaine, or Turkey (say they) the signe is to kneel down on his left knee and. hold up his right hand to the sun and the outlandish brother will presently take him up but believe me if they go on their knees on that account they may remain there; or any persons observe their signes as long as ye Jews will remaine on their beleife to receive their wished for Messias from the East.

Here followeth there private discourse by way of question and answer.

(Question?) are you a mason (Answer) yes I am a freemason (Question) how shall I know that (A) by perfect signes and tokens and the first points of my entrance (Question) which is the first signe or token shew me the first and I will shew you the second (A) the first is heal and conceal or conceal and keep secret by no less paine than cutting my tongue from my throat (Question) where were you made a Mason (A) in a just and perfect or just and lawful lodge (Question) what is a just and perfect or just and lawful lodge (A) a just and perfect lodge is two interprintices two fellow crafts and two masters more or fewer the more the merrier the fewer the better. Clear but if need require five will serve that is two interprintices two fellow crafts and one master on the highest hill or Lowest valley of the world without the crow of a cock or the bark of a dogg. (Question) from whom do you derive your principal? (A) from a greater than you (Question) who is that on earth that is greater than a freemason (A) he was earyed to the highest cockipall of the temple of Jerusalem (Question) whither is your lodge shut or open (A) it is shut (Question) where lies the keys of the lodge doore (A) they lay in a bound case or under a three cornerd pavement about a foot and halfe from the lodge door (Question) what is the keys of your lodge doore made of (A) it is not made of wood stone iron or steel or any sort of mettle but the tongue of a good report behind a brother back as well as before his face (Question) how many Jewles belong. to your Lodge (A) there are three the Square pavem the blazing Star and the Danty tassley (Q) how Long is the Cable rope of your Lodge (A) as Long as from the Lop of the Liver to the root of the tongue (Q) how many Lights are in your Lodge (A) three the sun the master and the Square (Q) how high is your Lodge (A) without foots yards or Inches it reaches to heaven (Q) how Stood your Lodge (A) east and west as all holly Temples Stand (Q) we\textsuperscript{b} is the mast\textsuperscript{ers} place in the Lodge (A) the east place is the mast\textsuperscript{ers} place in the Lodge and the Jewell resteth on him first and he seteth men to worke w\textsuperscript{i} the masters have in the foomoon the wardens reap in the Aftemoon.

In some places they discourse as followeth (Viz\textsuperscript{t})
(Q) where was the word first given (A) at the Tower of Babylon
(Q) where did they first call their Lodge (A) at the holy Chapell of St John (Q) how Stood your Lodge (A) as the said holy Chapell and all other holy Temples Stand (Viz\textsuperscript{t}) east and west (Q) how many lights are in your Lodge (A) two one to see to go in and another to see to work (Q) what were you sworne by (A) by god and the Square
(Q) whither above the Cloathes or und\textsuperscript{er} the C[loathes] (A) und\textsuperscript{er} the Cloathes (Q) und\textsuperscript{er} what Arme (A) und\textsuperscript{er} the right Arme.

God is Gratfull to all Worshipfull Mast\textsuperscript{ers} and fellows in that Worshipfull Lodge from whence me [? we] Last came and to you good fellow is your name (A) J or B. then giving the grip of the hand he will say Broth\textsuperscript{ers} John greet you well you (A) gods good greeting to you dear Brother.

Another salutation is giving the mast\textsuperscript{ers} or fellows grip saying the right worshipfull the mast\textsuperscript{ers} and fellows in that worshipfull Lodge from whence we Last came greet you greet you greet you well, then he will repley Gods good greeting to you dear Brother.

Anoth\textsuperscript{er} they haue called the mast\textsuperscript{ers} word and is Mahabyn which is allways divided into two words and Standing close With their Breasts to each oth\textsuperscript{er} the inside of Each oth\textsuperscript{ers} right Ancle Joynts the mas,ers grip by their right hands and the top of their Left hand fingersthurst close on y\textsuperscript{s} small of each oth\textsuperscript{ers} Backbone and in that posture they Stand till they whisp\textsuperscript{er} in each oth\textsuperscript{ers} eares y\textsuperscript{s} one Maha- the oth\textsuperscript{er} repleys Byn.

\textbf{THE OATH}

The mason word and every thing therein contained you shall keep secr\textsuperscript{et} you shall never put it in writing directly or Indirectly you shall

\[\text{Endorsed in bottom right-hand corner}\]
A Narrative of the Freemasons words & signs
THE DUMFRIES No. 4 MS., c. 1710

This MS. consists of several elements:

1. A sundry version of the MS. Constitutions of Masonry, including an Apprentice Charge. The text is unusually corrupt; as examples of corrupt expressions, mention may be made of leather instead of the usual laterus latress 'laterns' (all corruptions of L. later, burnt bricks, pl. of later, brick); the Temple of Diana 'as the alternative name of the Temple of Jerusalem) instead of the usual Tempel Dei or Templum Domini; minus Greenatus alias Green 'instead of Naymus Grecus 'or some such form. The main departures from the ordinary text are of two types: (i) The introduction of additional scriptural or theological matter, e.g., the Ten Commandments are stated to form part of David's Charges, and also of the first General Charge; Divinity 'as described as one of the Seven Liberal Sciences, and Philosophy 'as another, space being made for them among the seven by omitting Arithmetic, and treating Grammar and Rhetoric as one; injunctions to observe the Sabbath and to avoid obscenity are included among the Charges General. (ii) The introduction into the Charges of homely and practical precepts for operative masons, e.g., a mason is to pay honestly for meat, drink, washing and lodging at the place where he boards; he is to relieve the poor, visit the sick and be affable and kind to widows and the fatherless; he is to avoid drunkenness.

2. A set of Questions and Answers, partly along the lines of other masonic catechisms, and partly of a scriptural type.

3. A stranger's salutation, similar to that incorporated in other catechisms.

4. A set of Questions and Answers concerning the Temple. The treatment of this topic is apparently to some extent connected with a traditional interpretation existing in the early Middle Ages, as found, e.g., in a treatise entitled De Temple Salomonis (Migne, Pat. Lat., vol. xci) and attributed to Bede.

5. A second set of masonic questions and answers supplementing the first set, partly along conventional masonic lines, and partly covering ground not touched upon in other catechisms. It includes a reference to two pillars, the one which would not sink and the other which would not burn. These are doubtless the pillars mentioned in the first section of the document, and in most versions of the MS. Constitutions of Masonry; they are traditionally explained as those on which the Seven Liberal Sciences were carved to keep them from perishing by flood or fire [see our Two Earliest Masonic MSS., pp 39 folg].

6. An account of the two pillars set up by Solomon at the porch of the Temple. This account immediately follows the reference to the other two pillars, with which the MS. appears to confuse them.
A PRAYER OF ADMITANCE

The almighty father of holiness the wisdom of the glorious jesus through the grace of the holy ghost these being three persons in one godhead Qm we Implore to be with us at the begining & give us grace so to govern our selves hear in this mortal life towards him that we may corne to his kingdome that shal never have end Amen

THE PREFACE

Good brethren and fellows our purpose is to let you know in Qt maner this worthy science of masonry Qn & how it began as also how it was Countenanced favoured & adored by the most famous & brave Heroes on earth such as kings princes wt all sorts of intelligent men of high[est] degree & likewise ye charges to all truc & Qualified masons w² they taught to keep wt a truc faith & give good head therto as they would wish to Be Rewarded

THE FORM OF THE OATH

The charges w² now w[e] Rehearse to you wt all othe[r] Charges & secrets otherways belonging to free masons or any that enter their intrest for curiositie together wt the counsels of this holy ludge chamber or hall you shal not for any gift bribe or Reward favouer or affection directly or [in]directly nor for any cause Qtsoever devulge disclose ye same to ether father or mother sister or brother or children or stranger or any person Qtsoever so help you god

THE MANER HOW IT FIRST BEGAN

There ar seven libral sciences ye first is divi[nity] wc teacheth ye logical vertues the 2d is gram[mar] joined to Rhetorick wc teacheth Eloquence & how to speak in subtil tearms ye 3d is philosophy we is loyers of wisdom by w² is brought both ends of a contrdiction to-gether & crocke [d] things made straight black grouen white by A Rule of contrarities &e the 4th is musick yt teacheth songs harps & organs wt all other sort[s] of vocal & instrumentel musick it is to be mi ... y² forsd science hath neither medium nor end ye 5th² is logick y² discovereth truth from falshode & is a guide [to] judges & lawiers y² 6th² is geometry y² teacheth to measure material heavens with al earthly dementions & all things contained yrin ye 7th & last is of the scienceiss astronomy w¹ astrologie yt teacheth to know ye course of y² Su [n] moon & stars ornaments of the heavens y² 7 sciences al suporte by geometry by w² we conclude y¹ science most worthy yt giveth [word omitted in MS.] & aid to the Rest yt is yr is no man yt worketh in any craft but he worketh by some measure & al of geometry for it serves to weight & measure al manner of things on earth especially plughme[n] & tilers of ground for corn & seeds vines & flouers plants & other for non of y² Rest doe serve men to measure without geometrie How this science first began I shal tell before Noahs flood ther was a man called Lamach who had two wives the one Adah & she the sa[i]d Adah brought forth two sons the eldest jabell the other son Jubal & by ye other wife he had a son caled Tubai cain & a daughter caled Naamah & these children found out al y² sciences and crafts in the world Jabel was the eider & found out geometry & kept flocks of sheep & they had lambs in the fields for w¹ he wrought buses of s[t]one & timber as you may find it in the 4th chapter of the geneses & his brother jubal found out the art of musick vocal & instrumentall and the 3d brother found out the art of weaving & handling of the distaff & spindel

These children knew that god would take viengance on the world for sin ei[t]her by fire or water not wt standing they were more curiouse for the benifit of posterity to prefer the science they had invented to their own lives 'Qr for they engraved ye science they had invented on pilers of stone so that they might be found after y² flood y² one stone caled marble which cannot burn with fire Y² other monoment was leath...1 w² cannot be defusd by water than after the flood the greatermorian son tocush & cush was son to ham second son to Noah hermorian was after caled ,the father of wisdom along of ye forsd Pillais he found after the flood w¹ the sciences writen thereon he taught them at y² building of Babylons Tower Qr he was called Nimrod or mightly before y² lord Nimrod profest massonry at the desire of the king neneveh bis cossen y² abou [e] designed Nimrod mad massons & recomended ym to the lord of the lord of the land to build All sorts of buildings yn in fashon & taught y² signs & tokens so that they could distingwish on another from all the rest of mankind on the earth

1 Lane reads leathier.
The Maner of Their Charge

Imprinuus yt they should love on other & serv y’ lord of heaven wt a true & sincer heart to prevent futer vengeance & yt they be honest & up-right & faithfull to the lord y’ impoyer so yt he y’ sd n[j]mrod might have worship & honou[r] By sending yt to him & yt y’ shoul be no circumnvention direction devision disimulation or misaprehensions amongst y’ or any thing like contention least god should make ym dumb as before Qn he confounded y’ Langwiage for yr presumption this was y’ first time yt massons had any care of y’ craft

after this came abrahame together with sarah his wife into egypt & y’ he taught y’ seven sciences to y’ egypytians & y’ he had in Egypt a worthy scholar who proved y’ glory of yt age his name Eucladas this sd young man improved his talent so yt he exceeded all y’ artises yn on earth & abraham tooke delight in him for y’ he was a Great proficieint & proclaimed all Luter events to y’ unthinking multitude and it befel in his days yt ye lords and stats of yt land had so many sons yt they had begotten some by other wives & ladies of y’ Realm for egypt was yn a plenished & stats of y e land was sore troubled in Qt maner to provide for the children And y’ king of y’ land came a parliment to consult how they might furnish ym but could find ne prospect of y’ thing but caused a proclamation to be made through out y’ Realm if y’ Qr any man yt could inform w e way to dispose of y’ young men he should b[e] Rewarded for his pains & trouble after the cry or proclamation came y’ worthy docter Eucladas & said to y’ King & bis lords if you wil give me your children to Govern & teach as gentle men ought to be taught And y’ you grant ym & me a competent portion yt I may Rule & teach them according to yr Qualite & yt I may order ym as y’ science Requireth And y’ king granted it & sealed ym in a charter & yn y’ worthy clark Eucladas took y’ lords sons & taught ym in y’ science Geomitrie to work in all maner of worthy work in stone temple churches cloysters cities pirimides towers & all other worthy buildings of stone & he put ym in orders and taught them to know one another truly & confirmed Nimrods maners to ym & yt they should Love onanother truly & keep y’ law of god written on y’ hearts & yt they should be true to y’ king of y’ Realm & above all keep y’ secrets of y’ lodge &

1 illegible word written above the line.
Timber for his work & likewise send him an artist in whom was the spirit of wisdom. His mother was of the tribe of Naphtali and his father a man of Tyre. His name was Hiram, the world has not produced his equal to this day. He was a master mason of exquisite knowledge and generosity, and was master mason of all the buildings and bulwarks of the temple and master of all the graven and carved works in and about the temple as is written in the first of the kings in the 6th chapter and 7th chapter of the words. And Solomon confirmed both charges and manners of his father David, and he gave to the masters and was a worthy craft of masonry confirmed in the country of Jerusalem and Palistin. And many other kingdoms craftsmen walked abroad and came to learn more art, and some were qualified to teach others and inform the ignorant. So that about this time, the curious mason Minus Greenatus alias Green, who had been building Solomon's Temple into the realm of France, and taught the art of masonry to the sons of art in that land. And there was one of the royal line in France named Charles Manie, who loved Minus Greenatus beyond expression because of his judgment in the art of masonry. He took upon himself the manners of masons, and after he was in his own realm, it would seem he was no Frenchman, but he took unto him many brave masons, and allowed them good wages and put them in orders which Greenatus taught him. He confirmed him a master and ordained them to assemble frequently, that they might keep good order within their divisions and thus came masonry into France.

England at this while stood destitute of masters until the time of St. Albans. At this time, the King of England was a pagan, and he built the town of St. Albans. After that in Albans, King yr was a worthy man who was chief steward to the king and had the government of the realm and he employed masters to build the town walls of St. Albans and he made masters his chief companions and added a third part to their payment by what it was formerly apportioned. They were to work three hours every day to reconstruct themselves every day so that their employment might not prove toilsome to them and they might not live like slaves. But like gentlemen of art and science, they ordered a certain day of every year in the month of June to convene and feast in order to maintain the freedom of their craft, and the famous arms of Jerusalem Temple and all the famous structures in the world. All these forsworn freedoms were maintained by the king and procured by a charter for ever to maintain. Likewise they set a motto in letters of gold set in a crimson field with arrows and the famous Hodrian put them in mind of the confusion at the building of Nimrod's tower and that they would wish God to prosper ymselves & actions not to attempt or aim at Idolitry any more but sincerLy to honour & Adore ye great architect of heaven & earth the fountain & source of all goodness who buildeth his visible frame of nothing & Laid y ε foundation yrof upon the deepe waters and laid a comand upon ye sec to come so far & no forther y ε great land lord of heaven & earth ye sole preserver of man & beast psalms 36. 6. 7 ye Ruler & governouer of sun moon & stars he further advisvised ym to bring his omnipotency wt[in]y ε compass of y ε understanding yt so much ye more they might be kath to ofend him wt many other divine sentances he put ym in mind of & he comanded a book to be made how the craft was first begun found & comanded it should be Read Qn any masson was made & if after should err they mighty have no excuse to prevent y ε punishment & give his charge conform to y ε sds book & from y ε time massons should keep yt form & order as weel as men could govern it & further at privat assemblies yr hath ben divers charges added more & mor concerning yr charrige & deportment in every particula[r] part of massonry by y ε masters & fellous advice

1 Word omitted in MS.

THE CHARGE

every man yt is a massone or enters y ε inters y ε Intrest to agrandize & satisfie his curiositie looke to y ε following charge if any of you be guilty of any of y ε following Immortalitys see yt you Repent & amend speedily for you will find it a hard thing to fall into ye hands [of] our angry god and more especialy you yt are under voues take he[ed] y ε you keep y ε ath and promise you made in presence of allmighty god think not yt a mental Reservation or Equivocation will serve for to be sure evry word you speak the whole time of your Admission is ane oath and god will examin you according to the purness of your heart and cleaness of your hands it is ane sharp edged toole yt you are playing with beware you cut not your fingers we intreat you that y ε forfeit not your Saluation for any other seeming contentment

Imprimus you shall serve the true god and carefully keep his precepts in generall particularie the Ten words delivered to Moses on mount Sinai As you have them explained in full on ye pavement of the Temple secondly you shall be true & stedfast to ye holy catholick church and shun all herise & shisim or eror to your understading 3ly you shall be true to the lodge and keep all the secrets belonging thereto 4ly you shall be truc to the lawfull King of the Realm and pray for his safty at all conuenient occassions When you pray for your self & be no partaker of any treasonable designs against your person and goverment sly you shall love and be truc to one another and do to your neighbours or fellou as you would wish them to do to you 6ly you shall keep a truc and faithfull correspondance with all those masters and fellous of mesonry that you know to be legally entred in orders there suitable you shall keep there loss you shall withstand to your power ther honour and cridit you shall maintain 7ly that every masson keep a truc lodge chamber or hall to talk dignose upon things partining to honestie and moral dealing where they may refresh there memories of the worthies departed 8ly that ye be true and honest to the lord or Em- ployer do his work faithfullie keep his profit and advantage to ye out-most of your power that you shall not defraud him in any point what soever so that he may have no cause to exclaim and you reap honour 9ly you shall masson your fellow and breatheren and not to call them by any disrespec-tive name whereby contingones & divisions and heat may arise which may prove scandalus : 10ly : let no master or fellow Inwilany or un-godly [take] another fellows wife daugther or maid in Adultery or fornica-tion : 11ly That you be very carefull to pay truly and honestly your table such as meat drink washing and lodging where you go to board : 12ly : That you keep a corpass due gaurd wher you lodg that no villany be comited there whereby the craft may be defaimed 13ly That you carefully and religously observe the sabbath day by refraining all evill work & labovr and make it your study to Employ that day in serving and seeking the true God to keep in the fauculties of your souls from gading after vanities of this world pray to god to sanctifie your will understanding & memories with your reason and affections 14ly That you make it your bussiness to relieve the poor accord-ing to your Talent and facultie let not your prudence superceed your charity in thinking in this or the other unworthy or not in need but slip no op-ortunitie because it is for Gods sake you give it and in obedience to his command 15ly That you visit the sick and comfor and pray for them and let them not be in any distress that is in your powr to help them if god calls them hence wait and asist ther funerall 16ly be affable and kinde to all but more especially to the widow & fatherless stand stoutly in ther behalf defend there Intrest relive ther necessities though this be bread thrown upon the uncertain waters yet by the speciall blessing of heaven in rime will Return with seven fold Intrest and secure a stock for you in the other world 17\(^{1}\) That you shall not drink drunk at no occasion because it is ane offence to God and likewise you are apt reveal the secrets of the lodge and so perJure your self 18\(^{2}\) you shall abstain from all scandalous & profan recreations from playing at hazard or any other destructive game 19\(^{3}\) you shall forbear all lascivious language with all obscene language pouster or gestures for all such is but pleasing the\(^1\) and fostering oflust

These be the charges in generall that every masson should hold master and felous it is earnestly wished that they might be carefully kept in heart and will and affections and in so doing they shall reander themselves famous to future generations and God will bless ther progenie and gave them a good Talent and cast their hues in pleasant placeses

The Charges belong to mastrs and fellous is as folloueth Imprimus that no fellow shall take any lords work or other Imployer but he shall know himself and curling to perfect the same so that the craft may have no disworship and the lord or Imployer may not be cheated but truly served for his mony of any masson have taken any work or stand mastr of any work he shah not be put from it if he can finish the same Itm that no mastr or fellou shall take ane aprentice to be allowed on for less than seven years and that the Apprentice be able of limbs and well breathed Itm that no mastr or fellou shall take mony before hand without consent of the lodge Itm no master masson shall make any mould square or Rule to any Layer or cowin Itm that no m’ within or without a lodge shall set a lay mould of stone or other ways without it be his own making Itim every masson shall receive strange massons within ther divisions over the country where there concerns lyeth within and set them to work according to order (viz) if they have muid Standert to place let them have twoo weeks at least and give him his hire and ife there be no stander let him be refreshed: with meat and drink to carry him to the next lodge Itim none that is in order shall stand to hear any that doth not order his words & steps aright but if he prove him self a man then you are obliged to Imbrace him and gave him the curtisee of the craft Itim all massons shall be honest in there work be it by task or Jurney and truly make ane end thereof that they may have There ways as they ought to have Itim that no lodge or corum of massons shall give the Royal secret to any suddenly but upon great deliberation first let him learn his Questions by heart then his symbals then do as the lodge thinks fit

THE APPRENTICE CHARGE

Imprimus that he shall he true to god and the holy catholick church & y’ king & his aster whom he shall serve yt he shall not pick or steal his m’ or his mrs goods nor absent himself from y’ service nor goe from ym about his own pleasure by day or by night without licience he shall not comit Adultrie nor fornication in or without his m’ house wt his mrs daughter servant or otherwise he shall keep counsel in all things spoken in or without ye lodge chamber or hall spoken by any fellow master or freeman he shall not keep any disobedient argument against he shall disclose any secret Qrby strife may arise Amongst massons fellows or aprenticess but reverently to behave himselfe towards all free massons yt he may win brethren to his m’ he shall not use carding or dicing or any other unlawful gaine or games he shall not haunt taverns or ale houses wasting his masters goods without licience he shall not purloin or steal any goods from any person or share during his apprentishepe but to wstand yt same to y’ outmost of his power & yrof to inform his master or some other masson with all possible & convenient speed

\(^{1}\) Word omitted in MS.
Q what are you A I am a man Q how shall I know you A by all true signs in ye first part of my entry III heall & conceall Q what are you no more to . . . A yes but a man I was begotten of a man & born of a woman and besides I have severall potentat kings & mighty princes to my brothers Q what lodge were you entered in A in ye trwe lodge of st John Q where ought a lodge to be keept A on the top of a mountain or in y° midle of a boge without the hearing of ye crowing of a cok or ye bark of a doe Q how high is your lodge A inches & spans Inumberable Q how Inumberable A the material heavens & stary firmament Q how many pillars is in your lodge A three Q what are these A y° square the compas & y° bible Q where lyes y° key of your lodge A in a bone box covered wt a rough map Q give y° distinction of your box A my head is y° box my teeth is the bons my hair is the mapp my tongue is ye key Q how were you brought in A shamfully w t a rope about my neck Q what postet were you in when you Receved A neither sitting nor standing nor running nor going but on my left knee Q what way stands your lodge A East & west because all holy churches & temples stands y° way and particularlie y° temple of jerusalem Q might not Hiram lade y° foundation of y° temple South & north rather than East & West A no he could not Q what place did he lay it A in y° south east corner of y° Temple Q what did he say Qn he laid it A help us god Q what was y° greatest wonder yt seen or heard about the temple A god was man & man was god mary was a mother & yet a maid Q what is y° night good for A y° night is botter for hearing than seeing Q what is y° day good for A y° day is bette for seeing than hearing Q what did y° second man when y° first man died A he perfected ye work w° ye° first man Intended thus king david y° intended to build y° temple but was prevented by death but solomon performed it Q what is meant by y° brassen see yt Hiram framed & supported it by 12 oxen 3 looking towards y° north 3 towards y° south 3 towards y° west 3 towards y° east A h was appointed to bath & wash ye° priests in at yt time But now we finde it was a tipe of Christs blood whose blood was to purg sin & to wash ye° elect & y° 12 oxen a type of y° 12 apostles who opposed all heathenism & athism & sealed y° cause of christ w° there blood Q what meant y° golden dore of ye° temple Qr they went in to sanctum sanctorum A it was another type of Christ who is y° door y° way & the truth & y° life by whom & in whom all y° elect entreth into heaven . . .

THE STRANGERS SALUTATION

The worshipfull masters of our lodge sendeth me unto you who salutes you heartily wishing that this my visit may Refresh your memories of your good will towards ym A and we the masters & fellows of this lodge welcome you heartily intreating you to make bold w’ what you see & tell us your wishes & daim our relife which shall be at your comand at all times & ocations & as we are we shall continue to honour love & serve you When you enter a roome you must say is y’ house cleen if they assure it is dropie or ill, thatched upon this answe you are to be salent this is y’ most materiell questions belonging to masonory sic subscribu [n] tur the constitutions

1 QUESTIONS CONCERNING THE TEMPLE

Q what signifies the temple A y’ son of god & partly of the church ye son suffered his body to be destroyed & rose again y’ 3d day & raised up to us y’ christian church w’ is y’ true spiritual church

2 What signifies the white marble Christ is y’ white marble without spot the stone y’ builders r ................. d but god choised it out [

3 The mistery of the cader wood

The cader cyprus & olive wood was not subject putrifaction nor posible to be devoured by worm [s] so y’ human nature of christ was subject to no corruption nor putrifaction

4 The mistrey of the Gold

The gold and precious stones signifies the diecit of christ wherein duelt the fulness thereof for he is the fountain thereof.

5 The mistery of the cherubims first they signifie the heavenly glory and the everlasting life to come they being pictured to the Image of man do represen [t] the congregation of y’ blessed angels & saints w’ sing Te Dum law damass secondly y’ two cherubins on y’ mercy seat in the holy Quire signifies y’ old & new testmant containing y’ doctrine of christ & as yr wings touch one another so the old & [new] testament are joined together y’ end of the one beginning y’ other y’ one containing ye first world y’ other containing y’ end of y’ 2 world both had a relation to christ to whome y’ ministrie of god was comitted

6 The mistry of the golden door of the temple

Christ is the dore of life by w’ we must enter into eternall happiness ye two doves signifies a two fold knowledge before we can enter that is of his person & office

7 What doth the vaill signifie

The son. of god our lord jesus christ hanging upon y’ cross is y’ true vaill yt is put betwe god & us shadowing w’ his wounds and blood y’ multitut of our offencess yt so we may be made acceptable to his father

8 The ark of the covenant

It represents as weel our saviour christ as y’ hearts of y’ faithfull for in christs breast was y’ doctrine both of law & gosple so is it in y’ faithfull though not in yt measure he was y’ true manna y’ descended to give life to y’ world y’ table of y’ law move us to love & obedience Aarons rod flowrishing w’ blossoms signifies y’ sweetnes of y’ gosple & y’ glory of our High preist jesus christ of whomme Aaron was a figure

9 The mistry of the alter

The alter w’ 4 golden horns being made part of shittim wood & part of gold compassed about w’ a crown of gold Represents the unity of y’ humanitie & diecit of our saviour for y’ naturly incoriptable was beautified wt gold so y’ humanitie of christ not of putrifaction being adorned wt y’ celestiall . . . . of y’ diecit personaly united to the devine nature ascended to heven & sitteth at y’ Right hand of god his father crowned with the crown of majestie and etternall happiness

10 The mistrie of the golden candlesticke

The Golden candlestick wt his six branches & seven lights signifies christ & ye ministers christ the foundation is cheif preist & light of y’ world Illuminating us to eternall life the doctors & teachers of ye church are y’ branches Qm christ enlightens w’ y’ sound doctren of y’ gosple neither ought they to be seprated from christ but by ye Light of y’ doctren to be lamp to our feet & as all y’ branches was united anto y’ candlesticke so every minister & child of god ought to be united to y’ bod of christ without any sepration the flowers & lilies donot y’ grace of his spirit w’ he hath bestowed upon ye faithful ministers the lights & lamps do Admonish al godly ministers to a godly tare & diligence

11 The mistrie of the golden table and shewbread

The table being compased w’ a precious crown signifies y’ ministers of y’ gosple y’ bread signifies Christ y’ bread of Life

12 The mistrie of y’ golden vine & crhistal grape [s]

Lane reads glory.
The vine in ye East of ye temple made of shining gold resembles our Christ who compared himself unto a vine & the faithfull unto branches y^e christall grapes y^e doctrin of y^e gospel & y^e work of ye faithfull w^e are faith love hope charite patience prayer & works of grace unto such as believes.

[13 The] molten sea its mistrie
The molten sea was a figure of baptism & y^e living water Issuing from y^e wounds of christ y^e twelve oxen signifies y^e twelve Apostles

THE TEMPLE WAS IN HIGHT AND LENGTH

It was 100 cubits in length in hight 120 cubits y^e holy Queer stood in y^e west end y^e Marble stons in y^e temple was 25 cubits long 12 cubits broad & 8 cubits thick being all whit marble

QUESTIONS PROPOUNDED AND ANSWERED

how many lights is in yt lodge A 3 Q what is for y^e one [in] y^e East A it is for the master & y^e west is for the fellow craftsmen & y^e midle is for y^e warden Q what stands at the wardens back A 3 shelves Q what is yr Q what is for yr A 36 is for leveling 34 is for measuring yr 32 foot Q which way came y^e W first about A it was given to king david by report Qn he was hewing y^e stons in y^e mount to know y^e workmen from . . Labourers & it pleased god to take away King David & Solomon succeeded in his place & it was Given him Q what is y^e length of your table A it is as long as between y^e point of my navel and y^e shortest of my hair Q what is y^e reason of y^e A because all secrets lies there Q by what . . by whom do you stand upon your princip . .

. . . yt stood upon y^e highest penacle of the temple Q we way was y^e temple built A by solomon & Hiram who furnished tooles for yt work it was Hiram who was brought out of Egypt he w [as] a widdows son he furnished all sorts of Tools pick[s] spades shovels & all things belonging to y^e temple Q where layes y^e master A in a stone trough under y^e west window looking to y^e east waiting for y^e son rising to sett lis men to work Q where [was] the noble art

Solomon set up twoo notable Names yt on y^e Right hand called Jachine yt is in it yr is strength show . . not only by y^e matter but by y^e Name Also of these two pillers what stedfastness y^e elect stands in before god both for y^e present & for rime to corne for y^e present y^e sons of god have Received strength inwardly for y^e time to corne god will stablish so with his spirit of grace yt they shall never wholly depart from him & wt I was by the way taught this point These two Names seems to note out besides this y^e two churches of y^e jews & gentiles yt of y^e jews by jachin on y^e right hand as . . . god would at length Establish in his time though as yet it had not attaine to this stablnes through y^e obstinacy of y^e minds Qrw t they should reject christ Qn he should come This of y^e gentiles by boaz on y^e left hand because of y^e present strength y^e should be in her Qn she should Imbrace christ at y^e first hearing these christ shall wryt upon these pillers better names than those of Jachin & boaz for first he shall wryt

1 Lane reads principal. 2 Lane reads A by him.
Dumfries No. 4 MS.

upon ym yᵉ name of his god y¹ it may be made plain to all men yt these men are chossen out fr[om] yᵉ rest to be gods peculiar people as in us wᵃll mat ................. yt are openly marked wᵉ do by yr tilles declare to every one whose they are in wᵉ sense it was said they shal know yt I have loved yᵉ for wᵉ caus[e] allos Holiness to ye lord was wryten upon yᵉ lit . . . bells yt hang upon yᵉ horses in the prophet Zacharie 14 chap 20 verse

FINIS

A caput mortuu[m] ¹ here you see

To mind you of mortality

Behold great | || I strength by ... fell but establish . . . in heaven doeth dwe[II]

Let all your actions be just and trwe which, after death gives life to you

Keep round within of your appointed sp[here] be ready for your latter end daws near

¹ A figure somewhat resembling the capital D used in the MS., and probably intended to represent a skull in profile.

THE TRINITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN, MS., 1711

This short catechism, which is in the Trinity College, Dublin, Library [T.C.D. MS. I, 4, 18], is contained in one of the volumes of collected papers of Sir Thomas Molyneux (1661-1733), a famous Dublin doctor and scientist. It is written on one side of a single folio sheet, about 11 ¾ x 7 ½ P', and was originally folded into four, about 3" X 7 ½ " ; across the top the folded document was endorsed ' Free Masonry Feb : 1711' To judge from the' photostat made in 1937, the endorsement is in a different hand from the body of the text, the ' M the s', and the ' y ' of Masonry' in the endorsement differing considerably from the same letters in the body of the text. The MS. has been put away in a place of safety, and our observation, based on the photostat, cannot at present be checked by reference to the original. Nor can it be ascertained, by comparison with other documents, whether either the body of the text, or the endorsement, was written by Sir Thomas Molyneux himself. If either was, we surmise that it was the endorsement. The catechism is the earliest known MS. to recognize three classes of mason, each with its own secrets. It was printed in Trans. Lodge of Research No. C C, Dublin, 1924. Our transcript is made from a photostat.

See Introduction, pp. 10, 21 above.

Under no less a penalty

Question. Wᵗ mariner of man are you ? Answer. I am a mason.

Q. How shall I know that ? A. By yᵉ signs, tokens, & points of my entry.
Q. Where were you entered ? A. In a full, & perfect lodge.
Q. Wᵗ makes a full, & perfect lodge ? A. three masters, 3 fellow craftsmen, & 3 enterprentices.
Q. How stands yᵗ lodge ? A. East, & west like yᵉ temple of Jerusalem.
Q. Where sits yᵉ master ? A. In a Chair of bone in yᵉ middle of a four square pavement.
Q. W't sits he there for? A. To observe the sons rising to see to set his men to work.
Q. How high is y'r lodge? A. As high as y'r stars inches, & feet innumerable.
Q. Where do you keep the key of y'r lodge? A. In a box of bone within a foot, & of y'r lodge door.
Q. How far is it from y'r table to y'r anchor? A. As far as from y'r tongue to y'r heart.
Q. Which way blows y'r wind? A. East & west & out of ye south.
The common sign is with your right hand rub y'r mouth then cross y'r throat & lay it on y'r left breast. The Masters sign is back bone, the fellow craftsman's sign is knuckles, & sinues y'r word Jackquin.¹ The Enterprentice's sign is sinues, the word Boaz or its hollow. Squeeze the Master by y'r back bone, put your knee between his, & say Matchpin. Squeeze the fellow craftsman in knuckles, & sinues & say Jackquin ² [•] squeeze the enterprentice in sinues, & say boaz, or its hollow. To know in y'r dark if there be a mason in Company, Say ye, the day was made for seeing, & ye night for hearing. If you are amongst the fraternity, & they drink to you, turn y'r top of the glass down and if after two or three times so doing, they say drink & i'll warrant you, then they will pay your clubb. or if you say y'r squire is lean, or throw a tobacco stopper to one of them & say change me y'r groat, & they pay your club. To Send for a brother the signes are these. ——— ——— ——— if you say y'r lodge is untiled, that is as much as to say there is some one in y'r Company you suspect fora brother. To bring a man from a scaffold, or any other place, hold y'r heels together, and y'r toes open, & look up, then with y'r hand, or Cane make a right angle. this as all other Motions must be done very carelessly.

¹ Possibly Jackquin. ² Possibly Jackquin.
and seek Revenge. These are the Persons who trump up many foolish and idle Signs, Gestures and Practices, and vouch them for the very Basis and Ground-plot of Free-Masonry. The enclosed is a Sample of their Malice, and which they pretend was left in Writing by a Fellow Mason lately deceas'd; but in very Truth, is a senseless Pasquinade, highly derogatory to the Honour of the whole Body and each Worshipful Fellow, many of whom daily stand in Presence of Kings, and are clothed with Titles, Dignities and Honours.

I shall not take upon me to vindicate the high Reputation of the Fraternity, their numerous Lodges stand in no need of Props and Buttresses for their Support; neither will their Members, by any Arts or Contrivances, be induced like Fools and Children to divulge the Lessons and Instructions given by their Masters and Wardens; but will have a constant Eye to that memorable Saying of wise King Solomon, in his Time Grand Master of Masonry and Architecture, and which pointed to Samson's Fate aforementioned,

A prating Fool shall fall.

I am, &c.

When a Free-Mason is enter'd, after having given w all present of the Fraternity a Pair of Men and Women's Gloves and Leathern Apron, he is to hear the  belonging to the Society read to him by the Master of the Lodge. Then a Warden leads him to the Master and Fellows; to each of whom he is to say,

'I fain would a Fellow-Mason be,
As all your Worships may plainly see.

After this, he swears to reveal no Secrets of the worshipful Fraternity, on Pain of having his Throat cut, or Tongue pull'd out. Then one of the Wardens will say, God's greeting be at this Meeting; and with the Right Worshipful the Master, and the Worshipful Fellows, who keep the Keys of the Lodge from whence you came; and you are also welcome, Worshipful Brother, into this Worshipful Society.

Then you salute as follows.

The Right Worshipful the Master, and the Worshipful Fellows of the Lodge from whence I came, greet you abundantly.

Q. Where was you made? A. In the Valley of Jehoshaphat, behind a Rush-bush, where a Dog was never heard to bark, or Cock crow, or elsewhere.

Q. Where was the first Lodge kept? A. In Solomon's Porch; the two Pillars were called Jachin and Boaz.

Q. How many Orders be there in Architecture? A. Five; Tuscan, Doric, Ionie, Corinthian, and Composite, or Roman.

1 For explanation of the Hebrew word, see Note on p. 240 below.
Q. How many Points be there in Fellowship? A. Six; Foot to Foot, Knee to Knee, Hand to Hand, Ear to Ear, Tongue to Tongue, Heart to Heart.

Q. How do Masons take their Place in Work? A. The Master S.E. the Wardens N.E. and the Fellows Eastern Passage.

Q. How many precious Jewels are there in Masonry? A. Four; Square, Asder, Diamond, and Common Square.

Q. How many Lights be there in a Lodge? A. Three; the Master, Warden, and Fellows.

Q. Whence cornes the Pattern of an Arch? A. From the Rainbow.

Q. Is there a Key to your Lodge? A. Yes.

Q. What is't? A. A well hung Tongue.

Q. Where is it kept? A. In an Ivory Box between my Teeth, or under the Lap of my Liver, where the Secrets of my Heart are kept. Q. Is there a Chain to it? A. Yes.

Q. How long is it? A. As long as from my Tongue to my Heart.

Q. Where does the Key of the working Lodge lie? A. It lies on the Right Hand from the Door two Foot and a half, under a Green Turf, and one Square.

Q. Where does the Master place his Mark on the Work? A. Upon the S.E. Corner.

To know an entred Apprentice, you must ask him whether he has been in the Kitchen, and he'll answer, Yes.

To know an entred Fellow, you must ask, whether he has been in the Hall, and he'll say, Yes.

To know a Mason in the Dark, you must say, there is no Darkness without Absence of Light; and he'll answer, There is no Light without Absence of Darkness.

To compliment a Brother Mason, You put your Right Hand to the right side of your Hat, and bring your Hat under your Chin; then the Brother will clap his Right Hand to the right side of his Hat, and bring it to the Left Side under his Heart.

To meet a Brother, You must make the first Step with your Right Foot, the second with your Left; and at the third you must advance with your Right Heel to your Brother's Right Instep; then lay your Right Hand to his Left Wrist, and draw the other Hand from your Right Ear to the Left under your Chin; and then he'll put his Right Hand to his Left Side under his Heart.

To Gripe, is when you take a Brother by the Right Hand, and put your middle Finger to his Wrist, and he'll do so to you.

To know a Mason privately, you place your Right Heel to his Right Instep, put your Right Arm over his Left, and your Left under his Right, and then make a Square with your middle Finger, from his Left Shoulder to the middle of his Back, and so down to his Breeches.

When a Mason alights from his Horse, he lays the Stirrup over the Horses Neck.

To call a Mason out from among Company, you must cough three times, or knock against any thing three times.

A Mason, to show his Necessity, throws down a round Piece of Slate, and says, Can you change this Coin?
THE GRAND MYSTERY OF FREE-MASONS DISCOVER'D, 1724

This anonymous 12-page imperial 8vo (11 ½ " X 7") pamphlet was published in 1724. To the second edition, The Grand Mystery of the Free Masons Discover'd, published in 1725 by A. Moore, are annexed two letters to a friend, signed by Verus Commodus the first concerning the Society of Free-Masons, the second giving an account of the Society of Gormogons. The first edition was reprinted in Misc. Lat., iii ; the second edition in Gould, iii, 475. We reprint the first edition from a copy in the Bodleian [MS. Rawl. C. 136]. See Introduction, pp. 12, 14, 16 above ; cf. Institution of Free Masons and the Essex MS.

THE GRAND MYSTERY OF FREE-MASONS DISCOVER'D. Wherein Are the several Questions put to them at their Meetings and Installations : As Also Their Oath, Health, Signs, and Points, to know each other by. As they were found in the Custody of a Free-Mason who Dyed suddenly. And Now Publish'd for the Information of the Publick.

Ambubajarum collegia, Pharmacopoloe, Mendici, Medici [read mima:], balatrones, hoc genus omne.

Horat.

Mulus scabit Mulum.

London: Printed for T. Payne near Stationer's-Hall. 1724.

(Price Six Pence.)

PREFACE.

This Piece having been found in the Custody of a FREE-MASON, who died suddenly, it was thought proper to publish it in the very Words of the Copy, that the Publick may at last have something Genuine concerning the Grand Mystety of Free-Masons. There was a Man at Lovait: who publish'd he had, with great Toil and Difficulty, found out, overcome, and tamed, and was now ready at his Booth, to shew at the Rate of six Stivers a-piece, the most hideous and voracious Monster, the Common Disturber of Mankind, especially in their Adversity.

People flock'd from all Parts to see this Monster : They went in at the Fore-Door ; and after they had seen the Creature, went out at the Back-Door, where they were ask'd whether the Monster was worth seeing. And as they had, at their Admittance into the Booth, promised to keep the Secret, they answer'd, it was a very wonderful Creature ; which the Man found his Account in. But by some Accident it was divulged, that this wonderful Creature prov'd to be a LOUSE.

THE FREE-MASON'S SIGNS.

A Gutteral {>}'
A Pedestal {image 41} }
A Manual {7}
A Pectoral {X}

The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd'd

Q. How does it stand? A. Perfect East and West, as all Temples do
Q: Where is the Mason’s Point? A. At the East-Window, waiting at the Rising of the Sun, to set his Men at Work.
Q. Where is the Warden’s Point? A. At the West-Window, waiting the Setting of the Sun, to dismiss the Entred Apprentices.
Q. Who rules and governs the Lodge, and is Master of it? A. Irah, or the Right Pillar Iachin.

Q. How is it govern’d? A. Of Square and Rule.
Q. Have you the Key of the Lodge? A. Yes, I have.
Q. What is its Virtue? A. To open and shut, and shut and open.
Q. Where do you keep it? A. In an Ivory Box, between my Tongue and my Teeth, or within my Heart, where all my Secrets are kept.
Q. Have you the Chain to the Key? A. Yes, I have.
Q. How long is it? A. As long as from my Tongue to my Heart.
Q. How many precious Jewels? A. Three; a square Asher, a Diamond, and a Square.
Q. How many Lights? A. Three; a Right East, South, and West.
Q. What do they represent? A. The Three Persons, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.
Q. How many Pillars? A. Two; Iachin and Boaz.
Q. What do they represent? A. A Strength and Stability of the Church in all Ages.
Q. How many Angles in St. John’s Lodge? A. Four, bordering on Squares. {image47b}
Q. How is the Meridian found out? A. When the Sun leaves the South, and breaks in at the West-End of the Lodge.
Q. In what Part of the Temple was the Lodge kept? A. In Solomon’s Porch at the West-End of the Temple, where the two Pillars were set up.
Q. How many Steps belong to a right Mason? A. Three.
Q. Give me the Solution. A. I will.—The Right Worshipful, Worshipful Masters, and Worshipful Fellows of the Right Worshipful Lodge from whence I came, greet you well.
The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd

the Toes of both Feet straight, at a Distance, or by any other Way of Triangle.

4. To take Hand in Hand, with Left and Right Thumbs close, and touch each Wrist three Times with the Fore-Finger each Pulse.

5. You must Whisper, saying thus, The Masters and Fellows of the worshipful Company from whence I came, greet you all well.

The other will answer, God greet well the Masters and Fellows of the worshipful Company from whence you came.

6. Stroke two of your Fore-Fingers over your Eye-Lids three times.

7. Tm-ri a Glass, or any other Thing that is hollow, downwards, after you have drank out of it.

8. Ask how you do; and your Brothers drink to each other.

9. Ask what Lodge they were made Free-Masons at.

N.B. In the Third of King Henry the Sixth, an Act of Parliament was pass'd, whereby it is made Felony to cause MASONS to confederate themselves in Chapters and Assemblies. The Punishment is Imprisonment of Body, and make Fine and Ransom at the King's Will.

The Whole Institution of Masonry, 1724

This catechism, which appears to be an early and shorter version of The Whole Institutions of Free-Masons Opened, 1725 (see p. 87 below), is contained in the same MS. as the Dialogue between Simon and Philip (see p. 175 below). The document is stated to bear an almost illegible naine and address, "John Page . . . N" 5 . . . Bristol ", and was recently in the possession of the late Bro. Salisbury (see p. xi above). Though we have not so far been able to trace and examine the MS. itself, we know of no prima facie reason for doubting its authenticity, and have consequently decided to print here transcript prepared from Bro. Cramphorn's typescript copy. So far as we know this catechism lias not previously been printed.

First Observe—That all Squares is Signs According to the subject in handling.

The Salutation as Follow's.

Q. From whence came You. A. I came from a Right Worshipful Lodge of Masters and Fellows belonging to HOLY ST. JOHN. Q. I greet you well Brother what is your Naine. A. JACHIN.

The Examination. as Follow's

Q. How shall I know you are a Mason. A. By True words and Tokens at my Entry.
Q. How were you made a Mason. A. By a True and a Perfect Lodge.
Q. What Lodge are you off. A. HOLY ST JOHN
Q. How Stands a Lodge A. East and West.
Q. How many Lights in a Lodge A. Twelve.

JACHIN signifies. Strength and BOAZ. Beautiful. and had reference to the two Sons of Abraham. One to the Free Woman and another to the Bond. And also to the two Covenants. One of Works. and one of Free Grace.
The Whole Institution of Masonry

"What posture did you receive your Secret Words in. Q.
"Kneeling with Square and Compass at my Breast. A.
"What were you Sworne too. Q.
"For to Hold and Conceal. A.
"What other Tenor did your Oath carry. Q."
“For to Helpe all Perfect Brothers of our Holy Secret.
Fellow Craft or Not. A.

JACHIN and BOAZ. Two Brass Pillars of Wonderful Beauty set up in Solomons Porch at the West end of the Temple. 32 cubits high 12 cubits in Circumference.

INSTITUTION OF FREE MASONS, c. 1725

The early history of this catechism, which is a manuscript version of The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd (q.v.), is unknown. It was purchased c. 1905 from a dealer by Bro. A. F. Calvert of London. It consists of two leaves, “3 3/5 " x 5 9/10", cut out of an old vellum-bound notebook, in which there were other writings which did not interest Bro. Calvert. It was purchased from him in 1941 by Bro. Douglas Knoop. The catechism is written on three sides and about a quarter of the fourth, the rest of the page being filled with some lines in a different hand, headed " The Character of a Mason ". Dr. Schofield of the British Museum MSS. Department is of opinion that it was written in the first half of the eighteenth century. It was reproduced photographically in the Authors’ Lodge Transactions, i ii (1919), following p. 408. The transcript we print is made from the manuscript. See Introduction, pp. 12, 19 above ; cf. Essex MS.

INSTITUTION OF FREE MASONS

1. Question. Peace be here. A. I hope there is.
2. What a Clock is it ? A. Tis going to 12 or 'tis going to 6
3. Are you very busy ? A. No.
4. Will you give or take ? A. Both or which you please.
5. How go Squares ? A. Straight
6. Are you rich or poor ? A. Neither
7. Change me that 5t? I will
8. In the name of God, Amen, Are you a Mason ? A Mason
9. What is a Mason ? A man begot of a man, born of a woman & Brother to a King.
10. What is a fellow ? A Companion to a Prince
11. How shall I know if you are a Right Mason ? A. By Signs, Tokens & Points of my Entry
12. Which is the 1st Point of your Entry ? A. To hide & conceal under the Penalty of having my Throat cut, or my Tongue cut out of my Head.
13. Where were you made a Mason ? In a just & perfect Lodge.
14. How many makes a Lodge ? A. God & the Square, w' 7 or 5 right & perfect Masons on the highest mountain or the lowest valley in the world.
15. Why do odd numbers make a lodge? A. Because all odds are men's advantages.
16. What lodge are you of? The Lodge of St John.
17. How doth that Lodge stand? Perfect East & West as all holy Temples do.
18. Where's the Masters Post? A. At the East window waiting the rising of the Sun to set his men at work.
19. Where's the Warden's Post? A. At the West window waiting the Setting of the Sun, to dismiss the entred Apprentice.
20. Who rules & governs the Lodge & is Master of it? A. Jehovah the right Pillar.
22. Have you a Key of the Lodge? Yes I have.
23. What is its Virtue? To open & Shut & to Shut & open.
24. Where do you keep it? A. In an Ivory Box betwixt my Tongue & Teeth, or within my hart, where all my Secrets are kept.
25. Have you a Chain to the Key? Yes I have.
26. How Long is it? It is as long as from my Tongue to my Heart.
27. How many precious Iewels? A. Three a Square where a Diadem & a Square.
28. How many Lights? Three a Right East, South & West.
29. What do they represent? A. The three Persons of the holy Trinity Father S. & H.G.
31. What do they represent? A Strength & Stability to the Church in all Ages.
32. How many Angles are in St Iohn's Lodge? A. Four boarding on Squares.
33. How is the Meridian found out? A. When the Sun leaves the South, & breaks in at the West End of the Lodge.
34. In what part of the Temple was the Lodge kept? A. In Solomon's Porch at the west End of the Temple, where the Two Pillars were set up.
35. How many Steps belong to a Right Mason? Three.
36. Give me the Salutation? A. I will. The right Worshipful Master & Worshipful fellows of the Right Worsh. Lodge from whence I came greet you well, as I do. God's greeting be at this our Meeting & with the R. W Masters & W. Fellows of the R. W. Lodge whence you came, & you also.
37. Give me the Jerusalem Words? G ..... G. . . . 1
38. Give me the Universal Words? .......................... 2
39. Right, Brother of ours, Give me your Name? M or N
40. Welcome Brother M or N to our Society. How many Principal Points pertain to a right Mason? A. Three. Fraternity, Fidelity, Taciturnity.
41. What do they represent? A. Brotherly Love, Relief & Truth, amongst all right & perfect Masons, for w' Masons were ordain'd at the Building of the Tower of Babel & the Temple of Jerusalem.
42. How many proper Points? Five, foot to foot, Knee to Knee Hand to Hand, Heart to Heart & Ear to Ear.
43. Whence is an Arch deriv'd? From Architecture.
44. What doth it resemble? The Rainbow.
46. What do they answer to? They answer to Base Perpendicular Diameter Circumference & Square.
47. Which is the right Word or Point of a right Mason? A. Adieu.

THE OATH Nov' 24th 3

You must Serve God according to the best of your Knowledge & Institution, & be a true Liege man to the King, & to help & assist any Brother of the antient & Noble Science, as far as your Ability will allow you, So by the Contents of this Sacred write you'll perform this Oath. So help you God.

THE HEALTH

Here's a Health to our Society & to every faithful Brother that keeps Oath of Secrecy as we are sworn to love each other, the world no order knows like this of our ancient & noble fraternity, Let them wonder what the Mystery is. Here Fellow I drink to thee.

1Mainly scratched out with a knife; first word probably Giblen.
2Scratched out with a knife.
3Faintly written in a different hand. Perhaps the date on which a later owner took the oath.
Institution of Free Masons

HOW TO KNOW A FREE MASON

To put off the .................... 1 with two fingers & a Thumb

2. To strick w'the Right Hand on the ............... 1 of the ............... 5 times as if hewing.

3 By making a Square, namely, by setting the Heels together & the Toes of both Feet spread out at a distance, or by any other way of Triangle.

4 To take Hand in Hand w't Left & Right Thumbs close, touching the . . . 2 5 times hard wt the forefinger on each place

5 You must whisper Saying thrice, the M', Fellows of the Right Worshipful Company whence I came greet you well Then the other will answer, God greet well, the M', Fellows of the Worshipful Lodge or Company from whence you came—and then— How do you do Brother ? & drink to each other & ask, In what Lodge were you made a free Mason ?

6. The greatest ...................... 2 is to Stroke two of your fore-fingers over the ..................................................... 2

Guttural Sign—Pedestal Sign

Manual Pectoral

3 anno Henr. 6 Chap. I. An act of Parliament is made to abolish the Society of free Masons, & its made felony to hold any of those meetings

Alphabet

THE CHARACTER OF A MASON

If all ye Social Virtues of ye Mind
If an extensive love to all mankind
If hospitable welcome to a Guest
If speedy charity to ye distress'd
If due regard to liberty & Laws
Zeal for our King & for our Countrys cause
Let Masons ye enjoy ye praise they claim.

1 Scratched out with a knife.  2 Scratched out with a knife.
3 One line erased.
4 in a different hand from that of the catechism and in a fainter ink.

THE WHOLE INSTITUTIONS OF FREE-MASONS OPENED, 1725

This anonymous folio broadsheet, printed on both sides, was published in Dublin in 1725. Only one copy is known to exist. It was formerly in Bro. Broadley's collection, then in that of Bro. Wallace Heaton. It is now in Grand Lodge Library to which it was presented by Bros. R. A. Card and Wallace Heaton in 1939. It was reprinted by Bro. Poole in A.Q.C., 1 (1937). Our reprint is from photographe of the copy in Grand Lodge Library. See Introduction, pp. 12, 18 above ; cf. the Essex MS. and the Graham MS.

THE WHOLE INSTITUTIONS OF FREE-MASONS OPENED. As also their Words and Signs.

FIRST, Observe that all Squares is Signs according to, every Subject in Handling, proved by the 7th Verse of the 6th Chap. of the First of Kings.

The Salutation as follows.

FROM whence came You—Answer, I came from a right worshipful Lodge of Masters and Fellows belonging to Holy St. John, who doth greet all perfect Brothers of our Holy Secret, so do I you, if you be one.—I greet you well Brother, God's Greeting be at our Meeting, what is your Name answer Jachin.

The Examination as follows.

HOW shall I know you are a Free-Mason.—By true Words and Tokens at my Entering. What was the first Point of your Entering a willing desire to know what I now know.—How were you made a Mason.—By a true and perfect Lodge.—What Lodge are you of, answer St. John.—How Stands a Lodge.—South, East and West. How many Lights belongs to a Lodge.—Twelve, what are they. Father, Son, Holy Ghost, Sun, Moon, Master, Mason, Square, Rule, Plum, Line, Mell and Cheisal.—Who is Master of all Lodges, God, and the Square.—In what Posture did you receive our Secret Words.—Kneeling with Square and Compass at my Breast.

WHAT were you Sworn to.—For to Heal and Conceal.—What other Tenor did your Oath carry.—For to help all perfect Brothers, of our Holy Secret fellow Craft or not.—What is your foundation Words.—Come let us, and you shall have—
What mean you by these Words—We differ from the Babylonians who did presume to Build to Heaven, but we pray the blessed Trinity to let us build Truc, High, and Square, and they shah’ have the praise to whom it is due.

Your first word is Jachin and Boaz is the answer to it, and Grip at the forefinger Joint.—Your 2d word is Magboe and Boe is the answer to it, and Grip at the Wrist. Your 3d Word is Gibboram, Esimberel is the Answer—and Grip at the Elbow, and Grip at the Rein of the Back, and then to follow with the five Points of Free Masons’ fellowship, which is Foot to Foot, Knee to Knee, Breast to Breast, Cheek to Cheek, and Hand to Back; these five Points hath reference to the five principal Signs, which is Head, Foot Body Hand and Heart.

The Explanation of our Secrets, is as follows.

Jachin and Boaz, two Pillars made by Heirom Jachin, signifies Strength, and Boaz Beautiful, Magbo and Boe signifies Marrow in the Bone, so is our Secret to be Concealed.—Tho’ there is different opinions of this, yet I prove this the truest Construction.—Gibboram, and Simber signifies the Gibonites, who built the City of Simenon.

For proof of our two Pillars you may read the 7th Chapter of the 1st of Kings from the 13th Verse to the 22d, where you will find the wonderful Works of Hierome at the building the House of the Lord.

The reason why Masonery receiv’d a secret, was, because the building the House of the Lord pleas’d his Divine Majesty; it could not well go amiss, being they wrought for so good a Master. And had the wisest Man on Earth to be their Overseen—Therefore in some parts by Merit, yet more by free Grace, they obtain’d a Name, and a new Command, such as Christ gave his Disciples, for to love each other, keep well the Key that lies into a Box of Bone, adieu Brother.

Yet for all this I want the primitive Word, I answer it was God in six Terminations, to wit I am, and Johova is the answer to it, and Grip at the Rein of the Back, or else Excellent and Excellent, Excellency is the Answer to it, and Grip as aforesaid, or else Tapus Majester, and Majester Tapus is the answer to it, and Grip as aforesaid, for proof read the first of the first of St. John.

Printed by William Wilmot on the Blind-Key, 1725.

THE GRAHAM MS., 1726

This document, after stating the Mason’s salutation, consists of an examination, partly along conventional masonic lines (cf. especially The Whole Institutions of Free-Masons Opened, and the second part of the Essex MS.), and partly scriptural in character, thus calling to mind the Dumfries No. 4 MS. After the Examiner is satisfied that the candidate has been in a Lodge, asks further questions to make sure that the candidate was entered; this is followed by some questions regarding the candidate’s raising; the answer to the last question, as to how the works of the Babylonians stood, occupies about half the MS. It consists of a long exposition of legendary matter (bearing little resemblance to events recorded in the historical section of the MS. Constitutions of Masonry), mainly concerning Noah, Bezaleel and King Solomon, for only part of which Biblical or Talmudic authority can be found. The exposition concludes with a somewhat cryptic account of the secrets of freemasonry. The document belongs to the Rev. H. I. Robinson, Londesborough Rectory, York, in whose family it has been for some time. Its previous history is unknown. He first drew attention to it when he was initiated in 1996. It originally consisted of two sheets of paper, 16 ½” x 13”’ folded in two to form four leaves, 16 ½” x 6 ½”. Quite recently each sheet has been cut in half, making four sheets, 8 ¼” x 13”, or eight leaves, 8 ¼” x 6 ½”. The text occupies one side only of six of these leaves [the upper and lower halves of original leaves and 1, 2, and 3]. A single line, probably a false start for the original page 3, occurs on another page. The MS. bears the date 24 October 1726. It was reproduced photographically in A.Q.C., 1 (1937), with an introduction by Bro. Poole. The transcription we print has been made from the A.Q.C. reproduction and checked from photographs of the original, by the courtesy of Bro. Robinson.

Treatment of the Text. As no line of the MS. is indented, and as there are no cross-headings, strictly speaking the whole document should be printed as one paragraph. Consequently, all division of the text into paragraphs, as printed below, represents editorial emendation. Some lines in the MS. contain relatively few words, and are filled in with strokes, the next word commencing at the extreme left-hand side of the page. Where this coincides with a change of speaker, we have printed the text as though a new paragraph began. This method being hardly applicable to the last three-quarters of the document, we have there somewhat arbitrarily introduced new paragraphs wherever a change in the subject matter seemed to make a break desirable. The writer often joins two words together, especially where the first word is a e.g., aevine avilling ’adark’; we print such formarions as separate words. Very frequently the writer uses ‘ff’, not instead of F ‘f’, but in places where one would expect only f’. Although in some cases we suspect that this doubling of the f’ may be due to a faulty quill pen, we have printed ff’ wherever it appears in the MS.

THE WHOLE INSTITUTIONS OF FREE MASONRY OPENED AND PROVED BY THE BEST OF TRADITION AND STILL SOME REFERENCE TO SCRIPTURE

ffirst observe that all our signes is taken from the square according to every subject in handling this is proved by the 9 vers of the 6 chapter of ffirst book of kings

The Sallutation is as follows—from whence came you—I came from a right worshipfull Lodge of Masters and fellows belonging to God and holy saint John who both greet all true and perfect brothers of our holy secrets so do I you if I fende you to be one

I greet you well brother craveing your name—answere J and the other is to say his is B

The examination is as follows—How shall I know you are a free Mason—By true words signes and tokens from my entering How were you made a free mason—by a true and a perfect Lodge—what is a perfect Lodge—the senter of a true heart—

But how many masons is so called—any od number from 3 to 13—why so much ado and still haveing od numbers—still in reference from the blessed trinity to the coming of christ with his 12 apostles what was the first step towards your entering—a willing desire for to know the secrets of free masonry—

why was it called free masonry—first because a free gift of God to the children of men secondly free from the intrusion of infernal spirits thirdly a free union amonge the brothers of that holy secret to remain for ever—

How came you into the Lodge—poor and penyless blind and Ignorant of our secrets—

some reason for that—in regard our saviour became poor for our redemption so I became poor at that time for the knowledge of God contracted in the square—what did you see in the Lodge when you did see—I saw truth the world and Justice and brotherly Love—where—before Me—what was behind you—perjury and hatred of Brotherhood for ever if I discover our Secrets without the consent of a Lodge Except that have obtained a trible Voice by being entered passed and raised and Conformed by 3 severall Lodges and not so Except I take the party sworn to be true to our articles—

How stood your Lodge at your entering—East west and south—why not north allso—in regard we dwell at the north part of the world we burie no dead at the north side, of our churches so we carry a Vacancy at the north side of our Lodges—why east and west—because churches stands east and west and porches to the south—why doth churches stand east and west[—]in (four references—what are they—first our first parance was placed Eastward in edin secondly the East winde dryed up the sea before the children of Israel so was the temple of the Lord to be builded thirdly these who dwell near the Equenoxall the sun riseth east and seteth west on them fourthly the stare apeareed in the East that advertized both the sheep hearders and wise men that our saviour was corne in the flesh—who Conducted you into the Lodge—the warden and oldest fellow craft—

why not the youngest fellow craft—in regard our Saviour exorted the chief to Serve at the table that being an exorton to Humility to be observed by us for ever—what poster did you pass your oath in—I was nether siting standing going runing rideing hinging nor flying naked nor cloathed shode nor bairfoot—a reason for such poster—in regard one God one man makes a very christ so one naked object being half naked half cloathed half shode half bairfoot half kneeling half* standing being half of all was none of the whole this sheweth a humble and obediant heart for to be a faithful follower of that Just Jesus—what were you sworn to—for to hale and conceal our secrets[—]what other tenours did your oath Cary—my second was to obey God and all true Squares made or sent from a brother my third was never to steal Least I should ofend God and shame the square my fourth was never to commit adultery with a brothers wife nor tell him a willfull lie my fift was to disire no unJust revange of a brother but Love and releeve him when its in my power it not horting my self too far—

I pass you have been in a Lodge yet I demand how many Lights belongs to a Lodge—I answere 12—what are they—the first 3 jeweils is ffather son holy ghost—sun moon master Mason square Rule plum Lyne Mell and cheisall—prove all these proper—as ffor the blesed trinity they affurd reason as for the sun he renders Light day and night as for the moon she is a dark body off water and doth receive her Light from the sun and is allso queen of waters which is the best of Leavells as for the master mason he teaches the trade and ought to have a trible voice in teaching of our secrets if he be a bright man because we do be Leive into a Supper oritory power for alltho the 70 had great power Yet the 11 had mor for they chused matthias in place of Judas as for square Rule plum lyne mel and che-sall they are six toolls that no mason can perforrne true work without the major part of them—what refferance can be prest on thes 12 Lights—we draw refferance from the. 12 patriarches and allso from the 12 oxen we reid of at the 7 chapter of first king that caryed up the molten sea of brass which was tipes of the 12 disciples was to be tought by christ

I pass you entered yet I demand if you were raised—yes I was into what were you raised—I was raised into knowled of our primitive both by tradition and scripture—what is your foundation words at the Laying of a building where you exspect that some inffernall squandering spirit hath haunted and posable may shake your handy work—0 corne Let us and you shall have— to whom do you speak to the blesed trinity in prayer—how do you adminster these words kneeling bairhead fface towards the east—what mean you by the exspreshion thereof—we mean that we foresake self righteiousness and differs from these baballonians who presumed to build to heaven but we pray the blesed trinity to let us build trueLy and square and they shall have the praise to whom it is due—when was these words made or what need was for them—I answere into the primitive before the ghospell spraid the world being incumbered with infernall squandering spirits except that men did build by faith and prayer their works were oft assulted

But how came that the works of the Baballonians stood before all this or yet the brightness off the gospell—I yet by your own question answere you because the presumption of the Baballonians aforesaid had vexed the God head in so much the Langvage was Confounded for their cake so that no mankind for ever was to do the Like again without a devine Lisi ance which could not be had w’out faith and prayer— tradition that—we have it by tradition and still some refferance to scripture cause shem ham and Japheth for to go to their father noahs grave for to try if they could find anything about him for to Lead them to the vertuable secret which this famous preacher had for I hop all will allow that all things needfull for the new world was in the ark with noah Now these 3 men had alreadly agreed that if they did not find the very thing it self that the first thing that they found was to be to them as a secret they not Douting but did most firmly be Leive that God was able and would allso prove willing through their faith prayer and obedience for to cause what they did find for to prove as vertuable to them as if they had received the secret at first from God himself at its head spring so came to the Grave finding nothing caye the dead body all most consumed away takeing a griep at a ffinger it came away so frem Jouynt to Jouynt so to the wrest so to the Elbow so they R Reared up the dead body and suported it setting (foot to ffoot knee to knee Breast to breast Cheeck to cheeck and hand to back and cryed out help o ffather as if they had said o father of heaven help us now for our Earthly ffather cannot so Laid down the dead body again and not knowing what to do—se one said here is yet marow in this bone and the second said but a dry bone and the third said it stinketh so they agreed for to give it a name as is known to free masonry to this day so went to their undertakings and afterwards works stood : yet it is to be beleived and allso understood that the vertue did not proceed from what they ifound or how it was called but ffrom faith and prayer so thus it ,Contened the will pass for the deed while the reigne of king alboyne then was born Bazalliell who was so Called of God before conceived in the [womb] and this holy man knew by inspiration that the secret titles and primitive pallies of the God head was preservitiv and he builded on them in so much that no infernall squandering spirit durst presume to shake his handy work so his works be came so ffameious while the two younger brothers of the aforesaid king alboyin disired for to be instructed by him his noble asiance by which he wrought to which he agreed conditionally they were not to discover it without a another to themselves to make a trible voice so they entered oath and he taught them the heorick and the practick part of masonry and they did workthen was masons wages called up in that realme then was masons numbered with kings and princes yet near to the death of Bazalliell he desired to be buried in the valey of Je-hosephate and have cutte over him according to his diserveing which was performed by these two princes and this was cutte as follows—Here Lys the flour of masonry superiour of many other companion to a king and to two princes a brother Here Lys the heart ail secrets could conceall Here lys the tongue that never did reveal—now after his death the inhabi-tance there about did think that the secrets of masonry had been totally Lost because they were no more heard of for none knew the secrets therof Save these two princes and they were so sworn at their entering not to discover it without another to make a trible voice yet it is to be beleued and also under stood that such a holy secret could never be Lost while any good servant of God remained alive on the earth for every good servant of God had hath and allways will have a great part of that holy secret alltho they know it not themselves nor by what means to mak use therof for it hapened with the world at that time as it did with the Sammaritan church about christ they were Seeking ffor what they did not want But their deep Ignorance could not disarne it so all this contened dark and obscure while the ffour hundred and ffour Score off year after the children of Israell came out of the Land off Egypt in the ffourth year of olomons reigne over Israell that sollomon begun to Build the house of the Lord which his father david should have builded but was not admited to performe it because his hands was gulde of blood wars being on every side-

So all referrred while the days off Sollomon his son that he be gun to build the house of the Lord now I hope ail men will give for granted that all things needffull ffor carying on off that holy errection was not ho l-den ffrom that wise king — to thi s we must all allow Els we must charge God with unJustice which no ffraill mortall dare presume te charge God with nether can his devine goodness be Guilty off now we read at the 13 vers off the 7 chapter of first book of kings that Sollomon sent and fet hiram out off tyre he being a widdows son of the tribe of naphtale and his father was a man of tyre a worker in brass ffilled with wisdom and Cunning to work all works in brass and he came to king sollomon and wrought all his work ffor him—the Explanations of these verses is as follows the word Cunning renders ingenuity as ffor wisdom and understanding when they arc both Pound in one person he can want nothing : so by this present scripture must be allowed that the widows Son whose name was hiram had a holy inspiration as well as the wise king sollomon or yet the holy Bazalliel—now it is holden ffith forth by tradition that there was a tumult at this Errection which should hapened betwext the Laborous and masons about wages and ffor to call me ail and to make all things easie the wise king should have had said be all of you contended ffor you shall be payed all alike yet give a signe to the Masons not known to the Laborous and who could make that signe at the paying place was to be payed as masons the Laborous not knowing thereof was payed as fforesaid—this might have been yet if it was so we are to Judge very Mercyfull on the words of the wise king sollomon ffor it is to be understood and allso beleived that the wise king meant according to every mans dis-arveing yet the 7 vers of the 6 chapter off ffirst book off kings reads me still Better where it is said the House when it was in Building was build of ston made ready beffore it was brought theither so that there was nether hammer nor ax nor any toooll off Iron heard in the house when it was in Building—ffrom whence may be gathered that all things was fffitted affore hand yet not posable to be caryed on without a motion and when all things were sought ffrom the horasin off the heavens to the plate fforn off the earth there could be nothing ffound more be Comeing more becomeing then then the square ffor to be their signe ffor to signifie what they would have each other to do—se the work went on and prospered which could not well go amiss being they wrought ffor so good a malter and had the wisest man on earth for to be their overseer therefore in so parts by Merite yet Much mer by ffree grace Masonry obtained a naine and a new command—their name doth signifie strèngth and their answere beauty and theire command Love ffor proofe hereoff read the 6 and 6 of ffirst book off kings where you will finde the wonderfull works off hiram at the building off the house of the Lord-
So all Being fffinished then was the secrets off ffree Masonry ordered aright as is now and will be to the E End of the world for such as do rightly understand it—in 3 parts in refferance to the blesed trinity who made all things yet in 13 brenches in refferances to Christ and his 12 apos-tles which is as follows a word ffor a deveine Six ffor the clargey and 6 ffor the ffellow craft and at the ffull and totall agreement therof to ffollow with five points off ffree Masons fellowshipe which is ffoot to ffoot knee to knee breast to breast cheeck to cheeck and hand to Back which ffive points hath refferance to the ffive cheife signes which is head ffoot body hand and heart and allso to the ffive points off artitectur and alalso to the ffive orders of Masonry yet takes thire strength ffrom five primitive one devine and four temporall which is as follows first christ the chiefe and Cornerston secondly Peter called Cephas thirdly moses who cutte the commands fourthly Bazalliell the best of Masons fifithly hiram who was Med with wisdom and understanding—you[r] ffirst is your Second is —your third is you[r] fourth is —your fift is your sixt is your seven is your eight is your nineth is your tent is you[r] Elevent is your twelt is you[r] thirteen is-

Tho Graham Chanceing Master of Lodges other Enquam Ebo october ye 24 1726 to all or any off our freternity that intends to Learn by this [Page 4] on Every so all this contented darc and obscure while the following days off his

[Remainder of sheet blank]
tubby which signifies the Excellency of Excellencies. What posture were you in when you receiv'd the secret Word? I sat on my Right Knee with the Holy Bible at my Breast. Why do you hold the Holy Bible at your Breast? for the Enjoyning Secrecy, and because in it is contained the Grand Secret of Masonry. Who was the first Mason? Laylah Illallah. Who invented the secret Word? Chechechabeddin Jatmouny. What is it? It is a Cabalistical Word composed of a Letter out of each of the Names of Laylah Illallah as mentioned in the Holy Bible.

Where sat King John in the Morning when he assembled the Society? He sat in the East Window of the Temple in a Chair of Marble waiting the rising Sun. where sat He in the Evening when He dismissed it? At the West End of the Temple in the same Chair waiting the setting Sun.

Why was St. John called King? Because He was Head of all the Christian Lodges, and from his Superiour knowledge in the wonderfull Art of Masonry. What are the Day and Night made for? The Day is made for Man to see in, the Night is made for Man to hear in. What is the most usfull Member? The Ear, because Men ought to hear more than they speak. What are the Tools requisite for a FreeMason? The Hammer and Trowel, the one to seperate, the other to foin. What Names are given to them? Asphahani and Talagaica. By what Oath did you Swear to conceal the secret Word? By God, the Square, the King, and the Master. At the Installation of any Member the Person to be admited drest with an Apron before Him, a Trowel in his right Hand, and a Hammer in his left, kneels on his right knee with a Bible on his Breast, supported by the Trowel, and in this Posture He Swears to keep secret the Word and Signs by which a Free-Mason is known over all the World, the Privileges they enjoy by being admitted Members into this Ancient Society are very great, for a Member of any Lodge is oblig'd to Furnish another Member tho' of a differènt Lodge, with all Necessaries in his distress and support Him to the utmost of his Power.

Printed in the Year, 1726.
if, according to what follows, the whole affair must be committed only to their memories, and share in the common fate of oral traditions.

A mason's confession of the oath, word, and other secrets of his craft.

These are to testify, concerning that oath, word, and other secrets, held among the corporation of masons; wherein I was taken under the same, by sundry of them gathered together and met at D—, about the year 1727.

Concerning the oath.

After one comes in at the door, he that keeps the door, called the warden, looses the garter of his right-leg stocking, rolls down the stocking, folds up the knee of the breeches, and requires him to deliver up any metal thing he has upon him. He is made to kneel on the right knee, bare; then the square is put three times round his body and applied to his breast, the open compasses pointed to his breast, and his bare elbow on the Bible with his hand lifted up; and he swears, "As I shall answer before God at the great day, and this company, I shall heal and conceal, or not divulge or make known the secrets of the mason-word, [Here one is taken bound, not to write them on paper, parchment, timber, stone, sand, snow, &c.], under the pain of having my tongue taken out from beneath my chowks, and my heart out from beneath my left oxtor, and my body buried within the sea-mark, where it ebbs and flows twice in the twenty-four hours."

Immediately after that oath, the administrator of it says, "You sat down a cowan, I take you up a mason."—When I was taken under that oath, I knew not what these secrets were which I was not to divulge, having no information before. One person in the lodge instructed me a little about their secrets the same day that I entered, and was called my author; and another person in the lodge, whom I then chused to be my instructor till that time twelve-month, was called my intender.—There is a yearly imposing of that oath in admissions among the said craft through the land on St John's day, as it is termed, being the 27th of December.

Concerning the word.

After the oath, a word in the scriptures was shewed me, which, said one, is the mason-word. The word is in I Kings vii. 21. They say that Boaz is the mason-word, and Jachin a fellow-craft-word. The former is shewn to an entered prentice after he has sworn the oath; and the latter is shewn to one that has been a prentice at least for a year, when he is admitted a degree higher in their lodge, after he has sworn the oath again, or declared his approbation of it.

Concerning the other secrets.

I shall next shew a cluster of different sorts of their secrets.

First, then, three chalk-lines being drawn on the floor, about an equal distance, as at A, B, and C; the master of the lodge stands at M, and the fellow-crafts, with the wardens and entered prentices, on the master-mason's left hand, at f and the last entered prentice at p.

Says the master, "Corne forward." Says the master, "I wot not gin I may." Says the master, "Come forward; I warrant you." So coming over the first line with one foot, while he sets the other square off at a, he lays the right hand near the left shoulder, and says, "Good day, Gentlemen." Coming over the second line with one foot, while he sets the other square off at b, he lays the right hand on the left side, and says, "God be here." Coming over the third line with one foot, while he sets the other square off at c, he lays the right hand on the right knee, and says, "God bless all the honourable brethren."—N.B. As the square was put thrice about his body when on the bare knee, so he corne over these lines setting his feet thrice in the form of a square.

Question. What say you? Answer. Here stand I., [with his feet in the form of a square], younger and last entered prentice; ready to serve my master from the Monday morning to the Saturday night, in all lawful employments.

Q. Who made you a mason? A. God almighty's holy will made me a mason; the square, under God, made me a mason; nineteen fellow-crafts and thirteen entered prentices made me a mason. — N.B. To the best of my remembrance, the whole lodge present did not exceed twenty persons; but so I was taught to answer, which I can give no reason for.

Q. Where's your master? A. He's not so far off but he may be found. — Then if the square be at hand, it is offered on the stone at which they are working; and if not, the feet are set in the form of a square, as before shewed, being the posture he stands in while he repeats his secrets. And so the square is acknowledged to be master, both by tongue and feet.

Q. How set you the square? A. I ca' two irons in the wall; if two will not, three will; and that makes both square and level. — N.B. If they ca' in two irons above and one below, it makes a kind of both square and level; though ordinarily they ca' in but one. And the reason why it is said to set the square, and not hang it, is, They're not to hang their master.

Q. What's a mason? A. He's a mason that's a mason born, a mason sworn, and a mason by trade.

Q. Where keep you the key of your lodge? A. Between my tongue and my teeth, and under a lap of my liver, where all the secrets of my heart lie: for if I tell any thing in the lodge, my tongue is to be taken out from beneath my chowks, and my heart out from beneath my left exter, and my body to be buried within the sea-mark, where it ebbs and flows twice in the twenty-four hours.

Q. What's the key of your lodge? A. A well-hung tongue.

Q. Are you a mason? A. Yes. Q. How shall I know that? A. By signs, tokens, and points, of my entry. Master. Shew me one of these. Prentice. Shew you me the first, and shew you the second. — So the master gives him the sign, with the right hand up the left side. — P. More clear. — Then the master gives it uppermore, or moves his right hand a little farther up the left side. — P. Heal and conceal. — N.B. The token or grip is, by laying the ball of the thumb of the right hand upon the first or uppermost knuckle of the second finger from the thumb of the other's right hand.

Q. How many points are there in the word? A. Five. Q. What are these five? A. The word is one, the sign is two, the grip is three, the penalty is four, and Heal and conceal is five.

Q. Where was you entered? A. In a just and perfect lodge. Q. What makes a just and perfect lodge? A. Five fellow-crafts, and seven entered prentices. — N.B. They do not restrict themselves to this number, though they mention it in their form of questions, but will do the thing with fewer.

Q. Where should the mason-word be given? A. On the top of a mountain, from the crow of a cock, the bark of a dog, or the turtle of a dove.

Q. How many points are there in the square? A. Five. Q. What are these five? A. The square, our master under God, is one; the level's two, the plumb-rule's three, the hand-rule's four, and the gage is five.

The day that a prentice comes under the oath, he gets his choice of a mark to be put upon his tools, by which to discern them. So I did chuse this, [The figure is in the M.S.], which cost one mark Scots. Hereby one is taught to say to such as ask the question, Where got you this mark? A. I laid down one, and took up another.

If one should come to a mason working at a stone, and say, "That stone lies boss," the prentice is taught to answer, "It is not so boss but it may be filled up again;" or, "It is not so boss as your head would be if your harns were out."

Q. When doth a mason wear his flowers? A. Between Martinmas and Yule. Q. What's a mason's livery? A. A yellow cap and blue breeches; — meaning the compasses.

Q. How many jewels are there in your lodge? A. Three. Q. What are these three? A. A square pavement, a dinted ashler, and a broached dornal. Q. What's the square pavement for? A. For the master-mason to draw his ground-draughts on. Q. What's the dinted ashler for? A. To adjust the square, and make the gages by. Q. What's the broached dornal for? A. For me, younger and last-entered prentice, to learn to broach upon.

Q. How high should a mason's siege be? A. Two steeples, a back, and a cover, knee-high all together. — N.B. One is taught, that the cowan's siege is built up of whin stones, that it may soon tumble down again; and it stands half out half in the lodge, that bis neck may be under the drop in rainy weather, to come in at his shoulders, and run out at his shoes.
Q. Where lies the cappel-tow? A. Eighteen or nineteen foot and an half from the lodge-door; and at the end of it lies the cavel-mell, to dress the stones with.—N.B. There is no such thing among them as a cappel-tow.

Q. Where place ye your lodge? A. On the sunny side of a hill, that the sun may ascend on't when it rises.—N.B. A lodge is a place where masons assemble and work. Hence that assembly or society of masons is called a lodge.

Q. How stands your lodge? A. East and west, as kirks and chapels did of old. Q. Why so? A. Because they were holy; and so we ought to be. Q. How many lights are there in your lodge? A. Three. Q. What are these three? The south-east, south, and south-west. Q. How many levels are there in your lodge? A. Three. Q. What are these three? A. The sun, and the sea, and the level.—N.B. I can give no reason why the sun and the sea are called two of their levels, but so they will have it.—To be particular in shewing how the master-mason stands at the south-east corner of the lodge, and the fellow-crafts next to him, and next to them the wardens, and next the entered prentices, and how their sieges stand distant one from another, and the tools they work with, is not worth while.

Q. Where lay you the key of your lodge? A. Two foot and an half from the lodge-door, beneath a green divot.—N.B. This is meant of their oath, under which the secrets of the lodge are hid from the drop; that is, from the unentered prentice, or any others not of their society, whom they call drops.

Q. How long should a prentice wear his shirt? A. Till there be nine knots on it; three up the back, and three down each arm.

To find another by drinking, one says, "Drink." The other answers, "No." He saith the second rime, "Drink," The other answers, "After you is good manners." Again lie saith, "Drink; I warrant you." And then he takes it.

Coming to an house where masons may be, he is to knock three knocks on the door; a lesser, a more, and a more. One gives the sign with the right hand up the left side; or if riding, he is to strike the horse over the left shoulder. If in a land where their language is not known, he is to kneel with one knee, holding up his hand before the masons.

If one coming into a company, wants to know whether there be a mason in the same; as he comes in, he makes himself to stumble, and says, "The day's for seeing, and the night's for hearing; God be thanked we have all our formal mercies. There is no difference between a dun cow and a dun hummle cow." Then, if a mason be in that company, he says, "What says the fellow?" He answers, "I say nothing but what I may say again: There is no difference between a durs cow and a dun hummle cow."

A mason's horse is found out among others by the left-foot stirrup being laid up.

To know if one or more masons be in a company which one meets on the way, he says, "Who walks? Then, if one be there, he says, "A man walks: if more be there, the answer is, Men walk." Then says he, "Good men and masters met you be; God bless all your company." Or he gives the sign, by the right hand above the breath, which is called the fellow-crafts due guard; and the grip, by clasping his fingers at the wrist, next at the elbow: or placing himself hand to hand, foot to foot, knee to knee, heart to heart, ear to ear, says, "Great you, great you, God greateth you, and make you a good master-mason"; I'm a young man, going to push my fortune; if you can furnish me, you will do well."

I shall now give an account of what they call the Monday's tesson.—When the prentice cometh to his master's kitchen door, he is to knock three knocks; a lesser, a more, and a more. If none answers, he is to lift the sneck, and go in, and wash the dishes, and sweep the house. Q. How far is the prentice to carry off the ashes? A. As far off until he see the smoke come out at the chimmey head. After that he goes to his master's chamber-door, and knocks three knocks; a lesser, and a more, and a more; and says, "Master, are you waking?" If he answer, "Not so sound but I may be wakened," then he goes in. His master asks him, "What'n a morning is it? He answers, "It's a fair morning; the wind's in the west and the sun's in the east; part five, going to six." His master says, "Who told you that? The prentice answers, he "met with a hather-man." "Ay, (says his master), sorrow is ay soon up at morn."

Q. How doth the prenticc give his master his shirt? A. He gives it with the left sleeve foremost, and the neck of it next him, with the breast of it upmost, in readiness to put on. In like manner he gives him the rest of his cloaths. After that, he gives him water to wash himself; then he offers him a cloth to dry himself; he will not have that; he offers him his shirt-tail; he will not have that; then he bids him do his next best. After that, he follows his master up street, down street, with his right foot at his master's left, sword point, within stroke of a nine inch gage, till he come within sixteen feet and a half of the lodge door; there the prentice leaves him. Then he goes to sort up the lodge, and put the things in order; after which, he calls in the men to work.

And this is the amount of that invented matter; or all I can remember that is material in it.

P.S. There was printed, in the year 1747, (ix. 404), A protestation and declinature from the society of operative masons in the lodge at Torphichen, to meet at Livingston Kirk, Dec. 27, 1739; subscribed, of that date, at Kirknewton, by James Chrystie; with a subscribed adherence, at the same place and of the same date, by James Aikman, Andrew Purdie, and John Chrystie; and with another subscribed adherence, at Dalkeith, July 27, 1747, by John Miller.

In that paper, they renounce the mason-oath, as finding the same "sinful and unlawful, both as to its matter and form, and therefore not binding upon their consciences." They declare, that it is imposed and administered "with such rites, ceremonies, and circumstances, as are in themselves sinful and unwarrantable, and a symbolising with idolaters; such as, kneeling upon their bare knee, and the naked arm upon the Bible:—That "it is and must to every intrant be sworn rashly; without allowing a copy of the said oath, and time duly and deliberately to consider the lawfulness of it; the matter thereof, or things sworn to therein, never being under their serious consideration previous to the swearing of that oath; seeing the person swearing knows not what he is swearing to:”—That they "do look upon it as an unlawful obligation, to conceal the dreadful wickedness, superstition, idolatry, blasphemy, and profanation of the naïve and ordinance of God, which is contained in and annexed to that oath, altogether unbecoming the naïve and profession of Christians; by the which unlawful means of secrecy, many are rashly and inconsiderately precipitated and sily drawn into that sinful confederacy and wickedness aboy said, ere ever they can be aware of it:—That " it is an appending the seal of a solemn oath, containing horrid, dreadful, and uncommon imprecations, to a blank, yea to worse, to ridiculous nonsense and superstition; nonsense, (and that with this aggravation, of profaning the sacred scriptures, by intermixing them therewith), only fit for the amusement of children in a winter-evening; most of these secrets being idle stuff or lies, and other parts of it superstitious, only becoming Heathens and idolaters."—Moreover they declare, that the secrecy is broke and disclosed, by "what is already published to the world in print; concerning which (say they) there have been many lies and equivocations, in denying the same, though they contain the substance of the mystery."—I am, &c.

D. B.

[N.B. With his latter, above inserted, Mr D. B. sent us the paper he mentions (132),1 which is dated Nov. 13, 1751, and another, of the same handwriting and subscription, dated Feb. 20 1752. Also a paper containing several queries which he sent to the mason, for explaining some things in his papers. • and the mason's answers. Having compared the preceding narrative with these papers, we find that it is faithfully taken from them: so that whatever shall be thought of the mason's conduct, which it does not become us either to justify or condemn, the authenticity of the narrative may be depended on.]

1 Page 99 in the present volume.
THE WILKINSON MS.

PREFACE

We have to express our thanks to Bro. B. A. Swinden of Northampton for drawing our attention to the Wilkinson MS. and for placing at our disposal such information as he could gather about its history; to Bro. Harold Wilkinson for allowing the manuscript to be sent to us for examination and reproduction; and to Dr. B. Schofield of the British Museum MSS. Department for assistance in dating the handwriting.

For their help in elucidating the word giblin [Q. 53] we are indebted to Bro. Rabbi Barnet I. Cohen and Bro. Canon W. W. Covey-Crump; for assistance regarding the technique and terminology of the operative contrivance called a lewis [Q. 54], we have to thank Bro. Edward Boot, and our colleagues Prof. J. Husband, Emeritus Professor of Civil Engineering, and Mr. Stephen Welsh, Lecturer in Architecture; for valuable suggestions regarding the origin and derivation of the word lezvis, we are greatly beholden to Prof. Paul Barbier, Emeritus Professor of French in the University of Leeds, to Mr. H. C. Johnson of the Public Record Office, and to our colleagues Mr. Harold Orton, Lecturer in English language, and Dr. N. B. Lewis, Lecturer in Medieval History.

The many references to E.M.C. in the footnotes to this paper are to our Earl), Masonic Catechisms (Manchester University Press, 1943)\(^1\)

D. K.
G. P. J.
D. H.

The University,
Sheffield, 10

September, 1946

1 Revised edition 1963
2. Right brooke to the white water. Let you turn off the old road to the 3. Come and see the Gentry. May 3. Proof of your friend.

Wilkinson MS., p. 8

Wilkinson MS., p. 9
THE WILKINSON MS.

INTRODUCTION

Immediate Provenance of the Manuscript. In March, 1946, Bro. B. A. Swinden of Northampton drew our attention to this manuscript belonging to Bro. Harold Wilkinson of Pomfret Lodge, No. 360, Northampton, who found it among the papers of his late father, Bro. Samuel Blaze Wilkinson (1851-1931) of 69, Billing Road, Northampton. Bro. Wilkinson very kindly consented to the manuscript being forwarded to us for examination and reproduction, and allowed us to send it to Dr. B. Schofield of the British Museum MSS. Dept. for further examination. After we had returned the manuscript to Northampton, it was presented by Bro. Wilkinson to the Northampton Masonic Library.

Unfortunately, Bro. Wilkinson has no information about the history of the document, and does not know how it came into the possession of his father, who in his day was one of the stalwarts of the Pomfret Lodge, and a prominent member of the Craft, Arch, Mark, K.T. and Rose Croix. His interest in the historical side of masonry is clear from his ownership of the document we call the Wilkinson MS., and also of a small notebook containing copies of what appear to be relatively early [pre-1813] versions of (i) the First Degree Lecture, and (ii) the Traditional History. Bro. Wilkinson knows nothing of his grandfather’s relatives; of his grandmother’s brothers, three were stonemasons, but only one, and he an engineer, was a freemason. The family appears to have originated at Clipsharn in Rutland, though at least three members of it came to Northampton and were connected with the stone quarries at Harlestone, a mile or two from the present borough boundary. The engineer freemason, mentioned above, who lived at Wellingborough, apparently took very little interest in the Craft. Samuel Blaze Wilkinson appears to have lived all his life at Northampton. The Pomfret Lodge was not warranted until 1819, but there was a Lodge at The George, Northampton, constituted on 16th January, 1730 as No. 62\(^1\), incorrectly numbered in Prichard's Masonry Dissected of October, 1730 as No. 60\(^2\). It became No. 64 in 1740, and was erased on 29th November, 1754\(^3\). Whilst the Wilkinson MS. would appear to represent a pre-Prichard working, there is no evidence whatsoever that the working in question was followed at a Northampton Lodge. Nor is it at ail certain, for reasons given later, that the document was written as early as 1730.

Paper and Format. The paper, which is foolscap size, 12 7/8" x 7 7/8", is handmade and of good quality, with the so-called VRYHEYT watermark, and the letters GR surmounted by a crown, as countermark. We make further reference to the watermark and countermark when discussing the date of the paper. Three single foolscap sheets were folded across the middle to form a booklet of six leaves or twelve pages. The two outer sheets have since been torn or worn down the fold: the countermarks appear across the original fold of these sheets, and the halves correspond across the tear, thus proving that each pair of half leaves originally formed one sheet.

The first leaf, constituting what we describe as pages i and ii, was originally blank on both sides, with the exception of what appears to be a mason's mark, AA, somewhat resembling two inverted V's next to each other, which appears at the top of page i, and seems to be in the same ink and style of writing as the text. Possibly it was the mark of the scribe who wrote the document. More recently, there have been added, below the mark, the words "Old Ritual" in pencil, and in ink, written with a steel nib, "S. B. Wilkinson | 69, Billing Road | Northampton." Each half sheet has been stamped with an embossed address stamp, 69, BILLING ROAD, | NORTHAMPTON, visible in the photographic reproduction of page i, and faintly discernible in

---

\(^1\)Lane, Masonic Records, 55.
\(^2\)E.M.C., 173; Lane, Handy Book to the Lists of Lodges, 179.
\(^3\)Lane, Masonic Records, 55.
The Wilkinson MS.

(c) The old-fashioned \textit{e} is of frequent occurrence, as in answers 1, 2 and 3;

(d) Capital I and J are both written \textit{j};

(e) I'll is apparently written ile; this is probably only a scribal peculiarity for I'll, and not a misspelling. Cf. the apparent \textit{level} for \textit{levell} in Q.48 and A.49.

(f) The occasional use of \textit{-ick} terminations;

(g) The occasional doubling of final single consonants: sett, Jewell, Urell, Levell;

(h) The occasional use of \textit{y} for \textit{that}, \textit{y} for \textit{your}, \textit{sho} for \textit{should};

(i) Ample use of initial capitals for nouns and some times for verbs;

(j) Verbs ending in \textit{-ed} are, with two exceptions—introduc'd in Q.24 and \textit{until'd} in Q.76—so spelt in full, and not \textit{-d};

(k) Punctuation very poor: query marks, stops at end of answers, and possessive apostrophes frequently omitted.

The handwriting, in our opinion, belongs anywhere within the period 1700-1820, but the use of handmade foolscap paper (assuming it was not derived from an old stock) almost certainly keeps it within the eighteenth century. This is confirmed by the uses noted under sections \textit{a}, \textit{b}, \textit{c}, \textit{d}, \textit{f}, \textit{g} and \textit{h} above, which were more frequent in the eighteenth century than in the nineteenth. On the other hand, the almost consistent use of \textit{-ed}, instead of \textit{-d}, in past tenses and participles of verbs, would seem to point to the second half, rather than to the first half of the eighteenth century.

\textit{Watermark and Countermark.} The so-called \textit{VRYHEYT} watermark of our document, reproduced in a tracing opposite, points to the paper being either of Dutch origin, or made by French paper-makers who freely imitated Dutch paper and watermarks. The fact that our paper bears no maker's name, initials, or mark inclines us to believe that it was not of Dutch manufacture, but a French imitation of a Dutch paper. The use of the GR and Crown countermark shows that the paper was manufactured solely for the English market.

W. A. Churchill, Watermarks in Paper in the XVII and XVIII Centuries, reproduces some thirty examples of the VRYHEYT watermark. In the earlier examples; dating from 1654 to 1720, the Lion, Spear, and Seven Darts, together with the base bearing the word VRYHEYT, are enclosed in a wreath; in the later examples, dating from 1704 to c. 1813, the Lion, etc., are in a crowned circle bearing the motto Pro Patria ejusque Libertate. Our specimen obviously belongs to the latter group. A detailed examination of this group shows

1. that in some specimens the base bearing the word VRYHEYT is drawn with single lines, in others with double lines, as in our case;
2. that in most cases the spear or staff ends in a point; in three specimens illustrated by Churchill it ends, like ours, in what may be described as a St. Andrews Cross, X.

All Churchill's examples of double-line bases relate to the period 1746-1813; his three examples of the staff ending in a St. Andrews Cross relate to the period 1762-1813.

When the Dutch or French paper-makers made paper for the British market, they frequently used as countermarks the British Royal Cipher. In our case the cipher is GR, which may stand for any of the four Georges (1714-1830). Churchill's only example of a VRYHEYT watermark with a crowned GR countermark is a manuscript dated 1785, but it is quite possible that paper with this particular watermark and countermark was manufactured prior to 1785.

Relationship to other Catechisms. The Wilkinson MS. is more closely related to the "Enter'd 'Prentices Degree" of Prichard's Masonry Dissected, published in October 1730, than is any previously-known version of the early masonic catechisms including A Dialogue between Simon and Philip (c. 1725)1, the affinity of which to the first part of Masonry Dissected we pointed out in our paper on the Dialogue in A.Q.C., lvii. The order of the questions and answers in the Wilkinson MS. and in Prichard is different; further, the Wilkinson MS. contains about a dozen questions and answers not found in Prichard, and conversely, Prichard, Part I, contains about a score of questions and answers for which there are no counterparts in our manuscript. Some sixty-five questions and answers are more or less common to the two catechisms, though the actual phrasing of the questions and the exact substance of the answers sometimes differ. These matters are clearly brought out in detail in connection with the transcript of the Wilkinson MS. which we print below in parallel columns with the "Enter'd 'Prentice's Degree" in Masonry Dissected. Here we may content ourselves with saying that we do not regard our document merely as an early short version of the first part of Prichard; we do not think that Prichard's working of the First Degree is descended directly from the working depicted in our manuscript, but that both workings are descended, through different lines, from a common ancestor, the working portrayed in our document being rather older than that portrayed by Prichard. The latter's pamphlet was published in October 1730: the former would appear to be more recent than the working pictured in *The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd*2 of 1724, and we are this disposed to date the working portrayed in the Wilkinson MS. as about 1727.

The Date of the Manuscript. Though internal evidence suggests that the working portrayed in our document relates to c. 1727, that is by no means the same thing as saying that the Wilkinson MS. dates from c. 1727. There is always the possibility to be borne in mind that our document is either a pre-1730 or a post-1730 copy of a pre-1730 manuscript, and not a catechism written down by the scribe from memory. In two cases, Q.31 and Q.62, an essential word is omitted; in two other cases, A.32 and A.65, a word is repeated; both of which errors suggest careless copying. On the other hand, the separation of two questions and answers, 62 and 73, about the secrets of a mason,

---

1See our Reply to comments on our paper in A.Q.C. lvii.
2Reprinted in E.M.C. 76.
The Wilkinson MS.

The omission of a question and answer relating to the key to those secrets, of which Q. and A. 73 is the amplification, suggest either a catechism set down from memory, or a copy of an earlier written version which was defective. The fact that certain other questions and answers do not appear to be in very logical order, also suggests reproduction from memory at some stage or other. The question is, when was our document copied out, or, if it be an original, when was it written down from memory?

The answer must depend, in part at least, upon the purpose for which the document was copied or written: (i) It may be an eighteenth-century antiquary's copy of an early eighteenth-century catechism, or (ii) a copy made by a mason who was lent an older document which interested him, or (iii) a mason's aide mémoire, prepared possibly by an experienced mason for the benefit of a less experienced brother.

(i) If the document served the first purpose, one would expect it either (a) to be written in a commonplace or similar book, like the Drinkwater and Huddleston versions of the Old Charges, and two early catechisms, Institution of Free Masons and the Essex MS., or (b) to be carefully and accurately copied by a competent scribe on a roll like the Chesham MS. or in a small leather-bound book, like the Woodford MS. and the Supreme Council MS. Our document, on loose sheets and with various corrections, complies with neither of these conditions. Nor can it once have been six leaves from the centre of a commonplace book, for in that case, the trimming of the edges to form the book would have made the three sheets of foolscap smaller than is actually the case.

(ii) The considerations we have just put forward would not apply to a copy made by a man who was interested in an old document that might have been lent to him, just as J. L. Higsom in 1852 made a copy of a version of the Old Charges, now known as the Wren MS., or just as Bro. Fred T. Cramphorn about 1930 made a typescript copy of A Dialogue between Simon and Philip, when Bro. Lister Salisbury lent him the original manuscript which cannot be traced since Salisbury's death. The transcript we printed in our Early Masonic Catechisms was prepared from

Bro. Cramphorn's typescript copy. Similarly, the document which we now reproduce in facsimile and transcript may be a copy, made in the second half of the eighteenth century, of an original written some decades previously.

Three features of the Wilkinson MS., namely:

(a) the folding horizontally into three (though not very tightly, to judge by the marks visible on page 1 of the photographic reproduction, and on no other page)

(b) the somewhat worn condition of the two outer leaves along the folds which were originally the middle of the foolscap sheets when they were folded to form a booklet;

(c) the discoloured state of the outside pages, 1 and 10, clearly visible in the photographic reproductions; suggest that the document may have been used a good deal, possibly because it served as a mason's aide mémoire. Had it always been kept folded horizontally in three, only two-thirds of the front page would have shown signs of discolouration, so the presumption is that it was usually kept flat or unfolded, sometimes with page 1 upwards, and sometimes with page 10 upwards, in a place where it was exposed to dust, as would be the case in most drawers. If papers, including our document, were put into and taken out of a drawer fairly frequently, this might explain the somewhat worn and discoloured condition of the manuscript, and no question of its having been used as a mason's aide mémoire might arise.

Of the three purposes which the document might have served, we are satisfied, for the reasons indicated above, that the document is not a copy of an early masonic catechism especially prepared by or for an eighteenth-century antiquary. We are left, therefore, with two possibilities, and we propose to view the problem of dating the document, first, on the hypothesis that it was a mason's aide mémoire, and second, on the hypothesis that it was a copy made by a man who obtained access to an older document which interested him.

(i) The first hypothesis seems to imply a relatively early date, as we find it difficult to believe that the working portrayed in our manuscript was used very long after Prichard's pamphlet had appeared in October 1730, though in the 1730's, and possibly in the 1740's, there may have been lodges outside the London area where Masonry Dissected was unknown, or where local masonic stalwarts did not take kindly to modifications and revision of ritual. On the other hand, it must not be overlooked that our document shows various signs of having been used for some time after it had been copied or written, and that it presumably dates from a period some years before the working it represents was replaced, in the locality to which it related, by a more up-to-date working.

In view of the somewhat conflicting evidence, no definite conclusion regarding the date of the manuscript—always assuming that it was a mason's aide mémoire—can be reached. The only thing that appears fairly certain is that the working portrayed in the Wilkinson MS., judging by the stage of its evolution, represents a post-1724 and a pre-1730 ritual by origin, though it is always possible that once established in a particular locality it became relatively stabilized, and continued to be used more or less unchanged for a number of years after 1730. The fact that three official editions, one pirated edition, and at least one newspaper reprint of Masonry Dissected made their appearance within a fortnight of its first publication on 20th October, 1730, that eight London editions appeared in the 1730's, and that the pamphlet was reprinted more than eight times in England and Scotland in the 1740's, is generally accepted as evidence that Prichard exercised a big influence on masonic ritual within a decade, or possibly two decades, if not within a few months, of the appearance of his pamphlet. Thus it would seem unlikely that the working portrayed in the Wilkinson MS. was used in an unchanged form much after 1740, if as late as that. As the Wilkinson MS., judging by its condition, was written some years before it ceased to serve as an aide mémoire—always assuming that it did so serve—the presumption must be that it was written between c. 1730 and c. 1740.

As such a date cannot be reconciled with the relatively concrete evidence of dating provided by the watermark of the paper and the spellings of the text, except on the assumptions (a) that the almost consistent use in our document of the termination -ed, instead of -'d, in past tenses and past participles of verbs, was due to the pedantry of the scribe, and (b) that the relatively late appearance in Churchill's book of our particular variety of VRYHEYT watermark was due to the incompleteness of the specimens collected and reproduced by him, we feel that a date of c. 1730 to c. 1740, though not impossible, is not very probable.

(ii) On the second hypothesis, viz., that the document is a copy of an early eighteenth-century catechism made by a man who obtained access to an older manuscript which interested him, the problem of dating depends entirely on external evidence, such as the character of the handwriting, the spellings of the text, and the watermark and countermark of the paper. Regarding the handwriting, we concur in the view of Dr. B. Schofield of the British Museum MSS. Department, that the document is in a typical eighteenth-century hand. As pointed out above, certain of the spellings suggest the second rather than the first half of the eighteenth century. Likewise, as mentioned previously, although varieties of the VRYHEYT watermark are found in papers dating from the second half of the seventeenth century and the whole of the eighteenth century, specimens enclosed in a crowned circle have been traced only in the eighteenth century, and examples of the more elaborate VRYHEYT watermark, such as in our document, have been traced by Churchill only between 1762 and c. 1813. In view of these considerations—assuming now that the Wilkinson MS. is a copy of an earlier manuscript made by an interested mason we should have to date the document as 1750-1790.

Our conclusions regarding the date of the manuscript are necessarily very indefinite, as we do not know for certain whether the document was (a) an aide mémoire, or (b) a copy made by a man who found an older document which interested him. If it is the former, the probability is that the date is c. 1730- c. 1740; if the latter, 1750-1790. These uncertainties regarding the date of the document in no way affect our opinion regarding the date of the working portrayed in the document, which, as previously indicated, we consider to belong to the period 1724-1730.

The Wilkinson MS.

Treatment of the Text. We give our text both in photographie facsimile (reduced roughly to four-fifths of the original size for convenience of reproduction in a pamphlet), and in a printed transcript. We have provided the latter, partly for the benefit of readers who may experience difficulty in deciphering the handwriting in places, but mainly so that the Wilkinson MS. might be set out in parallel columns with the first part of Prichard's Masonry Dissected. The order of the questions and answers of the latter text is re-arranged to correspond, as far as possible, with those of our document, blank spaces being introduced into either text as the case may be, where there is no corresponding item in the other. To facilitate reference, and to show the different order of the questions in the two catechisms, we insert numbers in square brackets before the questions in both texts, in each case the order of the numbers being that in which the questions occur in the originals. Reference to the facsimile will show that there are no blank spaces to questions in the Wilkinson MS. Similarly, there are no blank spaces and no numbers to questions in the original of. Prichard's Masonry Dissected.

In our printed transcript of the Wilkinson MS. the orthography, initial capitals, punctuation (or lack of punctuation) and abbreviations of our original have been carefully followed, with the exception that everywhere we print the old-fashioned long s as s. We print the document in roman type throughout, with the exception of the explanatory notes added by the scribe to Answers 12 and 64; these we print in halles.

Our reprint of the questions and answers of Prichard's Masonry Dissected is made from pages 9-19 of a copy in the British Museum of the 3rd edition (advertised for sale on 31st October 1730). We follow the type, orthography, initial capitals and punctuation of Prichard, but not, as explained above, the order of the questions, which has been re-arranged to correspond to that of the Wilkinson MS.
and worshipful Lodge of Brothers and Fellows well met.

[66] Q. What are Secretts
A. Signs, tokens & many Words

[86] Ex. Give me the Enter'd 'Prentice's Sign.
Resp. Extending the Four Fingers of the Right Hand and drawing of them cross his Throat, is the Sign, and demands a Token.

N.B. A Token is by joining the Bali of the Thumb of the Right Hand upon the first Knuckle of the Fore-finger of the Brother's Right Hand that demands a Word.

Vide ye 3d Chap. of 2d book of Chronicles 17th, where you'll find Boaz was the Name of the Pillar of the left hand before Solomon Temple, yt o n y ' Right hand Iachin.

[12] B
[1] 2
2
3
A

[89] Resp. JACHIN [N.B. Boaz and Jachin were two Pillars in Solomon's Porch I Kings, chap. vii. ver.21.]

[2] Q. What Recommendations brought you from thence?
A. The Recommendations which I brought from the Right Worshipful Brothers and Fellows of the Right Worshipful and Holy Lodge of St. John's from whence I came, and Greet you thice heartily well.

[3] Q. What do you come here to do?
A. Not to do my own proper Will,
But to subdue my Passion still;
The Rules of Masonry in hand to take,
And daily Progress therein make.
[14] Q. What did you see before you was Admitted into the Lodge
   A. the Junior Apprentice with a drawn Sword in his hand

[16] Q. Who brought you to the Lodge?
   A. An Enter'd 'Prentice.

[17] Q. How did he bring you?
   A. Neither naked nor cloathed, bare foot nor shod, deprived of all Metal and in a right moving Posture.

[18] Q. How got you Admittance?
   A. By three great Knocks.

[19] Q. Who receiv'd you?
   A. A Junior Warden.

[20] Q. How did he dispose of you?
   A. He carried me up to the North-East Part of the Lodge, and brought me back again to the West and deliver'd me to the Senior Warden.

[21] Q. What did the Senior Warden do with you?
   A. He presented me, and shew'd me how to walk

[19] Q. What did the Master do with you
   A Made me a Mason

[20] Q. How was you made a Mason
   A. Neither setting nor Standing Naked nor Cloathed but in due form

[21] Q. what is due form
   A. with bare bended knee to the Ground between the Square & my left hand upon the bible, my Right hand Extended with the Compasses to my Naked left breast, taking the Solemn Obligation of a Mason

[22] Q. Can you Repeat it
   A. I Can

[23] Q. Repeat it
   A. I do hereby Solemnly Promise & declare in the Presence of Almighty God, that I will heal & Conceal all up (by three Steps) to the Master.

[22] Q. What did the Master do with you?
A. He made me a Mason.

[23] Q. How did he make you a Mason?

A. With my bare-bended Knee and Body within the Square, the Compass extended to my naked Left Breast, my naked Right Hand on the Holy Bible; there I took the Obligation (or Oath) of a Mason.

[24] Q. Can you repeat that Obligation
A. I'll do my Endeavour. (Which is as follows.)

_I H ereby solemnly V ow and Swear i n t he P resence of A l-mighty God an d t his Right Worshipful A ssembly, that I w ill H ail and Conceal;_
Wilkinson MS.

The Wilkinson MS.

Masonry Dissected

The Wilkinson MS.

[24] Q. What did you see when you were introduced into the Lodge?
A. three great lights

[25] Q. What do they represent?
A. Sun, Moon, & Master Mason

N.B. These Lights are three large Candies placed on high Candlesticks.

[26] Q. Why so?
A. the Sun to Rule the day, the Moon yᵉ Night and the Master Mason the Lodge [49] Q. Have you any Lights in your Lodge?

A. Yes, Three.

[50] Q. What do they represent?
A. Sun, Moon and Master-Mason.

N.B. These Lights are three large Candies placed on high Candlesticks.

[51] Q. Why so?
A. Sun to rule the Day, Moon the Night, and Master Mason his Lodge.

[52] Q. Have you any fix'd Lights in your Lodge?
A. Yes.

[53] Q. How many?
A. Three.

N.B. These fix'd Lights are Three Windows, suppos'd (tho' vainly) to be in every Room where a Lodge is held, but more properly the four Cardinal Points according to the antique Rules of Masonry.

[54] Q. How are they situated?
A. East, South and West.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Question</th>
<th>Answer</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>What are their Uses?</td>
<td>To light the Men to, at and from their Work.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why are there no Lights in the North?</td>
<td>Because the Sun darts no Rays from thence.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why do the Master Stand?</td>
<td>In the East to open the Day So the Master Stands in the East to open the Lodge &amp; Sett the Men to Work.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why so?</td>
<td>As the Sun Rises in the East and opens the Day, so the Master stands in the East with his Right Hand and upon his Left Breast being a Sign, and M e Square about his Neck to open the Lodge and to set his Men at Work.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why do the Warden Stand?</td>
<td>In the West to close the Day so he dismisses the Men from Work.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why so?</td>
<td>As the Sun sets in the West, so the Warden Stand in the West with their Right Hands and upon their Left Breasts being a Sign, and the Level and Plumb-Rule about their Necks.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where does the Fellow Craft Stand?</td>
<td>In the South.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why so?</td>
<td>To heal &amp; Conceal &amp; welcome strange Brothers.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where stands your Master?</td>
<td>In the East.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why so?</td>
<td>As the Sun rises in the East and opens the Day, so the Master stands in the East.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where stands your Warden?</td>
<td>In the West.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why so?</td>
<td>As the Sun sets in the West, so the Warden Stand in the West.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where does the Fellow Craft Stand?</td>
<td>In the South.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why so?</td>
<td>To heal &amp; Conceal &amp; welcome strange Brothers.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where stands your Master?</td>
<td>In the East.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why so?</td>
<td>As the Sun rises in the East and opens the Day, so the Master stands in the East.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where stands the Senior Enter'd 'Prentice?</td>
<td>In the South.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What is his Business?</td>
<td>To hear and receive Instructions and welcome strange Brothers.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where stands the Junior Enter'd 'Prentice?</td>
<td>In the North.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What is his Business?</td>
<td>To keep off all Cowans and Eves-droppers.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>If a Cowan (or Listner) is catch'd, how is he to be punished?</td>
<td>To be placed under the Eves of the Houses (in rainy Weather) till the Water runs in at his Shoulders and out at his Shooes.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>How is the Lodge Situated?</td>
<td>Due East and West.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why so?</td>
<td>Because all Churches and Chappels are or ought to be.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Q. Where does it Stand?
A. Upon holy Ground in the Vale of Jehosaphat or Elsewhere

[37] Q. How high is your Lodge?
A. Feet & Inches Innumerable

[38] Q. What is the form of your Lodge?
A. An Oblong Square

[39] Q. Why so
A. the Manner of our Great Master Hiram's grave

[40] Q. What is the Center of your Lodge?
A. The Letter G

[41] Q. What does it Signify?
A. Geometry

[42] Q. Where does the Lodge stand?
A. Upon Holy Ground, or the highest Hill or lowest Vale, or in the Vale Of Jehosaphat, or any other secret Place.

Q. How high?
A. Inches, Feet and Yards innumerable, as high as the Heavens.

[43] Q. How deep?
A. To the Centre of the Earth.

[44] Q. How many?
A. Six. Three Moveable, and three Immoveable.

Q. What is the Center of your Lodge?
A. The Letter G

Q. Why was you made a Fellow-Craft?
A. For the sake of the Letter G.

Q. What does that G denote?
A. Geometry, or the fifth Science.
Q. What are the Immoveable Jewels?

A. Trasel Board, Rough Ashler, and Broach'd Thurnel.
[45] Q. What's the first Use of them
A. the Mosaic Pavement for the Master to draw his design upon; the dented Ashler for the fellow Craft to try their Jewels upon; and the Broach'd Urnell for the Entered Apprentice to Work upon.

[46] Q. Have you any Moveable Jewels in yr. Lodge
A. We have.

[47] Q. How many A. three

[48] Q. What are they
A. Square, Levell & Plumb.

[49] Q. What are their Use
A. the Square to see y'. Corner Stones are laid square; the Levell that they are laid Levell And y' Plumb to Raise Perpendiculars.

[50] Q. What's the furniture of your Lodge
A. the Bible, Compasses & the Square.

1Originally ' upon."
2Originally the scribe wrote ' th as if to write ' the '. This he blotted, then he wrote ' to' over it heavily.
Q. What’s his Priviledge
A. To be Made a Mason before all others

Q. How many makes a Lodge.
A. five free & Accepted Masons met together in place and due form

Q. How many make a true & perfect Lodge
A. Seven

Q. What do they Consist of
A. A Master, two Wardens, two Fellow-Craft, one Enter’d ‘Prentice.

Q. What makes a Lodge?
A. Five.

Q. What do they consist of?
A. One Master, two Wardens, one Fellow-Craft, one Enter’d ‘Prentice.

Q. What makes a Just and Perfect Lodge?
A. Seven or more.

Q. What do they consist of?
A. One Master, two Wardens, two Fellow-Crafts and two Enter’d ‘Prentices.

Q. Have you seen the Master today?
A. I have

Q. How was he Cloathed
A. In a Yellow Jacket & blew pr of breeches

Q. Where do [you] keep Secretts as a Mason
A. in a bone box that Neither Opens nor Shuts but with Ivory keys, nine Inches or a Span from my Mouth

Q. Have you seen your Master to-day?
A. Yes.

Q. How was he Cloathed?
A. In a Yellow Jacket and Blue Pair of Breeches.

N.B. The Yellow Jacket is Me Compasses, and the Blue Breeches Me Steel Points.

Q. How long do you serve your Master?
A. From Monday Morning to Saturday Night.

Q. How do you serve him?
A. With Chalk, Charcoal and Earthen Pan.

Q. What do they denote?
A. Freedom, Fervency and Zeal.

Q. Where do you keep those Secrets?
A. Under my Left Breast.

Q. Have you any Key to those Secrets?
A. Yes.

Q. Where do you keep it?
A. In a Bone Bone Box that neither opens nor shuts but with Ivory Keys.

Q. Does it hang or does it lie?
A. It hangs.

Q. What does it bang by?
A. A Tow-Line 9 Inches or a Span.
Q. Have you any Principles?
A. I have.

What
A. Point, Line, Superficies & Solid

Definitions in Euclid
A Point is y' wch hath no Part A line is a length with' a breadth A Superficies is yt wch hath only length & breadth A Solid is y wch hath length breadth & Depth

Q. How many Principles are there in Masonry?
A. Four.

Q. What are they?
A. Point, Line, Superficies and Solid.

Q. Explain them.
A. Point the Centre (round which the Master cannot er') Line Length without Breadth, Superficies Length and Breadth, Solid comprehends the whole.

Q. How many Principle-Signs?
A. Four.

Q. What are they?
A. Guttural, Pectoral, Manual, Pedestal.

Q. Explain them.
A. Guttural the Throat, Pectoral the Breast, Manual the Hand, Pedestal the Feet.

Q. What Mason
A. A Man born born of a Woman, Brother to a King, Companion to a prince, & fellow to a Lord

Q. What did you learn by being a Mason
A. As a Working Mason to hew Stone & Raise Perpendiculars—as a Gentleman Mason, Secrecy Morality & good fellowship

Q. From whence came you?
A. From the Holy Lodge of St John's.

Q. Where was you made a Mason?
A. In a Just and Perfect Lodge.

Q. How blows the Wind?
A. Due East and West.

Q. What’s a Clock?
A. High Twelve.

Q. What’s the Day for?
A. To See in.
[72] Q. What's the Night for?
A. To hear & the day to see.

[73] Q. What Metal is Made off?
A. Neither Silver nor Gold, Pewter nor brass, Iron nor Steele—But the tongue of a good Report, that Speaks the Same behind a Brother as before his face—[74] Q. if a Mason be lost where is he to be found?

A. Between the Square & the Compass.

[75] Q. Why so?
A. because a Mason Shod always be upon the Square and live within Compass.

[76] When any Person or persons are in Company you know not to be a Mason, the Common Sayings are—It Rains, or it drops, or the House is Until'd—tytle the House &c

[92] Q. What's the Night for?
A. To Hear.

[72] Q. What Metal is it of?
A. No manner of Metal at all; but a Tongue of good Report is as good behind a Brother's Back as before his Face.

N.B. The Key is the Tongue, the Bone Box the Teeth, the Tow-Line the Roof of the Mouth.

[77] When any thing is Given you by a Mason, & he Asks what it smells off? the Ans' is, a Mason

[78] Whats the Age of a Mason
Three times Seven

[79] When you are Asked how Old you are When an Apprentice under Seven;— fellow Craft under 14; When a Master, three times Seven.

[90] Q. How old are you?
A. Under Seven Denoting he has not pass'd Master.

[The following appears as a paragraph in Prichard at the end of The Master's Part and it should be compared with the Wilkinson MS., QQ. 77, 74, 79.]

N.B. If any Working Masons are at Work, and you have a desire to distinguish Accepted Masons from the rest, take a Piece of Stone, and ask him what it smells of, he immediately replies, neither Brass, Iron, nor Steel, but of a Mason; then by asking him, how old he is, he replies above Seven, which de notes he has pass'd Master.
NOTES ON QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS TO WHICH THERE IS NOTHING CORRESPONDING IN PRICHARD.

Q.5. Comparison with Prichard suggests that this question is really the answer to an omitted question : " Give me the points of your entrance.". A similar question and answer occurs in the Edinburgh Register House MS. (1696) :-

Q.3 What is the first point ? Ans : Tell me the first point, I'll tell you the second, The first is to heil and conceal....

The same caution on the part of the respondent is shown in a Mason's Confession (c. 1727) :-

Q. Are you a mason ? A. Yes. Q. How shall I know that ? A. By signs, tokens, and points, of my entry. Master. Shew me one of these. Prentice. Shew you me the first, and I'll shew you the second.—So the master gives him the sign .... P. Heal and conceal.

In Sloane MS. 3329 (c. 1700.), on the other hand, the corresponding question reads :-

(Q) which is the first signe or token shew me the first and I will shew you the second (A) the first is heal and Conceal or Conceal and keep secrett..............

Thus in our Q.5 it may be the Examiner who is speaking and not the Respondent, but this would entail two difficulties : (i) it would seem to be the Examiner who is indicated by the " M Ex " at the beginning of Q.6 (see below), and who consequently says " I heal "; (ii) the Respondent would certainly have to say " I conceal ", if the next question, " Q.7 What do you conceal ", is to make sense.

It may be, however, that Q.5, " Give me the first, I'lle give you y'second ", relates, not to an omitted question about points of entry, but to " certain gripes " mentioned in the answer to Q.4. In that case, the " M Ex " and faint dotted line in Q.6 may imply that the Examiner receives from the Respondent a grip, the former then exclaiming " I heal " (which would be " y'second " referred to in the question) and the latter replying " I conceal ".

Q.6. The first two characters, followed by a faint dotted line, are somewhat obscure both in writing and in meaning. The first character would appear to be M, to judge by the M in the word " Mason " in Q.67. The second would appear to be Ex, to judge by the Ex in the word " Examination " in the ninth line of the obligation. On the other hand, as the scribe frequently maties his x serve as ampersand, the Character should perhaps be read E&. As to what M Ex ........... stands for, we can only hazard a guess. We suggest " Masons Exchange ...........[? grips] and that the Examiner then• says " I heal " and the Respondent replies " I conceal ". Unless something of this sort is read into the M Ex ........... the wrong persons will speak " I heal " and " I conceal ", as explained in the note on Q.5.

Q.14. The Mystery of Free-Masonry (1730) has a question and answer to much the same effect :-

Q. How was you admitted ?

A. When I came to the first Doon a Man with a drawn Sword asked me, If I had any Weapons ? I answer'd, No.'

A Dialogue between Simon and Philip, which, as stated in our Reply to Comments on our paper in A.Q.C. lvii, we are disposed to date as c. 1725, has a note to the same effect

(h) .............. At the door before you are admitted stands an Entred Prentice with a drawn sword to guard against droppers, as they call them, from Hearkening.

Q.20. The answer to this question corresponds roughly to the answer in Masonry Dissected given to Prichard's Q.17, " How did he [an enter'd 'Prentice] bring you [to the Lodge] ".

Q.39. The statement that the form of the Lodge is an oblong square after " The Manner of our Great Master Hirams grave " occurs in no other early catechism, so far as we are aware.

1 E.M.C. 31.  2E.M.C., 102.  SE.M.C.,47

1 E.M.C. 155.  2E.M.C., 179.
QQ. 40, 41. Somewhat similar questions and answers occur in A Dialogue Between Simon and Philip.

Phil. Why was you made a Mason?
Sim. For the sake of the Letter G.
Phil. What does it signify?
Sim. GEOMETRY.
Phil. Why GEOMETRY?
Sim. Because it is the root and foundation of all Arts and Sciences.

By way of a reference to the letter G in Prichard, we print two questions and answers from his Fellow-Craft's Degree, questions and answers more closely akin to those of A Dialogue than to those of our manuscript.

QQ. 44, 45. In making "The Mosaic Pavement" the first of the Immovable Jewels, our manuscript differs from Prichard who lists "Mosaic Pavement" among the Furniture of the Lodge [40], and introduces the "Trasel Board" among the Immovable Jewels [47]. Both our manuscript [45] and Prichard [48] define "Mosaic Pavement" and "Trasel Board" respectively as "for the Master to draw his Design(s) upon", which prima facie seems a more suitable use for a Trasel [Tracing] Board than for a "Mosaic Pavement".

The Edinburgh Register House and Chetwode Crawley MSS. give "Square pavement" among the Jewels of the Lodge, the former along with "Perpend Esler" and "broad oval" [2], the latter with "Perpendester" and "an Broked-mall" [3]. Sloane MS 3329 gives "Square pavement", the "blazing Star", and the "Dainty tassley" as the Jewels, which corresponds closely with Prichard's Furniture of the Lodge [40]. None of these catechisms defines the use of the "square pavement", but A Mason's Confession (1727), which gives the three Jewels of the Lodge as a "square pavement", a "dinted ashler", and a "broached damai", states that the square pavement is

\[1E.M.C., 177. 2E.M.C., 32. 3E.M.C., 38. 47-8. 5E.M.C., 103.\]

Q. 53. In a footnote on p.16 of his Constitutions of 1723, Anderson writes of "Men of Hewing called also .Ghiblim, Stone-Squarers and Sculpturers", giving [A.V.] 1 Kings 5.18. as the reference. The Hebrew word "Giblim", which "stone-squarers" is intended to represent in that verse, would not appear to have any etymological association with either stones or stone-cutters. No corresponding translation occurs in the Septuagint or in the Vulgate; nor is it found in the Genevan Bible (1560) or in the Douai (Roman Catholic) English version (1582). The first version in which the hybrid occurs is apparently the Bishops' Bible (1568). In the Revised Version (1884), the Hebrew word is given as a proper name—"Gebalites". Gebal is a Phoenician word meaning "boundary" or "terminus", and was applied by the Phoenicians to the northern part of the territory captured by their forefathers from the Hittites. Incidentally, there is a Hebrew word, "Gebul", which means "border" or "fence" (usually of stone). This Phoenician name—Gebal and Gebalites (or Gibling)—occurs in [A.V.] Josh. 13.5, 1 Kings 5.18, Ezek. 27.9., and Ps. 83.7. The reference in Joshua is to "the land of the Giblites"; in Kings the marginal note to "Stonesquarers reads" or Giblites"; in Ezekiel there is reference to "the ancients of Gebal"; in the Psalms "Gebal" is mentioned as among the enemies of God.

From the reference in Joshua we may infer that Gebal originally denoted a district; the reference in Ezekiel would appear to be to the well-known city of that name, situated somewhere between Sidon and Tyre. Jewish commentators regard it as an historical fact that the town of Gebal contained a gild of stone-workers. The neighbourhood was a rocky one, and would afford opportunity for local people to become experts in the hewing and dressing of stone. Jewish commentators think that I Kings 5.18. indicates that as the builders of Solomon and Hiram of Tyre did the Wood-work in connection with the Temple, the Giblites did the stone-work; hence the explanatory translation of "Giblim" as "stonesquarers." In a word, they think that "stone-squarers" is a legitimate interpretation of the word Giblites, based on what is accepted as an historical fact, but it is not a literal translation. Anderson apparently followed the Authorised Version, and the, accepted interpretation, and he himself cannot have invented either the interpretation or the translation. In the Wilkinson MS, the word Giblim is spelt Giblin, and it is also so spelt in The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd (1724), where it is said to be the Jerusalem Word, though no meaning is given. Anderson's spelling (1723) is Ghiblim, and thus he is not responsible for the incorrect form Giblin. The final -n in this latter form was an anglicisation, similar to cherubin, cherubins, for cherubim, seraphin, seraphins, for seraphim. The existence by 1724 of the anglicised form Giblin indicates that the term was already known to English masons, and that its form had followed the usual process of anglicisation of Hebrew plural nouns ending in -im.

QQ.54, 55, 56. The primary meaning of lewis is an iron contrivance by means of which heavy blocks of stone can be raised. There are at least three entirely different devices that answer the purpose, only one of which is described in modern English as a lewis, though at least two of them are called loues in French :

(i) What English stonemasons call lifting dogs, two iron hooks which are inserted in small holes cut in two sides of a block of stone (e.g. in the two ends of a window sill), the chains to which the hooks are fastened being passed through a ring and then attached to a crane or other lifting device. This contrivance is doubtless called dogs, because a dog, like a wolf, having once got its teeth into anything, does not easily let go. Lewis and Short, Latin-English Dictionary, gives as a secondary meaning of lupus, properly he-wolf, "A hook with which things are hoisted."

(ii) What English stonemasons call lifting tongs. These consist of two pieces of iron pivotted together like a pair of scissors, the lower end of each piece being hook-shaped. They were apparently also used by the ancients, being called forcipes.

1 Incidentally, it may be noted that a somewhat similar translation of "Giblim," les tailleurs de pierres, occurs in the French Bible.

by Vitruvius (1st Cent. B.C.). Cotgrave, Dictionary (1611), gives as one meaning of louve de fer," the (pinser-like) hook of a crane." To use this type of contrivance, small holes have to be cut into the sides of the block of stone, to enable the tongs to obtain a hold.

(iii) What English stonemasons call a lewis, of which the common type consists of three parts, two wedge-shaped side pieces and a straight central piece which serves as packing to hold the wedges in position in the specially prepared hole which has been undercut to receive them. The three pieces, after insertion in the hole, are bolted together and a metal eye or shackle attached. Thus the lewis obtains its grip by being dovetailed into a block of stone. We reproduce a lewis of this type from the frontispiece of Anderson's Constitutions of 1756.

This type of contrivance does not appear to have been known in England or on the Continent in early modern times, though the discovery, both in this country and on the Continent, of ancient masonry with "lewis-holes" points to the device having been known to the ancients, always assuming that the "lewis-holes" referred to by archaeologists are of the undercut variety into which the three pieces of a lewis could be dovetailed and not merely holes cut in stones to give a hold to dogs or tongs. We have not traced an illustration of the contrivance in Europe in the later Middle Ages or in early modern times. Three early devices for lifting stones are illustrated from medieval manuscripts in F. B. Andrews, "The Mediaeval Builder and his Methods" (Trans. Birm. Arch. Soc., 1922); in one case the stones are carried in a basket; in another a stone is held in two rope slings; and in two cases the stones are held by nippers or tongs. There is no illustration showing the use of a lewis. Nor is the word, in any of 1 Charles Perrault in his Notes on Vitruvius.

The so-called plug and chain lewis, consisting of two parts, also requires an undercut hole of this type, and the lewis used by the ancients may have been of this variety.
its various forms, given in T. N., 'Philomath,' Builders' Dictionary (1703). The earliest examples in O.E.D. are 1740 for luis hole and 1743 for lewis. The Century Dictionary quotes an example of lewis-hole from Defoe's Tour through Great Britain but we are unable to say at present whether this word appears in the first edition (1724-6), or in a later edition revised by other writers.

The appearance of a lewis in the frontispiece of Anderson's Constitutions of 1756 has been mentioned above. One also is to be found in the frontispiece of Anderson's Constitutions of 1784, in that case, in conjunction with a block of stone which is being lifted with the assistance of a rope and pulley and three shear-legs,- the whole contraption being a small model that is standing on a table.

In France the word louve was certainly used in the sense of lewis, as early as 1676, because Félibien, Principes d'Architecture (1676), p.640, refers as follows to louveteaux: "ce sont les coins de fer que l'on met à côté des louves et qui servent a les retenir." Thus we learn that as early as 1676 the central and side pieces of a lewis were distinguished in French as louve [ =she-wolf] and louveteaux [ =male wolf cubs], a distinction which still exists in French. We have failed to discover any corresponding distinction either in literary or in colloquial English, but think it possible that originally, on the French analogy of parent and son, lewsson, a present-day variant of lewis, may have stood for the side pieces, and lewis for the central piece, as well as for the whole contrivance.

It is stated in more than one place [e.g. F. Gibson, "Observations on...........the Lewis," Arch. x (1790), 126 and Lloyd's Encyclopaedic Dictionary] that the lewis in its three-piece form was invented or modernized by a Frenchman in the reign of Louis XIV. (1643-1715), and that it was named out of compliment to that French king. This is obviously a fictitious story, as the French name of the device is not louis, but louve, a name applied as early as 1611, as cited above.

The origin of the word lezeis, lewiss, lewisson, louis, luis, is described by Wyld (Universal English Dictionary) as unknown. and by O.E.D. as obscure.

(i) A dialect form levis (1876 Whitby Glossary) has suggested a derivation from the French lever [to raise], as in pont-levis. According to O.E.D. the formation and phonology are not easily explained on this hypothesis. We see a further objection to this suggested derivation: the object of the metal contrivances known as dogs, tongs, and lewis is to grip or hold a stone so that it can be raised by means of a derrick, or crane, or other clevice, whereas lever is merely concerned with lifting.

(ii) We think it highly probable that Eng. lewis (in our sense, not as proper name) came from Fr. louve(s), and this in turn from Lat. lupus, in the secondary sense of 'hook'. Hudson Turner, Domestic Architecture, I. xxxii, gives a mediaeval English form lowes, and F. B. Andrews, The Mediaeval Builder and his Methods, Birm. Arch. Soc. Trans., xlviii. 67, gives a form lowys. Unfortunately, neither editor gives an exact reference to his source. These two forms, which are common scribal forms of the same word, look like late Middle English forms (say 1300-1500): each would be pronounced loo-is., the correct pronunciation of the modern word lewis (in our sense). The change of spelling from -ow- to -ew- need not arouse suspicion. A parallel sufficiently near is the Old French word brouet, brouet, which became browes, brouws, in Middle English, and brewis (pronounced broo-is) in modern English. Similarly, Lowis, Lowys, was a common AngloNorman form (say 1100) of the name now spelt Louis in French and Lewis in English. In the fourteenth century, in the MS. of his Treatise of the Astrolabe (1391), Chaucer spelt the name of bis son, to whom the work is addressed, Lowys [now Lewis].

The Middle English forms lowes, lowys, may easily be anglicised written forets of the mediaeval French word louves, w in mediaeval MSS. being frequently used for uu, vv, uv, and vu, and also for u and v: these scribal variations were so common as not to arouse doubt. Change of pronunciation would follow the change of written letter as the word and its pronunciation became anglicised.

What we are not certain of is that the Fr. louve(s) and the Middle English lowys, were used for the contrivance now called the lewis. The mediaeval term may have been used for the caliper-type of stone-lifting apparatus, or for any other mechanical device, other than slings or baskets, and transferred to the lewis as we know it today, when that was invented. Since there are apparently no allusions to this type of lewis before 1676 it would look as though this particular type of apparatus was not invented until the middle of the seventeenth century, and this would explain the origin of the false attribution of the name to Louis XIV. The Romans apparently used some type of stone-lifting apparatus worked by a hole in the centre of the upper surface of the stone, but we have not discovered exactly what this apparatus was, and we leave this aspect open for further investigation.

In the "Wilkinson MS. we are concerned with lewis in its secondary meaning as " the son of a mason." How it acquired that meaning, unless it be by derivation from the French practice, we do not know. In French the word louve [she-wolf] applies not only to the whole operative contrivance, but more particularly to the central piece of the contrivance, the wedge-shaped side pieces being called louveteaux [male wolf cubs]. In the Compagnonnage, the mediaeval French organisation of building craftsmen, those members who were masons by trade were called loups [he-wolves], which doubtless led to "the son of a mason" being called louveteau or male wolf-cub, as is still the practice in France. As the French louve and louveteau were collectively called lewis in English, and there would not appear to be any English name for that part called louveteau in French (although possibly, as tentatively suggested above, the word lewisson was once used in that way), so in English "the son of a mason" was, and still is, described as a lewis.

The only other explanation with which we are acquainted, namely, what may be described as the Frederick Lewis theory, we most certainly do not accept. It arises from the occurrence of the word lewis, apparently in its secondary sense, in " The Deputy Grand Master's Song," as printed in Anderson's Constitutions of 1738 :—

Additional Stanza by Brother Gofton, at the Time when the PRINCE was made a Mason [5 Nov. 1737] and while the PRINCESS was pregnant.

An derson presumably added or amended the Chorus and Toasts after the " Lewis " [who succeeded to the Throne as George III. in 1760] was born on 4 June 1738. It has been suggested, in Misc. Lat., vi, 50, that Gofton, the author of the verse, introduced the name " Lewis " in anticipation that the child would be a son, and that he would be called Lewis, because that was the second name of Frederick, Prince of Wales, and that it was in this way that " Lewis " acquired its secondary meaning, "the son of a mason." We regard this suggested explanation as fantastic, and do not accept it any more than we do the previously mentioned legend that the operative contrivance was named after Louis XIV. So far as the secondary meaning is concerned, Gofton's verse throws no light on either the " place " or the " privilege " of a lewis, referred to the QQ.55,56 of the Wilkinson MS. We are disposed to think that the word lewis already had its secondary meaning, "the son of a mason," at the time when the additions were made to the Deputy Grand Master's Song', c. 1738, and that the references in the Wilkinson MS., whether written before or after 1738, reflect established masonic usage.

Q.65. Though there is nothing corresponding to this in Pritchard, there is in Dumfries No. 4 MS. (c. 1710.) :—

\[1\] The Deputy Grand Master's Song " is a variant of " The Master-Mason's Ballad," first printed in Pennell's Constitutions of 1730, and written by the Rev. James Sterling. See E.M.P., 232.
Q. What are you no more to ... A yes but a man I was begotten of a man & barn of a woman and besides I have severall po-tentat kings & mighty princes to my brothers' and in The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd (1724) :-

[Q.] What is a Mason ?
A. A Man begot of a Man, bora of a Woman, Brother ta a King.
Q. What is a Fellow ?
A. A Companion of a Prince2.

Q.67. There is a somewhat similar question and answer in A Dialogue between Simon and Philip :—

Phil. What was the first question that the Master ask'd you when you was admitted.

Sim. Whither it was of my own free will that I carne thither to be made a Mason. I answered Yes3.

Q.73. This question, which, as previously mentioned, links up with Q.62, refers to the key to the secrets of a mason, which is enlarged upon in. Prichard, QQ. 68, 69, 70, 71, but omitted from the Wilkinson MS.

QQ.74, 75. We know of no parallel, but see Q.2 on p. 168.

Q. 76. Reference to drops [" the unentered prentice, or any others not of their society "]4" occurs in A Mason's Confession (1727), and to " droppers " [? short for " eavesdroppers "], and to the House being " tiled " or " untiled,"5 in A Dialogue between Simon and Philip.

QQ.78, 79. Prichard Q.80 and The Mystery o f Free-Masonry (1730) have answers of the " under seven " type, to which The Mystery adds an explanatory note :—

N.B. When you are first made a Mason, you are only entered Apprentice ; and until you are made a Master, or, as they call it, pass’d the Master’s Part, you are only enter’d Apprentice, and consequently must answer under 7 ; for if you say above, they will expect the Master's Word and Signs6.

1E.M.C., 62. 2E.M.C., 77. 4E.M.C., 177. 4E.M.C., 104. 5E.M.C., 179.
6E.M.C., 155.
THE MYSTERY OF FREE-MASONRY, 1730

This anonymous catechism is appended to a letter, signed 'F.G.', commencing "The Grand Whimsy of Masonry has long been the subject of amusement . . .", printed in the Daily Journal, No. 2968, 15 August 1730. It was also issued under the above title as a broadside, probably previous to its insertion in the newspaper [see Introduction, p. 17 above], and also as The Mystery and Motions of Free-Masonry Discovered, and as The Puerile Signs and Wonders of a Free-Mason: This last printed broadside, of which there is a copy in the London Guildhall Library, was reprinted in Misc. Lat., iii. According to W. J. Hughan (A.Q.C., xvii, 92) and to Bro. Poole (A.Q.C., xxxvii, 5) this catechism was also issued under the title The Mystery of Free-masons, a document not recorded in Dring's "Tentative List", or in Vibert's Rare Books, though Thorp (p. 125) records The Mystery of Free-Masons, and F. W. Levander (Misc. Lat., iii, 125) states that there is an engraved sheet with the title The Mystery of Free-Masons in the British Museum. Thorp lists this catechism as Grand Whimsy of Masonry, and Poole as The Grand Whimsey. Our reprint is from a copy of the newspaper in the Bodleian [MS. Rawl. C. 136]. See Introduction, pp. 17, 20 above.

To the Author of the Daily Journal.

SIR,

The Grand Whimsy of Masonry has been long the Subject of Amusement to diverse Persons, who have wonder'd, that among so many Idle People as have been admitted into that Society, many of whom are not noted for eminent Virtues, or the Gift of Taciturnity, the boasted Secret has never been, thro' Inadvertence, or the Power of Liquor, divulgd. Some have imputed this to one Cause, some to another, while others have judged, (with too much Appearance of Reason) that it must be of a very unaccountable Nature, that they are afraid or ashamed to divulge it; since, say they, if there were any thing Praiseworthy or Excellent in it, what should hinder their publishing of it for the Imitation of others?

For my own Part, I must needs say, that I am not of their Opinion, who think there is any thing criminal, or greatly indecent or shameful in it, because of the many Gentlemen of Honour and Character, who have condescended (no doubt in a merry and ludicrous Vein) to countenance those already in, by becoming Members of the Fraternity; tho' it must be confessed, they could not easily know what it was, till they had been cloathed and initiated, and of consequence first found themselves Brethren from Head to Foot, and so obliged (Se Defendendo) to propagate the Jest with as solemn a Face as the rest. But yet I have been tempted to believe, that if there were any thing in it, either useful or worthy of Imitation, the Secret had not been so tenaciously kept till now: And we may challenge the warmest Advocate for the Whim, to look round on all his Acquaintance of the Fraternity, and make it appear, that any of 'em have come out either wiser or better Mess for their Admission, and if such decline to be Judges in their own Cause, we will leave the Decision of this Point to the good Wives of the Brethren, to inform the World, what superadded Portion of Wisdom, or Improvement of Morals, or Sobriety, in their dear Spouses, they have found to be the Consequences of their Entrance; always supposing, that Orators, Raree Show-Men, and Publicans, who are so much wiser in their Generation than the Children of Light, that they can reap Advantage and Subsistence from the Follies of others, together with their respective Wives, Daughters, Box and Bar-keepers, be out of the Question, as too much concerned in Interest.

At last, the Death of a Brother, who for his own Remembrance and Observation, had seem'd to have committed to Writing, the Form and Manner of his Admission, which he kept among his choicest and most private Papers, and in the most secret Part of his Cabinet, has given us a Light into the mysterious Part of Entrance, into their puerile Signs and Wonders. I shall not pretend to use many Words to bespeak your Readers Belief of the Genuineness of this MS. only referring him to the Observation of the Conduct of the Fraternity on this Occasion, who will be sure to be either very angry, or very silent, or very zealous to decry it, if it be really what I in myself have abundant Reason to be satisfied it have taken up too much of your Room, supposing you will be so kind to insert this as well as the Piece; and pray reserve zoo of the Papers, which a Servant in Blue Livery faced with Yellow, and Brass Buttons, shall call and satisfy you for, as well as for the Demand you shall think fit to make for thus obliging

Your Constant Reader,

F. G.
Q. Are you a Mason? A. I am.
Q. How shall I know you are a Mason? A. By Signs, Tokens, and Points of my Entrance.
Q. How was you made? A. Neither naked nor cloathed, standing or lying, but in due Form.
Q. Give me a Sign. A. Every Square is a Sign; but the most Solemn is the Right-hand upon the Left-breast, the Arm hanging down, a little extended from the Body.
Q. Give me a Letter. A. B. O. A. Z.

When this Question is ask'd you are to give the Letter B. The Querist will say O. you A. he Z.
Q. Give me another. A. J. A. C. H. I. N.

Alternately as Boaz. N.B. Boaz and Jachin were two Pillars in Solomon's Porch. r Kings, vii. 21.
Q. How is it seated? A. East and West, as all other Temples are. Q.
Q. Where was you enter'd? A. In a Just and Perfect Lodge.
Q. What makes a Just and Perfect Lodge? A. A Master, two Wardens, and four Fellows, with Square, Compass, and Common Gudge.
N.B. One of them must be a Working Mason.
Q. Where was you made? A. In the Valley of Jehovah, behind a Rush Bush, where a Dog was never heard to bark, nor a Cock to crow, or elsewhere.
Q. Where was the first Lodge kept? A. In Solomon's Porch, the Pillars were call'd Jachin and Boaz.
Q. How many Orders be there in Architecture? A. There be five, Tuscan, Dorick, Ionick, Corinthian, and Composite or Roman.
Q. How many Points be there in the Fellowship? A. There be five, 'st Foot to Foot, zd Knee to Knee, 3d Hand to Hand, 4th Heart to Heart, and 5th Ear to Ear.
Q. How do Masons take their Place in Work? A. The Master's Place East, the Warden's East, and the Fellows the Eastern Passage.
Q. How many precious Jewels be there in Masonry? A. Three, the Master, Wardens, and Fellows.

Q. Whence comes the Pattern of an Arch? A. From the Rainbow.
Q. Is there a Key for your Lodge? A. Yes, there is.
Q. Where is it kept? A. In an Ivory Box, between my Tongue and my Teeth, or under the Lap of my Liver, where the Secrets of my Heart are.
Q. Is there a Chain to your Key? A. Yes, there is.
Q. How long is it? A. As long as from my Tongue, to my Heart.
Q. Where does the Key of the Working-Lodge lie? A. It lies upon the Right-hand, from the Door two Feet and a half, under a Green Turf, or under a Square Ashler.
Q. Where does the Master Mason set his Mark upon the Work? A. Upon the South-East Corner.
Q. Have you been in the Kitchen? N.B. You shall know an Enter'd Apprentice by this Question.
A. Yes, I have.
Q. Did you ever dine in the Hall? N.B. A Brother Mason by this Question.
A. Yes, I did.
Q. How old are you? A. Under 5, or under 7, which you will.
N.B. When you are first made a Mason, you are only entered Apprentice; and till you are made a Master, or, as they call it, pass'd the Master's Part, you are only an Enter'd Apprentice, and consequently must answer under 7; for if you say above, they will expect the Master's Word and Signs.
Note, There is not one Mason in an Hundred that will be at the Expence to pass the Master's Part, except it be for Interest.
Q. How was you admitted? N.B. Some will ask what was that Form after the third Question and Answer above.
A. When I came to the first Door, a Man with a drawn Sword asked me, If I had any Weapons? I answer'd, No. Upon which lie let me pass by him into a dark Entry; there two Wardens took me under each Arm, and conducted me from Darkness into Light, passing thro' two Rows of the Brotherhood, who stood mute, to the upper End of the Room, from whence the Master vent down the Outside of one of the Rows, and touching a young Brother on the
The Mystery of Free-Masonry

The first edition of this 32 pp. 8vo pamphlet (about 7" X 4") was advertised for sale in the Daily Journal on Tuesday, 20th October 1730: "This day is published . . . MASONRY DISSECTED . . . by Samuel Prichard . . . Printed for J. Wilford . . ." The second edition, also printed for Wilford, was advertised the very next day, 21st October, and again on 23rd October. The third edition (also printed for Wilford) was advertised on Saturday, 3rd October 1730. The pamphlet had been reprinted in Read's Weekly Journal on 24th October. An undated and pirated edition (printed by Thomas Nichols), with the title misspelt Masonry Disected, had also probably made its appearance by the end of October 1730. Until quite recently it was believed that this Nichols pirated reprint was the first edition (see Vibert, Rare Books; Dring, A.Q.C., xxv, 366; Thorp, 15), but in 1940 Bro. S. N. Smith (A.Q.C., ii, 138) drew attention to the existence of a copy of the genuine first edition in Grand Lodge Library, and of another in the Wallace Heaton collection. There is a copy of the Nichols edition in the Library of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, which originally belonged to E. T. Carson of Cincinnati, who reprinted it in 1860. The second edition, of which there is a copy in the Leicester Masonic Library, was reprinted in 1929 in Leics. Reprints, xii, with Introduction and Notes by J. T. Thorp. The third edition, the earliest in the British Museum, is the first to contain "A List of Regular Lodges according to their Seniority and Constitution", though the fact that this list is appended is not indicated on the title page, as is the case with at least some subsequent editions (e.g., 7th and 21st). To make room for this list, the "Fellow-Craft's Degree" in the 3rd edition begins half way down p. 19 (which was left half blank in the 2nd edition), thereby enabling the "Master's Part" to finish on p. 28, instead of on p. 29. In each edition the following two pages (29 and 30 in the 3rd; 30 and 31 in the and) contain the "Author's Vindication"; in the 3rd edition pp. 31 and 32 are occupied by the List of Lodges, printed in double column, whereas in the end edition p. 32 is blank. Some thirty numbered editions of the pamphlet printed in England, and eight printed in Scotland, have been traced. In addition to these 8vo or 12mo numbered editions, which mostly contain from 24 to 32 pages, there is an old unnumbered and undated (?) pirated foolscap 4to edition, (8f" X 64"), consisting of 8 pages, mostly printed in double column, with no indication where, or
The original Institution of Masonry consisteth on the Foundation of the Liberal Arts and Sciences; but more especially on the Fifth, viz. Geometry. For at the Building of the Tower of Babel, the Art and Mystery of Masonry was first introduced, and from thence handed down by Euclid, a worthy and excellent Mathematician of the Egyptians, and he communicated it to Hiram, the Master-Mason concern'd in the Building of Solomon's Temple in Jerusalem, where was an excellent and curious Mason that was the chief under their Grand-Master Hiram, whose Name was Mannon Grecus, who taught the Art of Masonry to one Carolos Marcil in France, who was afterwards elected King of France, and from thence was brought into England in the Time of King Athelstone, who order'd an Assembly to be held once every Year at York, which was the first Introduction of it into England, and Masons were made in the Manner following.

Tunc unus ex Senioribus teneat Librum, ut illi vel Ille ponant vel pont Manus supra Librum; tum Praecepta debeant legi. i.e. Whilst one of the Seniors holdeth the Book, that he or they put their Hands upon the Book, whilst the Master ought to read the Laws or Charges.

Which Charges were, That they should be true to one another without Exception, and should be obliged to relieve their Brothers and Fellows Necessities, or put them to labour and reward them accordingly.

But in these latter Days Masonry is not composed of Artificers, as it was in its primaeval State, when some few Catechetical Questions were necessary to declare a Man sufficiently qualified for an Operative Mason.

The Terms of Free and Accepted Masonry (as it now is) has not been heard of till within these few Years; no Constituted Lodges or Quarterly Communications were heard of till 1691, when Lords and Dukes, Lawyers and Shopkeepers, and other inferior Tradesmen, Porters not excepted, were admitted into this Mystery or no Mystery; the first sort being introduc'd at a very great Expence, the second sort at a moderate Rate, and the latter for the Expence of six or seven Shillings, for which they receive that Badge of Honour, which (as they term it) is more ancient and more honourable than is the Star and Garter, which Antiquity is accounted, according to the Rules of Masonry, as delivered by their Tradition, ever since Adam, which I shall leave the candid Reader to determine.

From the Accepted Masons sprang the Real Masons, from both sprang the Gormogons, whose Grand-Master the Volgi deduces his Original from the Chinese, whose Writings, if to be credited, maintains the Hypotheses of the Pre-Adamites, and consequently must be more antique than Masonry.

The most free and open Society is that of the Grand Kaihebar, which consists of a select Company of Responsible People, whose chief...
Discourse is concerning Trade and Business, and promoting mutual Friendship without Compulsion or Restriction.

But if after the Admission into the Secrets of Masonry, any new Brother should dislike their Proceedings, and reflect upon himself for being so easily caajoled out of his Money, declines the Fraternity or secludes himself upon the Account of the Quarterly Expences of the Lodge and Quarterly Communications, notwithstanding he has been legally admitted into a Constituted and Regular Lodge, shall be denied the Privilege (as a Visiting Brother) of knowing the Mystery for which he has already paid, which is a manifest Contradiction according to the Institution of Masonry itself, as will evidently appear by the following Treatise.

Enter'd 'Prentice's DEGREE.

Q. FROM whence came you ? A. From the Holy Lodge of St. John's.

Q. What Recommendations brought you from thence ? A. The Recommendations which I brought from the Right Worshipful Brothers and Fellows of the Right Worshipful and Holy Lodge of St. John's, from whence I came, and Greet you thrice heartily well.

Q. What do you corne here to do ?
A. Not to do my own proper Will,
   But to subdue my Passion still ;
   The Rules of Masonry in hand to take,
   And daily Progress therein make.

Q. Are you a Mason ? A. I am so taken and Accepted to be amongst Brothers and Fellows.

Q. How shall I know that you are a Mason ? A. By Signs and Tokens and perfect Points of my Entrance.

Q. What are Signs ? A. All Squares, Angles and Perpendiculars.

Q. What are Tokens ? A. Certain Regular and Brotherly Gripes.

Exam. Give me the Points of your Entrance. Resp. Give me the first, and I'll give you the second.

Exam. I Hail it. Resp. I Conceal it.

Exam. What do you Conceal ? Resp. All Secrets and Secrecy of Masons and Masonry, unless to a True and Lawful Brother after due Examination, or in a just and worshipful Lodge of Brothers and Fellows well met.

Q. Where was you made a Mason ? A. In a Just and Perfect Lodge.

Q. What makes a Just and Perfect Lodge ? A. Seven or more.

Q. What do they consist of? A. One Master, two Wardens, two Fellow-Crafts and two Enter'd 'Prentices.

Q. What do they consist of ? A. One Master, one Fellow-Craft, one Enter'd 'Prentice.

Q. Who brought you to the Lodge ? A. An Enter'd 'Prentice.

Q. How did he bring you ? A. Neither naked nor cloathed, barefoot nor shod, deprived of all Metal and in a right moving Posture.

Q. How got you Admittance ? A. By three great Knocks.

Q. How did he dispose of you ? A. He carried me up to the North-East Part of the Lodge, and brought me back again to the West and deliver'd me to the Senior Warden,

Q. What did the Senior Warden do with you ? A. He presented me, and shew'd me how to walk up (by three Steps) to the Master.

Q. What did the Master do with you ? A. He made me a Mason.

Q. How did he make you a Mason ? A. With my bare-bended Knee and Body within the Square, the Compass extended to my naked Left Breast, my naked Right Hand on the Holy Bible ; there I took the Obligation (or Oath) of a Mason.

Q. Can you repeat that Obligation. A. I'll do my Endeavour.

(Which is as follows.)

I Hereby solemnly Vow and Swear in the Presence of Almighty God and this Right Worshipful Assembly, that I will Hail and Conceal, and never Reveal the Secrets or Secrecy of Masons or Masonry, that shall be Revealed unto me; unless to a True and Lawful Brother, after due Examination; or in a Just and Worshipful Lodge of Brothers and Fellows well met.

I furthermore Promise and Vow, that I will not Write them, Print them, Mark them, Carve them or Engrave them, or cause them to be Written, Printed, Marked, Carved or Engraved on Wood or Stone, so as the Visible Character or Impression of a Letter may appear, whereby it may be unlawfully obtain'd.

All this under no less Penalty than to have my Throat cut, my Tongue taken from the Roof of my Mouth, my Heart pluck'd from under my Left Breast, them to be buried in the Sands of the Sea, the Length of a Cable-rove from Shore, where the Tide ebbs and flows twice in 24 Hours, my Body to be burnt to Ashes, my Ashes to be scatter'd upon the Face of the Earth, so that there shall be no more Remembrance of me among Masons.

So help me God.
Q. What Form is the Lodge? A. A long Square.
Q. How long? A. From East to West.
Q. How broad? A. From North to South.
Q. How high? A. Inches, Feet and Yards innumerable, as high as the Heavens.
Q. How deep? A. To the Centre of the Earth.
Q. Where does the Lodge stand? A. Upon Holy Ground, or the highest Hill or lowest Vale, or in the Vale of Jahosaphat, or any other secret Place.
Q. How is it situated? A. Due East and West.
Q. Why so? A. Because all Churches and Chapels are or ought to be so.
Q. What supports a Lodge? A. Three great Pillars.
Q. What are they called? A. Wisdom, Strength and Beauty.
Q. Why so? A. Wisdom to contrive, Strength to support, and Beauty to adorn.
Q. What Covering have you to the Lodge? A. A clouded Canopy of divers Colours (or the Clouds.)
Q. Have you any Furniture in your Lodge? A. Yes.
Q. What is it? A. Mosaic Pavement, Blazing Star and Indented Tarsel.
Q. What are they? A. Mosaic Pavement, the Ground Floor of the Lodge, Blazing Star the Centre, and Indented Tarsel the Border round about it.
Q. What is the other Furniture of a Lodge? A. Bible, Compass and Square.
Q. Who do they properly belong to? A. Bible to God, Compass to the Master, and Square to the Fellow-Craft.
Q. Have you any Jewels in the Lodge? A. Yes.
Q. What are the Moveable Jewels? A. Square, Level and Plumb Rule.
Q. What are their Uses? A. Square to lay down True and Right Lines, Level to try all Horizontals, and the Plumb-Rule to try all Uprights.
Q. What are the Immoveable Jewels? A. Trasel Board, Rough Ashler, and Broach'd Thurnel.
Q. What are their Uses? A. Trasel Board for the Master to draw his Designs upon, Rough Ashler for the Fellow-Craft to try their Jewels upon, and the Broach'd Thurnel for the Enter'd 'Prentice to learn to work upon.
Q. Have you any Lights in your Lodge? A. Yes, Three.
Q. What do they represent? A. Sun, Moon and Master-Mason.
N.B. These Lights are three large Candies placed on high Candlesticks.
Q. Why so? A. Sun to rule the Day, Moon the Night, and Master-Mason his Lodge.
N.B. These fix'd Lights are Three Windows, suppos'd (tho' vainly) to be in every Room where a Lodge is held, but more properly the four Cardinal Points according to the antique Rules of Masonry.
Q. How are they situated? A. East, South and West.
Q. What are their Uses? A. To light the Men to, at and from their Work.
Q. Why are there no Lights in the North? A. Because the Sun darts no Rays from thence.
Q. Where stands your Master? A. In the East.
Q. Why so? A. As the Sun rises in the East and opens the Day, so the Master stands in the East [with his Right Hand upon his Left Breast being a Sign, and the Square about his Neck] to open the Lodge and to set his Men at Work.
Q. Where stands your Wardens? A. In the West.
Q. What's their Business? A. As the Sun sets in the West to close the Day, so the Wardens stand in the West [with their Right Hands upon their Left Breasts being a Sign, and the Level and Plumb-Rule about their Necks] to close the Lodge and dismiss the Men from Labour, paying their Wages.
Q. Where stands the Senior Enter'd 'Prentice? A. In the South.
Q. What is his Business? A. To hear and receive Instructions and welcome strange Brothers.
Q. Where stands the Junior Enter'd 'Prentice? A. In the North. Q. What is his Business? A. To keep off all Cowans and Eavesdroppers.
Q. If a Cowan (or Listner) is catch'd, how is he to be punished? A. To be plac'd under the Eves of the Houses (in rainy Weather) till the Water runs in at his Shoulders and out at his Shoos.
Q. What are the Secrets of a Mason? A. Signs, Tokens and many Words.
Q. Where do you keep those Secrets? A. Under my Left Breast.
Q. Have you any Key to those Secrets? A. Yes.
Q. Where do you keep it? A. In a Bone Bone Box that neither opens nor shuts but with Ivory Keys.
Q. Does it bang or does it lie? A. It hangs.
Q. What does it hang by? A. A Tow-Line 9 Inches or a Span.
Q. What Metal is it of? A. No manner of Metal at all; but a Tongue of good Report is as good behind a Brother's Back as before his Face.

N.B. The Key is the Tongue, the Bone Bone Box the Teeth, the Tow-Line the Roof of the Mouth.
Q. How many Principles are there in Masonry? A. Four.
Q. What are they? A. Point, Line, Superficies and Solid.
Q. Explain them. A. Point the Centre (round which the Master cannot err) Line Length without Breadth, Superficies Length and Breadth, Solid comprehends the whole.
Q. How many Principle-Signs are there? A. Four.
Q. What are they? A. Guttural, Pectoral, Manual and Pedestal.
Q. Explain them. A. Guttural the Throat, Pectoral the Breast, Manual the Hand, Pedestal the Feet.
Q. What do you learn by being a Gentleman-Mason? A. Secrecy, Morality and Goodfellowship.
Q. What do you learn by being an Operative Mason? A. Hue, Square, Mould-stone, lay a Level and raise a Perpendicular. Q. Have you seen your Master to-day? A. Yes.
Q. How was he Cloathed? A. In a Yellow Jacket and Blue Pair of Breeches.

N.B. The Yellow Jacket is the Compasses, and the Blue Breeches the Steel Points.
Q. How long do you serve your Master? A. From Monday Morning to Saturday Night.
Ex. Give me the Enter'd 'Prentice's Sign. Resp. Extending the Four Fingers of the Right Hand and drawing of them cross his Throat, is the Sign, and demands a Token.

N.B. A Token is by joining the Ball of the Thumb of the Right Hand upon the first Knuckle of the Fore-finger of the Brother's Right Hand that demands a Word.
Q. Give me the Word. A. I'll letter it with You.
Resp. JACHIN. [N.B. Boaz and Jachin were two Pillars in Solomon's Porch. 1 Kings, chap. vii. ver. m.]
Q. How old are you? A. Under Seven. [Denoting he has not pass'd Master.]
Q. What's the Day for? A. To See in.
Q. What's the Night for? A. To Hear.
Q. How blows the Wind? A. Due East and West.
Q. What's a Clock? A. High Twelve.

The End of the Enter'd 'Prentice's Part.

Fellow-Craft's Degree.

Q. Are you, a Fellow-Craft? I am.
Q. Why was you made a Fellow-Craft? A. For the sake of the Letter G.
Q. What does that G denote? A. Geometry, or the fifth Science.
Q. Did you ever travel? A. Yes. East and West.
Q. Did you ever work? A. Yes, in the Building of the Temple.
Q. Where did you receive your Wages? A. In the middle Chamber.
Q. How came you to the middle Chamber? A. Through the Porch.
Q. When you came through the Porch, what did you see? A. Two great Pillars.
Q. What are they called? A. J. B. i.e. Jachim and Boaz.
Q. How high are they? A. Eighteen Cubits.
Q. How much in Circumference? A. Twelve Cubits.
Vide I Kings Chap. 7.
Q. What were they adorn'd with? A. Two Chapiters.
Q. How high were the Chapiters? A. Five Cubits.
Q. What were they adorn'd with? A. Net-Work and Pomegranates.
Q. How came you to the middle Chamber? A. By a winding Pair of Stairs.
Q. How many? A. Seven or more.
Q. Why Seven or. more? A. Because Seven or more makes a Just and Perfect Lodge.
Q. When you came to the Door of the middle Chamber, who did you see? A. A Warden.
Q. What did he demand of you? A. Three Things.
Q. What were they? A. Sign, Token, and a Word.
N.B. The Sign is placing the Right Hand on the Left Breast, the Token is by joining your Right Hand to the Person that demands it, and squeezing him with the Ball of your Thumb on the first Knuckle of the middle Finger, and the Word is Jachin.
Q. How high was the Door of the middle Chamber? A. So high that a Cowan could not reach to stick a Pin in.
Q. When you came into the middle, what did you see? A. The Resemblance of the Letter G.
Q. Who doth that G denote? A. One that's greater than you.
Q. Who's greater than I, that am a Free and Accepted Mason, the Master of a Lodge. A. The Grand Architect and Contriver of the Universe, or He that was taken up to the top of the Pinnacle of the Holy Temple.
Q. Can you repeat the Letter G? A. I'll do my Endeavour.

The Repeating of the Letter G.
Resp. In the midst of Solomon's Temple there stands a G,
   A Letter fair for all to read and see,
   But few there be that understands
   What means that Letter G.
Ex. My Friend, if you pretend to be
   Of this Fraternity,
   You can forthwith and rightly tell
   What means that Letter G.
Resp. By Sciences are brought to Light
   Bodies of various Kinds,
   Which do appear to perfect Sight ;
   But none but Males shall know my Mind. Ex.
The Right shall. Resp. If Worshipful.

Ex. Both Right and Worshipful I am,
    To Hail you I have Command,
    That you do forthwith let me know,
    As I you may understand.
Resp. By Letters Four and Science Five
    This G aright doth stand,
    In a due Art and Proportion,
    You have your Answer, Friend.
N.B. Four Letters are Boaz. Fifth Science Geometry.
Ex. My Friend, you answer well,
    If Right and Free Principles you discover,
    I'll change your Name from Friend,
    And henceforth call you Brother.
Resp. The Sciences are well compos'd
   Of noble Structure's Verse,
   A Point, a Line, and an Outside ;
   But a Solid is the fast.
Ex. God's good Greeting be to this our happy Meeting. Resp.
   And all the Right Worshipful Brothers and Fellows.
Ex. Of the Right Worshipful and Holy Lodge of St. John's.
Resp. From whence I came.
Ex. Greet you, greet you, greet you thrice, heartily well, craving your Name.
Resp. Timothy Ridicule.
Exam. Welcome, Brother, by the Grace of God.
N.B. The Reason why they Denominate themselves of the Holy Lodge of St. John's, is, because he was the Fore-runner of our Saviour, and laid the first Parallel Line to the Gospel (others do assert, that our Saviour himself was accepted a Free-Mason whilst he was in the Flesh) but how ridiculous and prophane it seems, I leave to judicious Readers to consider.

The End of the Fellow-Craft Part.

The Master's Degree.
Q. Are you a Master-Mason? A. I am; try me, prove me, disprove me if you can.
Q. Where was you pass'd Master? A. In a Perfect Lodge of Masters.
Q. What makes a Perfect Lodge of Masters? A. Three.
Q. How came you to be pass'd Master? A. By the Help of God, the Square and my own Industry.

Q. How was you pass'd Master? A. From the Square to the Compass.

Ex. An Enter'd 'Prentice I presume you have been.

R. Jachin and Boaz I have seen;
A Master-Mason I was made most rare,
With Diamond, Ashier and the Square.

Ex. If a Master-Mason you would be,
You must rightly understand the Rule of Three.

And *M.B. shall make you free:
And what you want in Masonry,
Shall in this Lodge be shewn to thee.

R. Good Masonry I understand;
The Keys of all Lodges are all at my Command.

Ex. You're an heroick Fellow; from whence came you? R. From the East.

Ex. Where are you a going? R. To the West.

Ex. What are you a going to do there? R. To seek for that which was lost and is now found.

E. What was that which was lost and is now found? R. The Master-Mason's Word.

Ex. How was it lost? R. By Three Great Knocks, or the Death of our Master Hiram.

Ex. How came he by his Death? R. In the Building of Solomon's Temple he was Master-Mason, and at high 1z at Noon, when the Men was gone to refresh themselves, as was his usual Custom, he came to survey the Works, and when he was enter'd into the Temple, there were Three Ruffians, suppos'd to be Three Fellow-Crafts, planted themselves at the Three Entrances of the Temple, and when he came out, one demanded the Master's Word of him, and he reply'd he did not receive it in such a manner, but Time and a little Patience would bring him to it: He, not satisfied with that Answer, gave him a Blow, which made him reel; he went to the other Gate, where being accosted in the same manner and making the same Reply, he received a greater Blow, and at the third bis Quietus.

Ex. What did the Ruffians kill Hm with? R. A Setting Maul, Setting Tool and Setting Beadle.

Ex. How did they dispose of him afterwards? R. They carried Hm up to the Brow of the Hill, where they made a decent Grave and buried him.

Ex. When was he miss'd? R. The same Day.

Ex. When was he found? R. Fifteen Days afterwards.

Ex. Who found him? R. Fifteen Loving Brothers, by Order of King Solomon, went out of the West Door of the Temple, and divided themselves from Right to Left within Call of each other; and they agreed that if they did not find the Word in Hm or about Hm, the first Word should be the Master's Word; one of the Brothers being more weary than the rest, sat down to rest himself, and taking hold of a Shrub, which came easily up, and perceiving the Ground to have been broken, he Hail'd his Brethren, and pursuing their Search found him decently buried in a handsome Grave 6 Foot East, 6 West, and 6 Foot perpendicular, and his Covering was green Moss and Turf, which surprized them; whereupon they replied, Muscus Domus Dei Gratia, which, according to Masonry, is, Thanks be to God, our Master has got a Mossy House: So they cover'd him closely, and as a farther Ornament placed a Sprig of Cassia at the Head of his Grave, and went and acquainted King Solomon.

Ex. What did King Solomon say to all this? R. He order'd to be taken up and decently buried, and that 15 Fellow-Crafts with white Gloves and Aprons should attend his Funeral [which ought amongst Masons to be perform'd to this Day.]

Ex. How was Hiram rais'd? R. As all other Masons are, when they receive the Master's Word.

Ex. How is that? R. By the Five Points of Fellowship.

Ex. What are they? Hand to Hand 1, Foot to Foot 2, Cheek to Cheek 3, Knee to Knee 4, and Hand in Back 5.

N.B. When Hiram was taken up, they took him by the Fore-fingers, and the Skin came off, which is called the Slip; the spreading the Right Hand and placing the middle Finger to the Wrist, clasping the Fore-finger and the Fourth to the Sicles of the Wrist; is called the Gripe, and the Sign is placing the Thumb of the Right Hand to the Left Breast, extending the Fingers.
Ex. What's a Master-Mason nam'd. R. Cassia is my Name, and from a Just and Perfect Lodge I came.
Ex. Where was Hiram inter'd ? R. In the Sanctum Sanctorum.
Ex. How was he brought in. ? R. At the West-Door of the Temple.
Q. What are the Master-Jewels ? A. The Porch, Dormer and Square Pavement.
Q. Explain them. A. The Porch the Entring into the Sanctum Sanctorum, the Dormer the Windows or Lights within, the Square Pavement the Ground Flooring.
Ex. Give me the Master's Word.
R. Whispers him in the Ear, and supported by the Five Points of Fellowship before-mentioned, says Machbenah, which signifies The Builder is smitten.
N.B. If any Working Masons are at Work, and you have a desire to distinguish Accepted Masons from the rest, take a Piece of Stone, and ask him what it smells of, lie immediately replies, neither Brass, Iron, nor Steel, but of a Mason ; then by asking him, how old lie is, he replies above Seven, which denotes he has pass'd Master.

The End of the Master's Part.

The Author's Vindication of himself from the prejudiced Part of Mankind.

Of all the Impositions that have appear'd amongst Mankind, none are so ridiculous as the Mystery of Masonry, which bas amus'd the World, and caused various Constructions and these Pretences of Secrecy, invalid, has (tho' not perfectly) been revealed, and the grand Article, viz. the Obligation, has several Times been printed in the publick Papers, but is entirely genuine in the Daily Journal of Saturday, Aug. 22. 1730. which agrees in its Veracity with that deliver'd in this Pamphlet ; and consequently when the Obligation of Secrecy is abrogated, the aforesaid Secret becomes of no Effect, and must be quite extinct ; for some Operative Masons (but according to the polite Way of Expression, Accepted Masons) made a Visitation from the first and oldest constituted Lodge (according to the Lodge Book in London) to a noted Lodge in this City, and was denied Admission, because their old Lodge was removed to another House, which, tho’ contradictory to this great Mystery, requires another Constitution, at no less Expence than two Guineas, with an elegant Entertainment, under the Denomination of being put to charitable Uses, which if justly applied, will give great Encomiums to so worthy an Undertaking, but it is very much doubted, and most reasonable to think it will be expended towards the forming another System of Masonry, the old Faribick being so misnoys, that, unless repair'd by some occult Mystery, will soon be annihilated.

I was induced to publish this mighty Secret for the publick Good, at the Request of several Masons, and it will, I hope, give entire Satisfaction, and have its desired Effect in preventing so many credulous Persons being drawn into so pernicious a Society.

FINIS.

A LIST OF REGULAR LODGES ACCORDING TO THEIR SENIORITY AND CONSTITUTION.1

1. King's Arms in St. Paul's Church-yard, 1st and 3d Monday in every Month. Constituted 1691.
2. Rose and Buffler against Furnival's Inn in Holborn, 1st Wednesday. 1712.
3. Horn-Tavern at Westminster, 3d Friday.
10. Lion and Shield in Brewer-street, last Thursday. Nov. 25. 1722.
11. Queen's-head in Knaves-acre, 1st and 3d Wednesday. Feb. 27. 1722-3.
17. Buffler and Garter in Bloomsbury, 1st and 3d Thursday. 1723.
28. Queen's-head in the City of Bath, last Thursday.
29. Queen's-head in the City of Norwich.
30. Swan in the City of Chichester, 3d Friday.
31. 31 Py'd Bull in Northgate-street in the City of Chester.
32. Castle and Falcon in Watertgate-street in the City of Chester, 1st Tuesday.
34. East-India Arms at Gosport in Hampshire, 2d Thursday at 35. 3 a Clock.
36. Angel at Congleton in Cheshire.
42. Henry VIIIth's Head, in St. Andrew's-street near the Seven Dials, 4th Monday.
43. Rose at Mary-la-Bone, 1st Monday in Winter, and 1st and 3d Monday in the Summer. May 25. 1725.
44. Swan in Grafton-street St. Ann's Soho, 1st and last Wednesday. Sept. 1725.
47. Three Crowns at Stoke Newington, 1st Saturday. Aug. 9. 1727.
48. King's-head at Salford near Manchester, 1st Monday.
50. Three Flower-de-luces in St. Bernard-street in Madrid, 1st Sunday.
51. Woolpack in Warwick, 1st and 3d Friday. April 22. 1728. si.
52. Rose and Crown in Greek-Street Soho, 1st and 3d Friday. 1728.
53. White-Lion at Richmond, 1st and 3d Saturday at 12 at Noon.
55. Queen Elizabeth's Head in Pitfield-street in Hoxton, 1st and 3d Monday.
57. Three Tuns in Scarsborough, 1st Wednesday. Aug. 27. 1729.
64. Red Lion in the City of Canterbury, 1st and 3d Tuesday. April 3. 1730.
67. King's-head in Fleetstreet, 2d and 4th Friday. May 22. 1730.
THE CHESHAM MS., c. 1740

This parchment roll, composed of six strips fastened together, is some 10 3/4 feet long and 9 inches vide. By the courtesy of Grand Lodge, to whom it belongs, Dr. Schofield of the British Museum MSS. Department was permitted to examine it, and we were allowed to have it photographed, before it was put away in a place of relative safety. This note is based on Dr. Schofield's report and on the photographs. The document is written in an eighteenth-century legal hand, and cannot be accurately dated; it may well have been written about 1740. Its early history is unknown; it was found by a workman at Chesham, Bucks, in 1929, and presented to Grand Lodge that year by Bro. J. H. Grafton.

The Roll is headed "The Mystery of Free-Masonry"; in addition there are three cross-headings, also in large script: "Enter'd 'Prentice's Degree," "Fellow Crafts Degree," and "The Master's Degree." The questions and answers which immediately follow the general heading are, with very slight verbal differences (mostly affecting spelling and the use of capitals) identical, with one exception, with the catechism The Mystery of Free-Masonry printed in the Daily Journal of 15 August 1730. The exception is that whereas the latter states that the length of the chain to the key of the Lodge is "As long as from my Tongue to my Heart," the corresponding answer in the Chesham MS. is "As long as from my Tongue to my Teeth."

Immediately after the last words of this catechism is the cross-heading "Enter'd 'Prentice's Degree," followed by the set of questions and answers printed in Prichard's Masonry Dissected under this identical heading. The main differences are (i) that the note appended to the question and answer "How old are you? Under seven," reads "Denoting he has not pass'd Master" in Prichard, and "Denoting he has pass'd Master" in the Chesham MS.; (ii) that the final words of this section in Prichard, "The End of the Enter'd 'Prentices Part," are omitted from the Chesham MS. The next section, headed "Fellow Crafts Degree," is identical in wording with the corresponding section in Prichard, except for the omission of the last words, "The End of the Fellow-Craft Part." The last section, "The Master's Degree," is identical in wording with the corresponding section in Prichard except (i) that two questions and the corresponding answers are run into one, and (ii) that the final words, "The End of the Master's Part," are omitted.

In view of the practical identity of the Chesham MS. with (i) The Mystery of Free-Masonry and (ii) the questions and answers of Prichard's Masonry Dissected, both of which we print in full, we omit the text of this document.

DIALOGUE BETWEEN SIMON AND PHILIP, c. 1740

This catechism is contained in the same MS. as The Whole Institution of Masonry, 1724 (see p. 81 above). The document is stated to bear an almost illegible name and address "Mr John Page...n° 5...Bristol," and was recently in the possession of the late Bro. Salisbury (see p. xi above). On receiving the typescript copy from Bro. Cramporn, after this book had gone to press, we had to decide forthwith whether to print the Dialogue in this volume, whilst there was still a chance of doing so, or to omit it and endeavour instead to locate the MS. and investigate its history and authenticity, with a view to subsequent publication. The Dialogue is in several points similar to the other early masonic catechisms, although it resembles no particular one very closely, and there is no prima facie reason for thinking that it is a hoax or forgery. We accordingly decided to print it here for the information of the reader. As soon as possible, we hope to follow this preliminary publication by a more detailed study in A.Q.C.

As the Dialogue is undated and the original is not at present available for examination, we have to rely entirely on internal evidence for dating the document. It consists of two parts; the first is a series of questions and answers, which falls into three sections. The second part consists of a number of notes or comments on certain answers. Apart from the oath, the answers are all short and such as a mason might be expected to know by heart. The first part apparently, therefore, consists of test questions and answers, rather than a ceremony of admission. In this respect it resembles the earlier pre-1731 catechisms. Certain of the questions and answers have more affinity with Prichard's Masonry Dissected of 1730 than with any other known catechism. This raises the problem as to whether the Dialogue is partly based on Prichard, in which case it is necessarily post-1730, or whether it is descended from an older working, which in part served as a model for Prichard. In view of the vagueness of the resemblances and the many striking differences, we are disposed to think that neither catechism was based on the other, and that the questions and answers of the Dialogue may quite well be older than 1730. In character they certainly belong to the early group of catechisms printed in this volume.

The probable date of the notes or comments, which constitute the second part of the document, is a different matter. "D' Desagulier's Regulation," mentioned in the first note, presumably refers to the action taken in Grand Lodge on 28 August 1730 (see p. 57 above) at the suggestion of Dr. Desaguliers. This would make the autumn of 1730 the earliest date at which the comments could have been written. On the other hand, the use of the terms Old Masons ' and New Masons with the same meaning as the more usual expressions 'Ancient Masons ' and Modern Masons', suggests that the comments were written before the terms Ancient ' and Modern ' were well established. That would certainly be prior to 1764, in which year the second edition of Ahiman Rezon (the Book of Constitutions of the Grand Lodge of the Ancients) was published, containing the well-known attack on the Moderns ', and not improbably prior to 1756, when the first edition of Ahiman Rezon was issued, the Grand Lodge of the Anciens' having been established in 1751. Thus we are disposed to think that the comments were composed, and the Dialogue set down in writing, at some date between 1730 and 1750, though the catechism proper may very well have been copied from one used prior to 1730. Provisionally, therefore, we suggest as the date of the document circa 1740, a date which may call for revision in the light of an examination of the original manuscript, if and when that is found.
Dialogue between Simon and Philip

The transcript we print is prepared from Bro. Cramphorn's typescript copy. So far as we know, the catechism has not previously been printed.

A DIALOGUE BETWEEN SIMON, A TOWN MASON, & PHILIP, A TRAVELING MASON

SIM. Sr. I have just now received inclosed in a letter a piece of Paper in this form pray what do you mean by it. I am a Stranger, Want company, And hearing you was a Brother Mason made bold to summons you.

Sm. And are you a Mason. PHIL. (a). I am (so taken to be by all Fellows and Brothers)

SIM. And how shall I know you to be a Mason. PHIL. (b). BY Words, Signs, Tokens and Points for my Entrante.

SIM. And what is the Word of a Mason ? PHIL. (c). The word is Right.

SIM. If it be Right give it me Right. PHIL. I'll Letter with you, if you please.

SIM. Give me the first Letter and I'll give you the second. PHIL. B.

SIM. O. PHIL. A. SIM. Z.

PHIL. The Word (d) then is BOAZ, but as you are a Stranger to me, as I am to you, And we in good Policy are not to answer above Three questions proposed least we should be imposed on by a Pretender, I ask you, What are Signs. SIM. Signs (e) are all Squares, Angles and Perpendiculars.

PHIL. And what are Tokens. SIM. (f) All Brotherly gripes on the hand by which Brothers distinguish one another.

PHIL. And what are points f your Entrance ? SIM To Heal and Conceal the Secrets (g) of a Mason.

PHIL. How was you admitted a Mason. SIM. By (h) Three knocks. on the Door the fast at a double distance of time from the former and much larger.

PHIL. What was the first question that the Master ask'd you when you was admitted. SIM. Whither it was of my own free will that I came thither to be made a Mason. I answered YES.

PHIL. What did you see before you was made a Mason.

SIM. Nothing that I understood.

PHIL. What did you see afterwards. SIM. Three grand Lights PHIL. What do you call them. SIM. The Sun, The Moon and the Master (i)

PHIL. How do they Rule and Govern ? SIM. The Sun the Day, the Moon the Night, the Master the Lodge.

PHIL. Where stood your Master SIM. In the East

PHIL. Why in the East SIM. To wait the rising of the Sun to set the Men to their Work.

PHIL. Where stood the wardens SIM In the West.

PHIL. Why in the West SIM. To wait the Setting of the Sun and to discharge the Men from Their Labour.

PHIL. Where stood the Fellow Crafts SIM In the South.

PHIL. Why in the South SIM. To receive and instruct all strange Brothers.

PHIL. Where stood the entertained Prentices SIM. In the North to Heal and Conceal wait of the Master.

PHIL. You say you see three great Lights, did you see no other Light ? SIM. Yes one far surpassing Sun or Moon.

PHIL. What was that ? SIM. The Light of the Gospel.

PHIL. Why was you made a Mason SIM. For sake of the Letter G. (k).

PHIL. What does it signifye SIM. GEOMITRY

PHIL. Why GEOMITRY ? SIM. Because it is the Root and foundation of all Ans and Sciences.

PHIL. And pray how much mony had you in your pocket when you was made a Free Mason SIM. None at all (1)

PHIL. - And how was you made a Mason SIM. Neither Naked nor Clothed, Standing nor Lying, Kneeling nor Standing, Barfoot nor Shod, but in due form.

PHIL. How is that Form? Upon my barebended knee with a pair of Compasses extended square in my Breast. And then and there I took the sacred and solemn Oaths of a Mason.

PHIL. Repeat your Oaths.

SIM. I DO Solemnly Vow and Protest before Gon and this Worshipful Company that I will Heal or Hear, Conceal and never Reveal the Secrets or Secrecy of a Mason or Masonry that has been heretofore or shall be here or hereafter disclosed unto me, to neither Man, Woman nor Child, neither print them, stamp them or Engrave them or cause them to be written stampt or Engraved upon anything Moveable or Immoveable or any other ways. Whereby the Secrets of a Mason or Masonry may be discovered. Upon the Penalty of my Heart plucked from my Left breast, my Tongue pluck'd from the roof of my mouth, my Throat cutt, my Body to be tom to pieces by Wild Horses, to be bury'd in the Sands of the Sea where the Tide flowes in 24 Hours, taken up and burn't to Ashes and Sifted where the four winds blow that there may be no more Remembrances of me. Upon the Penalty of my Heart plucked from my Left breast, my Tongue pluck'd from the roof of my mouth, my Throat cutt, my Body to be tom to pieces by Wild Horses, to be bury'd in the Sands of the Sea where the Tide flowes in 24 Hours, taken up and burn't to Ashes and Sifted where the four winds blow that there may be no more Remembrances of me. So HELP ME GOD. then the Senior WARDEN put me on a White apron with these words. I put you on the Badge of a Mason, more Ancient and Honorable than the Knights of the Garter.

PHIL. I am satisfied you are a Mason by the Repeating of your Oath. If you please you may ask me what Questions you think proper. SIM. I ask you where your Lodge was kept. PHIL. In the Vale of Jehosaphat out of the Cackling of a Hen, the Crowing of a Cock, the barking of a Dog.

SIM. How high was your Lodge. PHIL. As high as the Heavens and as low as the Earth (m).

SIM. How many Pillars had your Lodge. PHIL. Three.

SIM. What did you call them. PHIL. Beauty (n). Strength and Wisdom.

SIM. What do they represent. PHIL. Beauty to Adorn, Strength to Support, And Wisdom to Contrieve.

SIM. What Lodge are you of PHIL. Of the Right Worshipful Lodge of St. John's.

SIM. How many Signs has a Free Mason. PHIL. Five.

SIM. What do you call them. PHIL. PEDESTAL—MANUAL—PECTORAL—GUTTERAL—ORAL.
tape nail'd to the Floor round as you see the letters E for East and S for South &c. are made of thin Silver or Tin very thin, And likewise the letter G at the top in the now constituted Lodge's is a Quadrant, a Square, a pair of Compasses and Plum line placed at the top of the Lodge. The Officers of the Lodge stand upright in their proper places with their Right foot makeing a Square upon their Left their left hand hanging down in a perpendicular line their right hand upon their left Breast makeing a Square with their Fingers and Thumb, with their white Aprons on, And Gloves stich't on their right side. This is the Posture and great sign that will fetch any Mason from the top of a House, and is calld the Posture of a Mason. (k) You may Observe why G is placed in the midle of the Lodge.

(1) NONE AT ALL. This is a very cunning Question to discover a Pretender because they dismiss you of all Mettle about you as your mony And your Buckles from your Shoes &c. and give this reason for it. That at the building of the Temple nothing of Mettle was heard. According to the 6 Chap. Kings 7 verse : And the House when it was in building was built of Stone made ready before it was brought thither. So that there was neither hammer nor Ax nor any tool of Iron heard in the House while it was in Building.

(m) As low as the Earth as high as the Heavens because all Lodge's were kept formerly in the open Fields.

(n) Beauty Strength and Wisdom. These three things are necessary to all great Buildings.
James Essex, (1722-84), builder, architect and antiquary of Cambridge, bequeathed his MSS. to Kerrich (1748-1828), Librarian of the University of Cambridge, who in turn bequeathed them to the British Museum, together with his own collection of MSS. In a volume originally belonging to Essex [B.M. Add. MSS. 6-60] are, amongst other items written by or for him, two catechisms (as well as a copy of the Leland Locke MS.) which apparently are not in Essex's own handwriting, comparison with which can be made as many of his architectural papers are in the British Museum (W. B. H[extall], Mise. Lat., ii, 122). Both, however, are written in the same hand, as can be clearly seen in the facsimile reproduction of p. 45 of the volume in A.Q.C. li, facing p. 232, which contains the end of the first catechism and the beginning of the second. The first is a fairly correct version of The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd, 1724, (Poole, A.Q.C., i, 232). According to Hextall (loc. cit.) it is most noticeable for the question and answer, "Q. Give me the Universal Word. A. Maughbin ". According to Bro. Poole (loc. cit.) it has no independent critical value, and is not worth reproducing. At present it is inaccessible; so far as we are aware, it has never been printed.

The second catechism is a version of The Whole Institutions of Free-Masons Opened, 1725, and of the masonic examination in the Graham MS., 1726, with both of which it has been compared in detail by Bro. Poole in A.Q.C., li, where a photographe facsimile of the catechism is printed. Bro. Poole (A.Q.C., xxxvii, ro) suggests that it belongs to the second half of the eighteenth century; we have ventured to describe it as c. 1750. The transcript we print is prepared from the A.Q.C. facsimile. See Introduction, pp. 12, 18, 19 above.

The whole Instruction opened and proved by Scripture 1st observe that as you make Imitation of a squiere is according to every Subject in hand proved by ye 7th verse of the 6th Chap! of the 1e! of Kings

The Salutation as follows—From whence came you
A I came from a right worshipfull lodge of Masters & fellows belonging to holy S¡, John who doth greet ail true & holy Brothers of our holy Secret so do I if Q If you be one
Q I greet you well Brothers what is your name A I & the other to say B & C the examination Followeth
Q How shall I know you are a free mason A By true words & tokens from my Entrie

---

Essex MS.

Q How were you made a Mason
A By a true & perfect Lodge

Q What are a perfect Lodge
A The centre of a true Heart

Q And how many Masons was so called
A any odd number from 3 to 13

Q What was your first step towards your entring
A a willing desire to know the Secret

Q How came you in to the Lodge
A In ignorance & came out in knowledge

Q What did you see thire
A The World & Justice

Q What was behind you
A Perjury & exclamation of our fraternity

Q how was your Lodge set at your entering A South East

Q Why so
A Because Churches stand East & West & Prechers to the South

Q Why does Churches stand East & West
A Because the East wind dryed up the Sea before the Children of Israel

Q What posture did you pass your oath in A I was neither setting going standing lying hinging nor properly Kneeling cloathed nor naked shod no barefoot but as a Brother knows how

Q What were you sworn to A To heal & conceal

Q What other tenners belong to your Oath
A To obey God in all true Squares made or sent to me from a Brother never to put out my hand to steal nor commit adultery with a Brothers Wife nor design any unjust revenge on him but love & releive him as far as you can not hurting your self two far

Q What reason can you give or any Man render why Masons should have a screet more than any trade
A Because the building ye House of the Lord pleased his devine Majesty therefore in some part by merret yet much more by free grace the obtaining a name & a new command the name signifieing strength & the answer beauty & the command Love, For it is to be understood & also belived that every tipe of Gods House had some reference to the insueing will of God which he would have the Children of Men to practice and his 12 Apostles for proof of this read the 6th & 7th of the 1st of Kings Keep well the Key that lyeth in a bone Box under a hairy Sod
REJOINERS

THE FREE-MASONS VINDICATION, 1725

This anonymous and undated broadside, about 10 1/2 x 6 3/4", printed on both sides, claims to be an answer to the catechism, The Grand Mystery of the Free Masons Discover'd, which is the title of the second, or 1st., edition of The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd, 1724. A copy is bound with other broadsheets in a volume in the British Museum [B.M. 8145, h.1] bearing Dublin imprints dated 1725; the likelihood is that it is of Irish origin and that it was published in 1725. It was reprinted in Misc. Lat., iv, and reproduced by photo-lithography in Lepper and Crossle (pp. 49-50). Our reprint is from a photostat of the copy in the British Museum. See Introduction, p. 16 above.

THE FREE-MASONS VINDICATION, Being An Answer To a Scandalous Libel, entitled the Grand Mistery of the Free Masons, discover'd, &c. Wherein is plainly prov'd the falsity of that Discovery, and how great an imposition it is on the Publick.

Invidiâ siculi, non invenere Tyranni Majus Tormentum. Hor.
—Sic Murus Aheneus esto
Nil conscire tibi, nnullâ pallescere Culpâ. 1 id.
E Calo descendit [image]. 2 Juv.

HAVING read a Paper lately publish'd, which bas strove to deceive the World by a pretended Discovery of the Manners, and Customs of the Free Masons at their Assemblies, Meetings, &c. We of that Society thought it incumbent upon us to say something in Answer to it, not so much on account of the Paper itself, which deserves nothing but Ridicule (as we shall sufficiently show) to any understanding Man's Consideration; but to undeceive those who have suffer'd themselves to be impos'd on by such an intolerable Abuse. Not that we by this reflect on those Gentleman's judgements, for they not knowing are the more fiable to the Imposture; tho' one wou'd hardly suppose a secret that has never been divul'd since this Order first commenc'd, shou'd now be expos'd on such groundless, and I may say hardly credible Reasons. Our Antagonist tell's you it was found in the Custody of a Free Mason who died suddenly; now we think that Excuse the most ridiculous in the World; for if We were so indiscreet as to commit our Orders to the Care of each Person of our Society, We cou'd not expect but it wou'd have been discover'd by many Mischances before this Time; but We are much more carefull in things of such Importance, and never leave it in the Power of the wisest Observer to discover the least hint of our Designs. Your Author's Fable We don't think it worth while to answer, since it so much reflects upon himself; for he lias made his Discovery scarce equal to the Solution of his AEnigma. If we shou'd attempt to answer him Paragraph by Paragraph, it wou'd spend more Time than We can at present allow, since it is from first to last one continu'd Peice of Nonsense; and cou'd wich more Reason (as did [dia' upon a different Occasion] an minent Divine) put a Mentiris to the End of all his Affirmatives; for it appears at first View more like a jargon of Contradictions, than a premeditated Composition.

The Free Masons having been allow'd to be the most ancient and honourable Society in the World, and both is and bas been compos'd chiefly of the principal Nobility; but 'tis the same thing with our Author; the more excellent the subject, the Jest will pass the better; and nothing can please so well as a Fool that lias lost his Manners; but what cou'd be his design is hard to be understood, or what exalted Ideas he bas conceiv'd of us to make him bestow such uncommon Terms of Art on us, we can't immagine. In our Health that he lias taken such extraordinary Pains to anatomize, he owns we are a very noble, and ancient Fraternity, and makes our selves allow it to be a wonderfull Mystery; altho' his Fable gave him the Lie no less than a Page before: whither this be Ignorance, or Impudence I leave the World to Determine.

The Author has taken a deal of Pains to very litde purpose; and lias been at a greater deal of Trouble to make himself Intelligible, than an antiquated Apothecary; for the utmost of his Discovery leaves his Reader in a greater Dilemma than ever, and sufficiently shews how much it wants an Interpreter. What could induce him to be so ridiculous as to Write, or so impudent to publish, is perhaps hard to be determin'd, if Hunger or Envy were not the chief Motives: Be that as it we believe that those who have got Mr. Informer's Instructions, will be as much at a loss to discover a Free Mason, as if he had still conceal'd his Directions, and will like himself, for ever remain in Ignorance.

What we intend by this Discourse, is not to honour our Author so far as to think him worth Contradiction; but to put his Readers in mind to consider their infallible Receipt a little more narrowly, and not be too confident in their belief of a Fable. Having therefore perform'd what we intended, we think it now time to bid our Author adieu, and to take this Advice, either never to Write, or to write something nearer Sense than his last. But as he in the beginning of his Information introduces himself with a very handsome apropos Fable, we shall condescend so far in imitation of him, to conclude with another, and to him, "That a Fox once having observ'd" a large Bunch of excellent Grapes hanging in a very tempting "Posture, over his Head, strove with the hazard of his Neck by a great many Leaps, Springs, and other Stratagems, to lead away "Captive this Bunch, that by its alluring Colour and Magnitude, "had dar'd to provoke his Appetite; but after many dangers escap'd, "difficulties overcome, a few Limbs disjointed, and other chances "of War, having found it impossible to compass his desires, he "began by the instigation of his longing Stomach to Curse, and "abuse what he had spent so many Hours, and receiv'd so many "Bruises in attempting to recover.

Adieu.
before the Deluge, for he was 90 Years of Age when the Flood came upon the Earth.

Fame tells us, that after the Flood he communicated the Knowledge of it to the Great Council or Meeting upon the Plains of Shinaar, where it was proposed to build a Tower up to Heaven: Nothing but a complete Master of the Science of Masonry could have conceiv'd so immense an Undertaking His Proposai being accepted, it seems he undertook the Work, and became the Master-Builder

But the History imports, that his Workmen growing weary of mounting that stupendious Stair-case, and at last being divided in Speech, mutined and left him, and so the Work was broken off; but the mighty Ruins of that Fabrick shews to this Day the Skill of the Master-Mason; the immense Arches, the vast Pilasters, the strong Basis, which are still to be seen, are a lasting Testimony as well to the Greatness of the Work as to the Genius of the Workman.

His Grandson by his Son Canaan was called Sidon, whose Tribes travelling from Babel West, came to the Sea-shore of Phoenicia, and there (being instructed in the Art of Masonry by his great Ancestor) he built the City of Sidon, which remains to this Day the most ancient City in the World.

Another of his Grandsons was call'd Mizraim, and he travell'd into Egypt, where he (being long before accepted a Mason by his great Ancestor) erected a powerful Nation on the Banks of the Nile. And some hundred Years after that, he built those inimitable Fabricks call'd the Pyramids.

Under these great Masters of Masonry, many others in succeeding Ages were found, who being received as accepted Masons, scattered themselves abroad, and spread the noble Science into several Parts of the World.

Hence Cadmus a Phoenician Prince, and one of the immediate Successors of Sidon, carried the Art of Building from Tyre (a City built by the Zidonians) into Boetia or Greece, and taught the Greeks the first Order of Buildings, by whose Skill the said Greeks were instructed and daily improving, built all those glorious Fabricks which History gives us such large Accounts of, and in particular the great Temple of Apollo at Delphos.

Hence Hiram, that great and famous Master of Art, being also a Phenician, became a Master Mason, and acted the Part of a Founder in the erecting Solomon's Temple; where he perform'd such surprizing Things, and so inimitable that he is said to have been buried there; the Meaning of which we shall explain by and by.

From these glorious Originals, the Art of Masonry spread it self in the World, being supposed to be in its Meridian Glory in the Time of the Roman Empire, and in the Reign of Trajan, in whose Times those famous Columns, Amphitheatres, Aqueducts, and other magnificent Buildings were rais'd, whose Ruins are at this Day the Wonder of the World, and shew the exquisite Skill and mighty Genius of the Free Masons of those Times.

With the Fall of the Roman Empire, this glorious Art (as many others also did) suffered a fatal Blow; and as barbarous Nations over-ran the Empire, so the Art of Masonry sunk into Gothicism and all manner of Irregularities, and the Buildings of the following Ages, became for a long Time rude and impolite; the Rules of Art being sunk, and as it were forgotten in the World.

But under these Discouragements there were always found a Few, Fate so directing, who associating together, with the utmost Secrecy and Fidelity constantly instructed one another in the Rules of Art, and preserved their Councils from the Eyes of all Men; binding themselves to one another by an inviolable Oath of Secrecy, and a Word or Token of Amity and Fellowship; by which Means they have preserv'd the Knowledge of Masonry in all its most exquisite and accomplish'd Parts, and handed it down to us even to this Day.

This we call the brief History of this Matter, and however, the Pryings, Searchings, Guessings, and Inquiries of busy Men, have laboured to dive into the Mystery of this Society, and into the Manner how the same has been carried on and preserved, and have in spite of Oaths solemnly taken, attempted w betray and expose it; yet the Secret remains untouch'd and the Traytors have only exposed themselves in those Attempts.

Having thus brought down the Account of the Society of Free Masons historically to the present Age; and mentioned also some Attempts to find out and expose the well deposited Secret: It brings me of Course to fix upon one or two of those particular Attempts which are just now broke out among us, and which contrary to the Expectation of the Traitors, have issued no less to the Honour of Free Masonry itself, and of the Society which has lately flourish'd in this City, than to the Infamy and Reproach of the scandalous Authors, who have been able to do no more than just to expose themselves, shew their Contempt of all the Obligations as well of Conscience as of Honour; and let the World see in short, that they have not been able to come at the Secret itself, and really know nothing of the Matter.

One of these has taken some Pains to tell us his Name, and has himself branded it with a Mark of Infamy, as inimitably ridiculous as it is wicked; telling us at the same time, that he is a received and accepted Free Mason, and from thence would infer that he knows the whole Secret, and so goes on to betray (ignorant Wretch!) All he knows, in spite of all the Oaths and Engagements he had entered into to the contrary, tho', to his great Disappointment, all he knows amounts to just nothing.

The others, having been not quite so shameless, have concealed their Names, under the weak Pretexts of having receiv'd their Informations from other Hands, but must know at the same time, that those other Hands must then have been guilty of the same Perjury and Prevarication, and must have been equally Traytors to their Trust, to their Masters, and to their Country; so that let it come which Way it will, it is much the same.

They have copied from one another, and all their Informations intimate a kind of Dialogue between the Person of a Free Mason and some imaginary Inquirer at the Time of that Person being admitted into the Society; which Dialogues, - and especially the Answers are full of such nonsensical inconsistent Things, that they are not able to give the Reader the least Diversion or Information, if he had Patience to go thro' them.

The following is a short Entertainment of like kind between one of the Masters of the Society, and a junior Member lately admitted, and who, as appears, is one of the weak Brethren mention'd above.

Mast. Come hither, Young Man, pray what do you wear that Apron, and these white Gloves for? are you a Free Mason?

Jun. N.B. [Here instead of an Answer he pronounces (as he thinks)

\[\text{xx} \text{the secret word, by which he supposes he should pass for a Member.}\]

Mast. N.B. [Here the Master pronounces another word, which \[\text{xx} \text{the Junior does not at all understand.}] 1

Jun. What's that pray?

Mast. A Token by which I understand that you are only admitted to the first Steps of a Free Mason, but are not yet taken into the full Confidence of the Society.

Jun. Ay, have they serv'd me so! I can't believe that; I tell you I am an accepted Free Mason?

Mast. But I tell you, that you are not; but do not be angry; after having approv'd your self honest, and given the Society some Year's Experience of your Fidelity, as well as of your Improvement in Knowledge, and the Science of a Mason, you may at length attain to the full Degree of an Accepted Mason, but not yet I assure you. Jun. I tell you, I am all that already.

Mast. I know better, Friend; if you were, you would have understood what just now I said: However, are you willing to be farther examin'd?

Jun. Ay, ay; I can answer all the Questions which you put at our Admission.

Mast. I doubt you can't; pray, who was the first Master Mason in the World?

Jun. He that built the Tower of Babel.

Mast. Well, but who was he?

Jun. We were not told his Name.

Mast. I knew that well enough; they would not trust you with that Secret at first.

Jun. Pray what was his Name?

Mast. No, hold there; do you think I have so little Regard to my Oath?

Jun. I thought when I was accepted a Free Mason I had a Right to be told every Thing.

Mast. No, you are mistaken there; after one and forty Years Tryal of your Fidelity, perhaps you may, but not before. Jun. I believe I know every Thing as well as you do.

Mast. Come then, let's put you to the Tryal again; who was the Head Master Mason in the Building of Solomon's Temple.

Jun. Hiram the great Master Mason of Tyre, of the Tribe of Naphtali?

Mast. There you are wrong again; Hiram was a Caster of Brass, or, if you please, a Founder; the greatest and best that ever was in the World.

Jun. I say he was a Free Mason.

Mast. Yes, alegorically; as a Man of one Employment may be

---

1 For explanation of the Hebrew words, see Note on p. 240 below.
a Member of a Society that is of another; so a Handicraft in London, may be by Profession a Smith, and by his Freedom or Company a Tallow Chandler; and so Hiram was a free Accepted Mason, and no doubt he understood Masonry perfectly well too; yet his principal Work in Solomon's Temple, was Casting of Brass, and it was he that cast the two vast Brazen Pillars call'd Boaz and Jachin, such as never were seen before or since.

Jun. Well, but who was the Head Mason then; who was the Master Builder of the Temple?

Mast. Nay, that's not a Secret for you to understand yet; I tell you it must be Matter of Time.

Jun. But I say Hiram (say what you will) was the Man, and he built Solomon's Porch too?

Mast. Yes; and don't they tell you Hiram was buried in the Sanctum Sanctorum?

Jun. Yes, and he was buried there too to be sure.

Mast. Yes, allegorically; but not really; the Meaning of the Figure is this: That his Art sunk with him, was buried in the exquisite Workmanship which he perform'd for the Temple, and was never recover'd since, for that no such Things were ever done after it, in or for any Building in the World.

Jun. Was that the Meaning of it?

Mast. Yes; for you might easily know, a dead Body to have been buried in the Temple, would have polluted the Place, and the Jews would never have come into it again.

Jun. There may be something in that indeed; but why was not I told all that before?

Mast. I tell you why, because you had not been long enough enter'd to be a fully Accepted Free Mason.

Jun. And was the Art of Masonry buried then in Solomon's Temple?

Mast. I don't say so; but Hiram's Art of Foundry was so buried to be sure; for all the World never made two such massive Pillars of Brass as BOAZ and JACHIN, nor was there ever any such heard of in the World.

Jun. And what became of Masonry in Egypt at the same time?

Mast. Why that died with old Mizraim, for there was never any Free Mason in the World that could build such Pyramids, and there-
The Perjur'd Free Mason Detected

an't better us'd, I'll make my self amends upon some of you, I'll warrant you.

Mast. What do you mean by being better us'd ? Explain yourself, pray.

Jun. Explain my self ; ay, so I will ; I want Money, and I must have Money, and by G—d I will have Money, or it shall be worse for them.

Mast. Well, now you talk like your self ; want Money ! must have Money ! and will have Money ! What's the Difference, pray, where is your Pistol ?

Jun. No, no ; I am no high-way-man, and yet I tell you, if your damn'd Society do not take care of me, I'll take care of them, I'll lay it all open by G—d.

Here the Dialogue broke off, as well it might ; for what could be said further to such a Pretender to Free Masonry, as this ? He might have laid a Man flat without Square or Level, and cut a Per pendicular thro' his Head without Rule or Plumb-Line.

Upon this very Foundation the Enemies of the Free Masons have proceeded, and these are the Men we have to do with in this Tract : They have taken the Oath of a Free Mason, and have with an audacious Front broke thro' that Oath, and they would corne off of it by objecting against the Manner of the Oath and the Obligations of it, insisting that it is not binding upon them, because not administer'd in the ordinary Form of Law or before a Magistrate, and the like.

PART II

Thus far we have seen the Fools of the Society discovering themselves ; Fools we may call them without any Injustice, that could believe, a Society, claiming to have been establish'd so many Ages, and whose secret Deposit, had been preserv'd so inviolable under so many sacred Bonds and Ties of Secrecy, could be so weak at last as to discover the Arcana of Free Masonry to every Corner that did but think fit at the Expence of a Trille to offer themselves, and to take a Modern Oath, for these Men affirm the Oath that they have taken to be all Modern, and, as they say, form'd of yesterday ; and so it is indeed, compar'd to the ancient Engagements of Free Masons, which were founded upon Principles of Honour, and in Times when a sole= Parole was of equal, if not superior Force with the Consciences of Men as the warmest Imprecations of these swearing Days : This has appeared in the Consequences, seeing we find the firmly combin'd Force of the Honourable Society of Free Masons remaining untouched, notwithstanding the Difference of the Bonds : Till these wicked Times, when, as we see in the present Example, Men are not to be bound by the most awful and solemn Promises and Asseverations in the World.

Now, tho' the Sense of this Degeneracy of Mankind may have led the Society to draw up some new and additional Forms of Oaths, by which they might hope to secure the Fidelity of their Junior Members, yet wisely also foreseeing what might happen, and that Men would be found who would perhaps break through all those Obligations, and make light of Faith and Honour ; they took care likewise to communicate no more of the Secrets of the Society to those young Members than they thought fit, till they had in their first Station given ample Proofs of their Fidelity ; and yet the little which they knew being opened to them under the most horrid Imprecations and the most solemn Cadis, they could not break thro' that little without branding themselves with the grossest Marks of Infamy, as well as Folly ; the first, in the evident Perjury ; and the last, in their ignorantly supposing they were Masters of the happy Secret, when indeed they knew little of the Matter.

We have had the inside of the latter sort turn'd outmost in the former Discourse with a Junior admitted in Form as above : We shall now entertain you a little with a more flagrant piece of Treachery, and Perjury committed, avowed and openly boasted of in the Teeth of Shame, and in Contempt of all that can be call'd Honourable among Men. This is fully describ'd in another Dialogue between a True Mason and one Mr. Samuel Prichard ; for he has given up his Name to the D— under the' Sanction of a Counter-Oath, even in Print ; swearing himself perjur'd, which any Man would have believ'd without a second Oath, and no Man the more for the Addition, the Dialogue is as follows.

Q. Pray, Sir, is your Name Samuel Prichard ? A. Yes, Sir.

Q. Are you the same Man who has publish'd that wonderful Book call'd the Free Mason dissected ? A. Yes, I am Sir, what have you to say to it ?

Q. Nothing at all Sir, only I wonder you did not give it a better Title. A. What Title cou'd have been more to the Purpose, and to the Design of the Book?

Q. O, a great many ; but one in particular. A. What is that pray, what wou'd you have had it call'd ?

Q. Why, I wou'd have had you call'd it Mr. Samuel Prichard dissected, or Mr. Samuel Prichard, who calls himself a Free Mason, dissected. A. And why so pray ?

Q. Because the Book would then have answer'd the Title exactly, for it has the very Inside of a R— laid open in it from the very Title Page to the Word Finis, and the Name set to it at full length thus, (I am the Man) Samuel Prichard. A. You are very rude, is this all your Business with me ?

Q. No, no ; I have several Things of Moment to talk with you about ; pray why do you call your self a Free Mason? A. Because I am so.

Q. How do you make it out ? A. I am an Accepted Free Mason, a Member of the Free Masons, and I wear the Leather Apron and white Gloves.

Q. How was you accepted, and by whom ? A. By a Constituted Lodge of Accepted Free Masons.

Q. Well, but you should change your Stile a little. A. How shou'd I change it, and why ?

Q. Why, you shou'd say, I was a Free Mason, not I Am. A. Why am I not so now, pray ? once a Free Mason, and always a Free Mason.

Q. Ay, but once a Renegade, and always a Turk ; once a Traytor, and always a R— ; those Things you know are Maxims in all Affairs of this kind, you know it well enough. A. You are very abusive, you talk as if you had an Authority to rail.

Q. I say nothing of Mr. Prichard, but what I have Mr. Prichard's Authority for, under his Oath before a Justice of Peace. A. What have I given under my Hand ?

Q. You must pardon me, Mr. Prichard, I can't believe it a jot the more for your new fashion'd Oath : He that will forswear once, will forswear twice ; but I think I know the Oath, and if you please i'll set it down again for you, that you may have a Voucher ; the Oath you took, if you were admitted a Free Mason, was this.

I Hereby solemnly Vow and Swear in the Presence of Almighty God and this Right Worshipful Assembly, that I will Hail and Conceal, and never Reveal the Secrets or Secrecy of Masons or Masonry, that shall be revealed unto me ; unless to a True and Lawful Brother, after due Examination, or in a Just and Worshipful Lodge of Brothers and Fellows well met.

I furthermore Promise and Vow, that I will not Write them, Print them, Mark them, Carve them, or Engrave them, or cause them to be Written, Printed, Marked, Carved or Engraved on Wood or Stone, so as the Visible Character or Impression of a Letter may appear, whereby it may be unlawfully obtain’d.

All this under no less Penalty than to have my Throat cut, my Tongue taken from the Roof of my Mouth, my Heart pluck’d from under my Left Breast, them to be buried in the Sands of the Sea, the length of a Cable-rope from Shore, where the Tide ebbs and flows twice in 24 Hours, my Body to be burnt to Ashes, my Ashes to be scatter’d upon the Face of the Earth, so that there shall be no more Remembrance of me among Masons.

So help me God.

Q. Is this a true Draft of the Oath ? A. Yes, yes ; 'tis the same I published, and the same that I took.

Q. On purpose to break, I perceive. A. Well, and what then ? I tell you, I am not guilty of Perjury for all that.

Q. Nay, have you not sworn that you are forsworn ? A. Don’t tell me of Perjury, and being foresworn ; why did they not answer my just Demands then ? I tell you they are all Cheats and R—s, I did not cheat them.

Q. What Demands ? Did they owe you any Thing ? A. Why Money, why did they not give me some Money ?

Q. Did they promise you any when you entered, or before it ? A. It’s no matter whether they did or no, I expected it, and I wanted it, and more than that, I was told I might get Money of them, if I was but once admitted.

Q. Who told you so, was he a Free Mason, or one that had any Commission from them to promise in their Names ? A. No, no ; but it was one that understood Things.

Q. What’s that to them ? Did they make any Bargain with you ? A. What tho’ they did not, I told them I wanted Money.

Q. When did you tell them so, before you took the Oath or since ? A. No, not before you may be sure, but often enough since.

Q. And did you threaten to discover and break the Oath if they would not give you Money ? A. Yes, I did.

Q. And what did they say to that, did they promise you any 200

The Perjur'd Free Mason Detected

The Society not being able to know the Characters and Principles of every new Member, did not think fit to commit the whole Trust of their Secret deposit to Novices and 'Prentices, as you see they are call'd, till after a sufficient Probation; so that if they prov'd treacherous, they could discover no more than they knew, which was nothing significant to the main Affair, and nothing by which the grand Secret could be expos'd. A. A fine Story truly; how do you make it out?

Q. The Think makes out itself; let any body that has had so much Patience as to read your Libel, tell themselves what they can learn from it of the Society's Affairs. A. Yes, they may learn the whole Secret.

Q. How can that be, when 'tis plain you don't know it yourself? They can only learn that the Society have been so wise to trust you, and that you are too ignorant to hurt them. A. If this was true, then what do you make all this Stir about Perjury for?

Q. Why you are not a jot less perjur'd for that: A House-breaker is no less a Thief when a House is so well secur'd that he can't get into it, than he would be if he had got in and rob'd it of all that was in it. A. You make very homely Comparisons.

Q. But they are very just. A. I tell you the Oath itself is void in its own Nature. It is an illegall Oath.

Q. Not an Oath! Was it not intended to be an Oath by those that impos'd it? A. Ay, ay; but they had no Power to give me an Oath at all, much less to impose the Form of it.

Q. Very well, and will that bring you off; think you? Pray, had they Power to stand still and hear you swear it? And, I hope, you remember you did not swear to them, tho' you swore it before them, but to Almighty God, and his sacred Name you invok'd in the Conclusion to help, or not to help, you, as you perform'd or did not perform what you had sworn. A. I tell you, I swore nothing; the Form of the Oath being illegal, the Matter is illegal also, and of no Import, I do not lay the least Stress upon it.

Q. Unhappy shuffling perjur'd Creature! that won't do, that Jesuitical Shift will not stand thee in any stead against the solid part of an Oath; hear the Words again: that is, I Samuel Prichard, solemnly swear in the Presence of Almighty God, &c. is not that swearing? A. Not such swearing as to make the Breach of the Oath Perjury.

Q. Not Perjury! A. No, not Perjury; and if any Man says I am perjur'd, bring my Action against him.

Q. Begin with me then, Sam, for I tell thee to thy Face thou art sworn in the Sight of God and Man. A. I don't care for that, so long as it is not so in the Sight of the Law.

Q. Thou hast a hard-mouth'd Soul, Prichard, that's true. But that will carry thee but a little way in Defence of the Fact. Let us go back to the Oath: Did you repeat the Words when you took the Oath, or did you only hear them read, and, having your Hand upon the Book, say the usual Amen to them at the End, that is, So help me God. A. I need not have repeated them, but being officiously forward I did repeat them aloud, being all the while upon my Knees; but all that's nothing, I tell you.

Q. That is to say still, that you don't call this Swearing, or call the Words, which are the Form of it, an Oath, when so read to you, and acknowledg'd by you in the Presence of Almighty God. Pray, what do you call Swearing—and what is an Oath in your Account? A. You may call it what you will, I tell you, I value it not.

Q. I believe you don't indeed; and you may depend upon it, no body will value any thing you shall say or swear for the future, you shall enjoy one Part of the Curse attending your swearing Part (viz.) that tho' your Ashes may not be scatter'd, as you say in the Oath, upon the Face of the Earth; yet that there shall be no more Remembrance of you among Masons, and so avoid Mr. Free Mason Prichard, avoid for ever. A. Well, but you say I swore to nothing, what then do you make all this a-noise about; if I swore to nothing, I have forsworn nothing, and so all is well again.

Q. No, Mr. Prichard, no, no; I do not say you swore to nothing, only I say you have been trusted with nothing, that is to say, nothing of Importance; nothing but what you may carry away, and make no body much the wiser; but you are not a jot the less dipt in the Perjury, for that: He that does all the Mischief he can, is guilty of all the Mischief he would do, if it was in his power; and 'tis plain by your Confession, if you have not been guilty of all the Treachery to the Society that you design'd to be, it has not been for want of Will, but for want of Power; you would have murther'd them all upon the same Foot, if it had been in your Power. A. But what is this to the Purpose still, if as you say, I have discovered nothing.

Q. Hold there, tho' what you have discover'd, or indeed, all you know, was not able to do the Free Masons any harm; yet you are foresworn as much as if you had discovered ten times as much. A.
How will you make out that?

Q. Because you did not swear not to discover Things detrimental to the Company, for that might be to swear to conceal that which you did not know, but you swore not to discover what you knew, be the Importance of it more or less. A. You take a great deal of Pains to make it Perjury, if you could; I tell you I don't value it, if it is Perjury, as long as you can't prosecute me at Law.

Q. I have nothing to do with the brasen Side of your Conscience, look you to that; I prove it to be Perjury, and that's enough to the present Case. A. You and I differ about the Word Perjury, perhaps, that's all.

Q. I don't think we differ about it at all; pray what say you of a Man that solemnly promises with a profess'd Design to break his Word, and not perform? A. Say, we say he breaks his Word.

Q. Don't we say he is guilty of premeditated Perjury? A. We may say so, but that is not Perjury.

Q. Indeed, I think it is, for there is very little Difference (if any) between them: a solemn Promise before Witness, and mentioning the Presence of God, is no less than calling God to witness; and an Oath, I am sure, does no more, so that they are the same in the Intent and Meaning of them. A. That's carrying Things on to Extremes and Niceties.

Q. But what's all this to you? yours was a plain Oath, as plain and as strong as Words and horrid Imprecations could make it. A.
An Oath to do what?

Q. To conceal and keep secret, and neither directly or indirectly to divulge. A. Divulge what?
and therefore he sets a Bill upon the Door, intimating that here was some strange and wonderful Novelty to be seen, such as was never seen or heard of before, viz. a Monster swearing himself to be a Monster, a Man swearing himself to be a D-1. Whether indeed he ought to be depended upon for this last Oath any more than he might for the first, I shall not determine. Perhaps he might act like the Wizard at New England, who swore he dealt with the Devil and had done so for several Years, yet could not gain Credit enough with the Jury to get himself hang'd, tho' every body believ'd he deserv'd it.

And what shall we call this double Swearing now, but a Testimony even in favour of Free Masonry it self, viz. that not one Word of this Author's Work ought to be depended upon or even believ'd ; and indeed, as I have advanced already, there is so little Consistency in the Relation, and such confounded Falsehood in the Relator, that whoever would bang a Beast upon his Affidavit, should never pass with me a just Judge or a good Juryman.

When a Man has once made himself infamous in the Sense of the Law, his Evidence is no more accepted in a Court of Justice. If a Man shall upon Oath declare himself to have perjur'd a most solemn Oath, and own'd that he regards neither God or the Devil, so that he can but be free from that one Evil call'd Punishment ; he may pass with other Men for what they please, but with nie shall always pass for what the, Law calls by a hard Name, and cannot deserve a soft one.

But I am still mightily inclin'd to believe one Thing in favour of this unhappy Author, and that is, that he did not really take the Masons Oath, and if so, then he is guilty but of one Perjury ; but then to what purpose was lis second Oath ! and he must be brought in committing that Sin for the meer sake of sinning, which is what wise Men say outsins the Devil ; if the Devil does Mischief, 'tis with some View, and Design of still farther Mischief : But if he did not take the first Oath, then he forswore himself in the second without any View at ail, and for no manner of purpose ; and on the other hand, if he did take the first Oath and break it, his second Oath might well be said to stand for nothing, for owning himself forsworn already, who would believe any. thing he should say or swear after it ?

In short, 'tis all a piece of Nonsense and Confusion, and we shall say no more to it, but see a little into the Design and Event of it all.

I. What his Design was in this double Prevarication.
II. How far the Event has answer'd the Malice of the Design, or whether it has answer'd it at all or no ? These two Enquiries have afforded us another short Entertainment upon the Subject by way of Dialogue, and which may serve to dismiss this worthy Subject and its Author also from the Stage and Scene of Action, and indeed from all Conversation among Free Masons in the World. The Discourse is as follows.

Q. Pray, Mr. Free Mason PRICHARD, let me ask you another short Question or two upon the Subject of our last Conference, and (if that be possible) answer me sincerely. A. I won't promise you that.
Q. No indeed, I doubt you can't ; and if you did, it would be of no great Weight ; but I shall judge a little by the Manner of your Answers, whether they are sincere or no. A. Well, what is it you would ask me ?
Q. Why, in the first place, what did you propose to yourself in your late extraordinary Pamphlet called Masonry Dissected ? A.
Propose to my self, what do you mean by that ?
Q. The Question is plain ; no Action is done by any rational Creature, but it is done for some End, something is proposed, as an End in the Work : Now in that Part, either you proposed some thing to your self, or you prosed nothing. A. I told you before I proposed to get Money.
Q. Money ; of whom, pray ? A. Why, of the Free Masons.
Q. What, after you had spit your Venom at them ; after you had done all the Mischief you could ? you could not expect they would give you any thing then, especially seeing,

as it seems, they would give you none before. A. But I did expect it for all that.

Q. What, Did you think they would give you Money for railing, when they would give you none to hold your Tongue ? A. Well, it were better for them that they had.
Q. Had what ? given you Money, after you had done your worst : I am indeed of Opinion now, that your Answer is sincere, it is so silly. A. But perhaps I had another End in it, that may have been answer'd effectually, and that I shan't let you into the Secret of.
Q. I believe I can tell it you, if you won't tell it me, and I believe so, because there is no room for any-thing else, and that is REVENU.
A. Well, if that is the Case, han't I good Cause ? Han't I Provocation enough?
Q. No indeed, I see no Provocation at all: Pray, wherein have the Free Masons affronted you, that it should raire your Spleen so much?
A. Why, they would give me no Money; is not that sufficient Provocation?
Q. I am persuaded they gave you as much as they promis'd you. A.
Why they gave me nothing at all.
Q. Did they give Money to any body else? A. I don't inquire into that.
Q. But why should you expect it, if no body else did? A. It's no matter for that, I will be reveng'd of them, they had better have done it.
Q. That's not worth notice: But this brings me to ask you another Question, and that is, are not all the Ends you propos'd to your self disapointed; or to put it another Way, has any one of your Expectations been answer'd? A. Perhaps they have.
Q. I doubt not; I believe you cannot pretend to it. A. Yes, yes, I have got Money by my Book.
Q. Poor Scribbler! What little you have got by the Copy of your Book is hardly worth being call'd getting, and you have bought that Gold (if there was any) much too dear. A. Well, you have nothing to do with that; I have not done with them yet.
Q. Well, now you are sincere again, for that's a free and full Confession. A. Confession of what?
Q. Why, that you have been disappointed in what you have done already.
A. How disappointed?
Q. Why, that it has not answer'd your End or Design. A. You don't know what my End or Design was.
Q. Why, did not you tell me just now, that it was Revenge, because you could get no Money of them? A. Well, it may be it was that, among other Things.
Q. And are you not disappointed now, as effectually as you were before? I tell you, you have taken wrong Measures in both: I think you should go to School, to learn the A B C of a R— you have enough of the Rage, but no Method. A. By your Way of -talking, I suppose you are able to teach me.
Q. You are witty upon me, it seems, for my Advice: No, I shan't pretend to teach you, but I may direct you to them that can. A.
Who may that be, pray?
Q. Why, I think, you may leam of some of those lesser R--s at Bristol. When you wanted Money of the Free Masons, I wonder you did not threaten to burn their Houses, if they did not send it you. A. What, do you take me for an Incendiary then?
Q. Yes, indeed, I do; for there are other People call'd Incendiaries, besides those that burn Houses, and I think the Crimes bear a strong Analogy. A. How can you make that out?
Q. Why Revenge, 'tis apparent, is the grand Apparatus of both;
Want of Money is the Spring which moves them both; and if you attack by Slander, and they by Fire, Gon and the Gallows has only prevented it, or else the Method had been the same in both. A.
What d'ye mean by that?
Q. Mean! my Meaning is direct, not equivocal like yours:
Providence has been the Safety of the Innocent, and the Gallows has been the Terror of the Guilty. A. You are raving sure, pray what have I done to you?
Q. Nay nothing, Mr. Prichard, nothing at all, nor to any body else; only shew'd your Teeth, shew'd us what you would have done, had it not been for the Gallows. A. Why the Gallows, pray?
Q. Because you are something of a Coward, it seems, and afraid of being hang'd; your Brethren of Bristol had more Courage by half than you. A. I never intended to burn any body's House.
Q. I don't think you did. A. Why do you talk thus then?
Q. Because I tell you, I can never believe that he who, to extort Money unjustly and where none is due, will attack innocent Men, endeavour to blast them with Slander and Calumny, and in mere Revenge perjure himself to fasten the Dirt of his Reproaches upon them, would ever stick at robbing, ay or burning their Houses to bring it to pass, if it was not for mere Cowardice and Fear of the Gallows; and now I think I have explained myself. A. Explain'd your self in what?
Q. Why; in stating the Affinity between the Bristol Men and you, and saying you were Brethren? A. Very well; and is there no Difference between us then?
Q. Yes, yes; there's a great deal of Difference between you too.
A. It's well you'll allow me that.
Q. Nay, nay, don't boast of it; there's none in the Crime, tho' there's some in the Manner. A. None in the Crime! monstrous!
Why I don't burnt Houses, nor sent Letters to threaten any of the Free Masons, have I?
Q. Perhaps not; I tell you, Fear of the Gallows has prevented that, but no Thanks to your Intention, which, like theirs, was Revenge; a Crime in its very Nature, and fruitful of all the other Crimes we talk of, as the Boldness and Spirit of the Criminal guides it, so that (as I said) there is no Difference in the Principle at all. A. Well, where is the Difference then? For you own we differ.

Q. Why the Difference is plain. They have done all the Mischief they threaten'd, and you have been able to do no Mischief at all. They have shewn their Villany in Fire, and you only in Smoke. They have hurt the Man they pointed at, you have only grinned and shew'd your Teeth, and been able to hurt no body. A. Well then, you say I have done no Hurt.

Q. No, none at all, Mr. Prichard, none at all; that is to say, not to a Free Mason. A. What then do you exclaim against? what do you make such a Noise for?

Q. Your wicked Design has not been the Loss, and you have done hurt too. A. But what is my Design to you?

Q. Yes, yes, as I said before, if a Man attempt to robb my House, but can't get in, or to fire my House, but can't fasten his Comustibles, he does me wrong, tho' he does me no hurt, he injures me and assaults me, tho' he can't do the Mischief he would do. A. Well, well, if I have been disappointed, as you pretend, I may let you know you are not invulnerable.

Q. I believe we are, as to any Thing you can do, and I am sure we are, as to all you have done yet; so as the Free-Mason told you before, you may do your worst.

THE CONCLUSION

Thus the Free-Mason, and Mr. Prichard parted; and indeed he had so little to say, that it was not worth while to talk any more with him. They had indeed some other Disputes about the ancient Masons in the first Ages of the World; but this poor Fellow was so ignorant, so unread, and so unteachable, which was worse in matter of History and Antiquity, that it was to no purpose to go back to former Times with him, or to say any thing of what had been.

The Free Mason ask'd him how many free Masons were employ'd in the building of Solomon's Temple, but he knew nothing of it. Then he ask'd him how many Master Masons there were employ'd; and he answer'd, none but old Hiram, mentioned above, who, as is observ'd, was a Brasier or Founder, and no Mason at all: Upon this he shewed him one of Sr. Walter Raleigh's History of the World, that there were 80000 Masons and 30000 Carpenters and Joyners employed in that Work, and and 35000 Master Masons or Directors to oversee and direct the Work and asked him if he thought the Antiquity of Free Masonry was not sufficiently defended by the learned Author. To all this the ignorant Creature had nothing to say, but to complain that he was not informed of all these Things when lie was admitted, to which it was answered, That if he had continued an Honest Free-Mason, these Things, and all the other Arcana of the Society, which has been communicated and committed to him, but that he lost all that by turning R. too soon; and upon this he went swearing away and vowing farther R. revenge, but utterly unable to do the Free-Masons the least hurt.

The Perjur'd Free Mason' Detected 209

FINIS.
A DEFENCE OF MASONRY, 1730-1

This anonymous 4to pamphlet, 10 1/4" x 8", is a reply to Prichard's Masonry Dissected. It was advertised for sale in the Daily Post on 15 December 1730 as "This day is publish'd", but bears the date 1731 on its title page (see reproduction in A.Q.C., xxvi, following p. 240, and in Misc. Lat., i, 45). Until 1913, when a Copy was secured for Grand Lodge Library, this work was known only from reprints which appeared in Anderson's Constitutions of 1738 (where it is stated to have been published in 1730) and in the second edition of Smith's Pocket Companion for Free-Masons, 1738. Anderson's reprint omits the original Latin quotations and gives the English translations only; Smith's reprint gives both. h was attributed by Oliver to Anderson, and by Gould first, tentatively, to Dr. Wm. Warburton, Bishop of Gloucester, and later, more definitely, to Martin Clare, who undoubtedly prepared a reply to Prichard, the reading of "Bro. Clare's Discourse Concerning Prichard" being referred to in the minutes of Lodge No. 73, Lincoln, on 2 October 1733. Wonnacott has discussed the evidence in A.Q.C., xxviii, 80-86, and shown that the identification of the Discourse 'with A Defence of Masonry is very doubtful. Cf. our introductory note to The Perjur'd Free Mason Detected, p. 187 above. It is reproduced from Smith in Q.C.A., i; and from Anderson in Q.C.A., vii. Our reprint is from the photo-lithographic reproduction in Leics. Reprints, i.

A DEFENCE OF MASONRY, Occasion'd by a Pamphlet called Masonry Dissected.

CHAP. I.

AMONG the extraordinary Discoveries of the present Age, nothing has been received with more Delight and Exultation, than a few Sheets, written, it seems, without Partiality, called MASONRY DISSECTED. The Grand Secret that has long withheld the Batteries of Temptation, that neither Money, the Master-key of the Heart, nor Good Liguor, that 1 So in Smith: read tacendias in original pamphlet.

2 Does not appear in Smith's reprint; we interpolate from the title page of the original pamphlet, as reproduced in A.Q.C., xxvi.

unlocks the very Soul, nor Hunger, that breaks thro' Stone-walls, nor Thirst, a sore Evil to a Working-Mason, could being to Light; has at last been disgorg'd upon Oath, to the great Easeament of a tender Stomach, the eternal Scandal of the Fraternity, and the Good of the Publick, never to be forgotten! The Design was no less than to burden a loaded Conscience, to acquaint the World, That never did so ridiculous an Imposition appear among Mankind; and to prevent so many innocent Persons being drawn into so pernicious a Society!

What could induce the Dissector to take that Oath, or the Magistrate to admit it, shall not at this time be decided.

However, I must give the World Joy of so notable a Discovery, so honourable, so circumstantiated! A mighty Expectation was raised, and without doubt is wonderfully gratified by this Course of Anatomy. It must be this; it can be nothing else. It is, as we always supposed, a whimsical Cheat supported by great Names to seduce Pools; who, once gulled out of their Money, keep the Fraud secret, to draw in others!

I confess I cannot come into this Method of Arguing; nor is it, in my Opinion, a fair Way of treating a Society, to run implicitly with the Cry, without examining whether these Reproaches are founded upon any thing in the Mystery (as now represented) either wicked, or ridiculous. For that stupid Imputation of drawing in Pools, for the sake of their Money, can have no weight in the present Case, since the Fraternity, as it now stands, consists principally of Members of great Honour and Distinction, much superior to Views so sordid and ungenerous.

For once then, let this Dissection contain all the Secrets of Free-Masonry: admit that every Word of it is genuine and literally true, and that the whole Scheme consists of no more nor no less: yet under all these Concessions, under all the Disadvantages and Prejudices whatever, I cannot but still believe, there have been Impositions upon Mankind more ridiculous; and that many have been drawn into a Society more pernicious. I would not be thought agitated upon this Occasion, as if I were any way concerned whether this Dissection be true or false; or, whether the Credit of Free-Masonry be affected by it, or not: These Considerations can give me no trouble. My Design is to address to the sensible and serious Part of Mankind, by making a few impartial Remarks upon this Dissection, without contending for the Reputation of Masonry on the one hand, or reflecting upon the Dissector on the other.
THE formidable Objection, which has given Offence to the better part of Men, is the Copy of the Oath, as it lies in the Dissection. It has been a Matter of Admiration, that so many Persons of great Piety, strict Conscience, and unspol’d Character, should lay themselves under so solemn an Obligation, under Penalties so terrible and astonishing, upon a Subject so very trilling and insignificant.

To obviate this Objection, I observe ; That the End, the Moral, and Purport of Masonry, as it is described in the Dissection, seems not so idle, and of that very small Importance as may at first be imagined. The real Design of Masonry, as confessed by the Dissector, is to subdue our Passions, not to do our own Will; to make a daily progress in a laudable Art; to promote Morality, Charity, Good-fellowship, Good-nature and Humanity. This appears to be the Substance, let the Form or Vehicle be ever so unaccountable. As for the Terms relating to Architecture, Geometry, and Mathematicks, that are dispersed throughout the Dissection; it would be strange if a Society of such a Denomination could subsist wholly without them, though they seem (to me at least) to be rather Technical and Formal (yet delivered, perhaps, by long Tradition) than essentially attach’d to the grand Design. Now where is the Impiety, where the Immorality, or Folly for a number of Men to Traditions) than essentially attach’d to the grand Design. Now where is the least to be rather Technical and Formal (yet delivered, perhaps, by long Tradition) than essentially attach’d to the grand Design. Now where is the least to be rather Technical and Formal (yet delivered, perhaps, by long Tradition) than essentially attach’d to the grand Design. Now where is the least to be rather Technical and Formal (yet delivered, perhaps, by long Tradition) than essentially attach’d to the grand Design. Now where is the least to be rather Technical and Formal (yet delivered, perhaps, by long Tradition) than essentially attach’d to the grand Design. Now where is the least to be rather Technical and Formal (yet delivered, perhaps, by long Tradition) than essentially attach’d to the grand Design.

So determined, but every Man, pro hic & nunc, may at his Choice do or not do, as he sees expedient. Let him do what he will, he sinneth not, Cor. 7. 36. As if Caius should swear to sell his Land to Titius, or to lend him an hundred Crowns: The Answer is brief, an Oath in this Case is both lawful and binding.

Now, I would know what Precept, Divine or Human, has any way determined upon the Contents of the Dissection; and whether the general Design of Masonry, as there laid down, is not at least of equal Benefit and Importance to the Publick, with the lending of a private Man a hundred Crowns? The Answers to these Questions are obvious, and the Consequence is equally plain, that an Oath upon the Subject of Masonry is at least justifiable and lawful.

As for the Terror of the Penalty, the World upon that Occasion is commonly mistaken; for the Solemnity of the Oath does not in the least add to the Obligation; or, in other Words, the Oath is equally binding without any Penalty at all. The same Casuist has this Expres-

---

* De Obligatione Juramenti, Praelectio 3, Sect. 15.
sion; * Non magis obligat solenne Juramentum ex se naturâ suâ, quam simplex, quia obligatio Juramenti exurgit precise ex eo quod Deus Testis & Vindex invocatur. Invocatur autem Deus Testis & Vindex non m inus in simplici Juramento quam in so lenni & corpore, nam illa invocatio fît precisi per prol actionem verborum quoe eadem est in simplici & solenni, & non per aliquem motum corporalem aut signum concomitans, in quibus consi stit Juramenti solemnitas.

A solemn Oath of itself, and in its own Nature, is not more obligatory than a simple one; because the Obligation of an Oath ariseth precisely from this, that God is invoked as a Witness and Revenger no less in a simple Oath than in the solemn and corporal (for the Invocation is made precisely by the Pronunciation of the Words, which is the same both in the simple and solemn, and not by any corporal Motion, or concomitant Sign, in which the Solemnity of the Oath consists.

I write to intelligent Readers, and therefore this Citation wants not to be explained.

BUT further: If the Oath in the Dissection be taken by all Masons upon their Admission, no Member of the Fraternity upon any Pretence whatsoever dares violate the Obligation of it, without incurring the Guilt of Perjury; supposing that Masonry were more trifling and indifferent, than in the Dissection it may appear to be. And therefore if the Conduct of the Dissector has stagger'd the Conscience of any one of the Brotherhood, concerning the Observation of that Oath, and has induced him to trifle and play with the Force of it, I hope he will desist betimes, lest he becomes actually forsworn. This Case is thus determined; † Juramentum ultra proestitum vel maximè obligat cum nullum vinculum arctius obliget quam quod spontè susceptum est.

A voluntary Oath is the more binding for being voluntary, because there is no straighter Obligation than that which we take willingly upon ourselves.

AND in another place the Casuist is more particular: ‡ Cum ses aut ob sui levitatem indigna est viri prudente deliberatione, nec cassa nuce interest fecerit an non fecerit, ut levare festucam de terrâ, fricare barbam, &c. aut ob parvitatem materice non est multum cestimabilis, ut dore pomum puera, acci lum commodore, &c. obligare Juramentum in re ev el l eximissi mo menti constat, quia in re gravi & levi eadem est veritatis & falsitatis ratio; & quia omnis jurons tenetur facere totum quod promisit, quatenus potest & licet; sed dore puera pomum & possibile est & licitum, ergo tenetur proestare, ubi uratum est debet impleri.

Where a Matter is so trivial, that it is not worth the Deliberation of a wise Man, nor matters a Straw whether it be done or not done, as to reach up a Chip, or to rub one's Beard, or for the slightness of the Matter is not much to be esteemed, as to give a Boy an Apple, or to lend a Pin, an Oath is binding in a Matter of the least Moment, because weighty and trivial things have a like respect unto Truth and Falshood; and further, because every Party swearing is bound to perform ail he promised, as far as he is able and it is lawful: But to give an Apple to a Boy is bath possible and lawful; he is bound therefore to perform it, he ought to fulfil his Oath.

CHAP. III.

HAVING taken off the Weight of the great Objection, the Design of this Chapter is to remove an Imputation, which has been often urged with great Confidence, that the Principles and the whole Frame of Free-Masonry is so very weak and ridiculous, that it reflects upon Men of the least Understanding to be concerned in it. And now, say the merry Gentlemen, it appears evidently to be so by the Dissection, which covers nothing but an unintelligible Heap of Stuff and Jargon, without common Sense or Connection.

I confess I am of another Opinion; though the Scheme of Masonry, as revealed by the Dissector, seems liable to Exceptions; nor is it so clear to me as to be fully understood at first View; by attending only to the literal Construction of the Words: And, for aught I know, the System, as taught in the Regular Lodges, may have some Redundancies or Defects, occasioned by the Indolence or Ignorance of the old Members. And indeed, considering through what Obscurity and Darkness the Mystery has been delivered down; the many Centuries it has survived; the many Countries, and Languages, and Sects, and Parties it has run thro', we are radier to wonder it ever arrived to the present Age without more Imperfections. In short I am apt to think that Masonry, as it is now explained, has in some Circumstances declined from its original Purity: It has run long in muddy Streams, and as it were, under Ground; but notwithstanding the great Rust it may have contracted, and the forbidding Light it is placed in by the Dissector, there is (if I judge right) much of the old Fabrick still remaining; the Foundation is still intire, the essentiel Pillars of the Building may be discovered through the Rubbish.
though the Superstructure may be overrun with Moss and Ivy, and the Stones by Length of Time disjointed. And therefore, as the Busto of an old Hero is of great value among the Curious, though it has lost an Eye, the Nose, or the Right-hand, so Masonry with all its Blemishes and Misfortunes, instead of appearing ridiculous, ought (in my humble Opinion) to be received with some Candour and Esteem from a Veneration to its Antiquity.

I was exceedingly pleased to find the Dissector laid the original Scene of Masonry in the East, a Country always famous for symbolical Learning supported by Secrecy; I could not avoid immediately thinking of the old Egyptians, who concealed the chief Mysteries of their Religion under Signs and Symbols, called Hieroglyphicks. And so great was their Regard for Silence and Secrecy, that they had a Deity called Harpocrates, whom they respected with peculiar Honour and Veneration. A learned Author has given a Description of this Idol; Harpocrates silentium Deus effingebatur, Dextrâ prope cor admetâ pelle anteriùs indutus, quae oc ulis arque auribus pluribus erat divinitus, sed loquendurn parum. Harpocrates, the God of Silence, was formed with his Right-hand placed near the Heart, cover'd with a Skin before, full of Eyes and Ears, to signify by this, that many things are to be seen and heard, but little to be spoken. And among the same People, their great Goddess Isis (the same as Minerva the Goddess of Strength and Wisdom among the Greeks) had always the Image of a Sphinx placed in the Entrance of her Temples, quia Arcana sub sacris Integumentis tegi de bent, ut a pr omiscue vulgo non secus a rque A E nigmata a Sphinx pr oposita ignorentur: That their Secrets should be preserved under sacred Coverings, that they might be kept from the Knowledge of the Vulgar as much as the Riddles of Sphinx.

Pythagoras by travelling into Egypt became instructed in the Mysteries of that Nation, and here he laid the Foundation of all his symbolical Learning. The several Writers that have mentioned this Philosopher, and given an Account of his Sect and Institutions, have convinced me fully, that Free-Masonry, as published by the Dissector, is very nearly allied to the old Pythagorean Discipline; from whence I am persuaded it may in some Circumstances very justly dain its Descent. To mention a few.

* imagines Deorurn qui ab antiquis celebantur, à Vincentio Chartario.

UPON the Admission of a Disciple, he was bound by, a solemn Oath to conceal the Mysteries from the Vulgar and Un-initiated.

THE principal and most efficacious of their Doctrines were (says Jamblichus) ever kept secret among themselves; they were continued unwritten, and preserved only by Memory to their Successors, to whom they delivered them as Mysteries of the Gods.

THEY conversed with one another by Signs, and they had particular Words which they received upon their Admission, and which were preserved with great Reverence as the Distinction of their Sect: For (it is the judicious Remark of Laertius) as Generals use Watch-Words to distinguish their own Soldiers from others, so it is proper to communicate to the Initiated peculiar Signs and Words as distinctive Marks of a Society.

THE Pythagoreans professed a great Regard for what the Dissector calls the four Principles of Masonry, a Point, a Line, a Superficies, and a Solid; and particularly held that a Square was a very proper Emblem of the Divine Essence. The Gods, they say, who are the Authors of every thing established in Wisdom, St rength, and Beauty, are not improperly represented by the Figure of a Square.

MANY more Instances might be produced, would the Limits of my Design admit; I shall only observe, that there was a false Brother, one Hipparchus, of this Sect, who, out of Spleen and Disappointment, broke through the Bond of his Oath, and committed the Secrets of the Society to Writing, in order to bring the Doctrine into contempt. He was immediately expelled the School as a Person most infamous and abandoned, as one dead to all Sense of Virtue and Goodness; and the Pythagoreans, according to their Custom, made a Tomb for him as if he had been actually dead. The Shame and Disgrace that justly attended this Violation of his Oath threw the poor Wretch into a Fit of Madness and Despair, so that he cut his Throat, and perished by his own Hands; and (which surprized me to find) his Memory was so abhorred after Death, that his Body lay upon the Shore of the Island of Samos, and had no other Burial than in the Sands of the Sea.

THE Essenes among the Jews were a sort of Pythagoreans, and corresponded in many Particulars with the Practice of the Fraternity, as deliver'd in the Dissection. For Example: When a Person desired to be admitted into their Society, he was to pass through two Degrees.

A Defence of Masonry

of Probation before he could be perfect Master of their Mysteries. When he was received into the Class of Novices, he was presented with a white Garment; and when he had been long enough to give some competent proofs of his Secrecy and Virtue, he was admitted to further Knowledge; but he still went on with the Trial of his Integrity and Good Manners, and then was fully taken into the Society. But before he was receive'd as an establish'd Member, he was first to bind himself by solemn Obligations and Professions, to do no Wrong, to keep Faith with all Men, to embrace the Truth, to keep his Rands clear from Theft and fraudulent Dealing, not to conceal any of them to the Profane, though it should be to save his Life; to deliver nothing but what he received, and endeavour to preserve the Principle that he professes. They eat and drink at the same common Table, and the Fraternity that corne from any other Place are sure to be received there; they meet together in an Assembly, the Right-hand is laid upon the Part between the Chin and the Breast, and the Left-hand let down straight by their Side.

† THE Cabalists, another Sect, dealt in hidden and mysterious Ceremonies. The Jews had a great Regard for this Science, and thought they made uncommon Discoveries by means of it. They divided their Knowledge into Speculative and Operative. David and Solomon, they say, were exquisitely skilled in it, and no body at first presumed to commit it to Writing; but, what seems most to the present Purpose, the Perfection of their Skill consisted in what the Dissector calls Lettering of it, or by ordering the Letters of a Word in a particular manner.

‡ THE last Instance I shall mention, is that of the Druids in our own Nation. They were the only Priests among the ancient Britons. In their Solemnities they were clothed in White, and their Ceremonies always ended with a good Feast. Pomponius Mela relates of them, that their Science was only an Effort of Memory, for they wrote down nothing, and they never fail'd to repeat many Verses which they received by Tradition. Caesar observes, that they had a Head, who had sovereign Power: This President exercised a sort of Excommunication, attended with dreadful Penalties upon such as either divulged or profaned their Mysteries.

‡ Sanm's History of Britain, B. r. Chap. 4. Caesar's Comment. lib. 6.

A Defence of Masonry 219

LET the sensible Reader (if he pleases) peruse the Dissection with Care, and compare it (with reasonable Allowance for Distance of Time, Place, and other intermediate Accidents) with the Particulars of the preceding Collections, and if he does not discover something at least like Masonry (if the Dissection contains any such thing) I think he Must be exceedingly blind or prejudiced.

CHAP. IV.

WHATEVER Reflections may attend the few Remarks that follow in this Chapter, arising either from an Overflow of Wit or III-nature, I shall be unconcerned, and leave them wholly to the Mercy of the serious Reader; only desiring him to remember, that no more ought in any Case to be expected, than what the Nature of it will reasonably admit: I own freely, I received a great Pleasure in collecting, and was frequently surprized at the Discoveries that must evidently occur to an observing Eye. The Conformity between the Rites and Principles of Masonry (if the Dissection be true) to the many Customs and Ceremonies of the Ancients, must give Delight to a Person of any Taste and Curiosity, to find any Remains of Antique Usage and Learning preserved by a Society for many Ages, without Books or Writing, by oral Tradition only.

I. THE Number Three is frequently mentioned in the Dissection, and I fend that the Ancients, both Greeks and Latins, professed a great Veneration for the same Number. Theocritus * introduces Person who dealt in Secret Arts:

'Ες τρις αποευδω και τρις ταδε σωτια φαυς, Thrice, thrice I pour, and thrice repeat my Charms.

† Verbaque ter dixit.

Thrice he repeats the Words.

‡ Necte tribus Nodis ternos, Amarylli, colores.

Three Colours in three Knots unite.

WHETHER this Fancy owes its Original to the Number Three, because containing a Beginning, Middle, and End, it seems to signify Remark I. Masonry Dissected, p. 10.

* Idyll. 6. [The verse, Idyll 43, should read : {image/} † Ovid. Metam. lib. 7.
‡ Virgil. Ecl. 8.
all Things in the World; or whether to the Esteem the Pythagoreans and other Philosophers had for it on account of their Triad or Trinity; or lastly, (to mention no more Opinions) to its Aptness to signify the Power of all the Gods, who were divided into three Classes, Celestial, Terrestrial, and Infernal; I shall leave to be determined by others. The Gods, as * Virgil asserts, had a particular Esteem for this Number.

Nuerno Deus impare gaudet.
Unequal Numbers please the Gods.

We find Three Fatal Sisters, Three Furies, Three Names and Appearances of Diana: †Tria Virginis ora Dianoe.

Three different Forms does chaste Diana bear.

The Sons of Saturn, among whom the Empire of the World was divided, were Three; and for the same Reason we read of Jupiter's Fulmen trifidum, or Three-forked Thunderbolt, Neptune's Trident, with several other Tokens of the Veneration they bore to this particular Number.

II. A particular Ceremony belonging to the Oath, as declared by the Dissector, bears a near Relation to a Form of Swearing mentioned by a † learned Author; the Person, who took the Oath, was to be upon his tiare Knees with a naked Sword pointed to his Throat, invoking the Sun, Moon, and Stars to be Witnesses to the Truth of what he swore.

III. A Part of the Mason's Catechism in this Page lies given Occasion to a great deal of idle Mirth and Ridicule, as the most trifling and despiseful sort of Jargon, that Men of common Sense ever, submitted to. The Bone-Box, and the Tow-Line has given wonderful Diversion. I think there are some Verses in the last Chapter of the Book of Ecclesiastes which in some manner resemble this Form of Expression. I shall transcribe them, with the Opinion of the Learned upon them, without making any particular Application.

§ In the Day when the Keepers of the House shall tremble, and the Grinders cease because they are few, and those that look out at the Windows be darkned; and the Doors shall be shut in the Streets when the Sound of the Grinding is low; and he shall rise up at the Voice of the Bird, and all the Daughters of Musick shall be brought low. Or ever the Silver Cord be loosed, or the Golden Bowl be broken, or the Pitcher be broken at the Fountain, or the Wheel broken at the Cistern.

* The Expositors upon these Verses are almost unanimous in their Opinion, that they ought to be thus Explained. The Keepers of the House are the Shoulders, Arms, and Hands of a Human Body; the Grinders are the Teeth; those that look out at the Windows are the two Eyes; the Doors are the Lips, the Streets are the Mouth, the Sound of the Grinding is the Noise of the Voice, the Voice of the Bird is the Crowing of the Cock; the Daughters of Musick are the two Ears; the Silver Cord is the String of the Tongue; the Golden Bowl is the Pia Mater; the Pitcher at the Fountain is the Heart, the Fountain of Life; the Wheel is the great Artery, and the Cistern is the left Ventricle of the Heart.

IV. There could not possibly have been devised a more significant Token of Love, Friendship, Integrity, and Honesty, than the joining of the Right-Hands, a Ceremony made use of by all Civilized Nations as a Token of a faithful and true Heart. Fides, or Fidelity was a Deity among the Ancients, of which a learned Writer has given this Description: Fidei propria sedes in dexterâ manu credebatur, id est interdum duabus junctis manibus jungebatur, interdum duabus magunculis dexteram dexterâ jungentibus, quamobrem apud veteres dextera tangan res sacra credebatur. The proper Residence of Faith, or Fidelity, was thought to be in the Right-Hand; and therefore this Deity was sometimes represented by two Right-Hands joined together; sometimes by two little Images shaking each the other's Right-Hand; so that the Right-Hand was by the Ancients esteemed at a thing sacred. And agreeable to this are those Expressions in Virgil: En Dextra Fidesque!

as if shaking by the Right-Hand was an inseparable Token of an honest Heart.

§ —Cur dextra jungere Dextram

Non datur, & veras audire & reddere votes?

|| In all Compacts and Agreements (says Bishop Potter, in his Antiquities of Greece) it was usual to take each other by the Right-Hand, that being the manner of plighting Faith; and this was done either

* Bp. Patrick, Dr. Smith, Forsterus, Melancthon, &c. in Eccl.
IV. Masonry Dissected. p. 18.
† Chartarius in lib. ut supra.
§ Aeneid. 1
|| Vol. I. p. 251. last Ed.
out of Respect to the Number of Ten, as some say, there being ten Fingers on the two Hands; or because such a Conjunction was a Token of Amity and Concord, whence at all Friendly Meetings they joined Hands as a Sign of the Union of their Souls.

It was one of the Cautions of Pythagoras to his Disciples, Take heed to whom you offer your Right-Hand; which is thus explained by Jamblichus: * Take no one by the Right-Hand but the Initiated, that is, in the Mystical Form; for the Vulgar and the Profane are altogether unworthy of the Mystery.

V. THE Dissector frequently taking notice of the Number Seven, I instantly recurred to the old Egyptians, who held the Number of Seven to be Sacred; more especially they believed that whilst their Feast of Seven Days lasted, the Crocodiles lest their inbred Cruelty; and Leo Afer, in his Description of Africa, says that even in his Time the Custom of Feasting so many Days and Nights was still used for the happy Overflowing of the Nile. The Greeks and Latins professed the same Regard for that Number, which might be proved by many Examples.

VI. THE Accident, by which the Body of Master Hiram was found after his Death, seems to allude in some Circumstances to a beautiful Passage in the sixth Book of Virgil. Anchises had been dead for some Time, and Aeneas his Son professed so much Duty to his departed Father, that he consulted with the Cumoenæ Sybil, whether it were possible for him to descend into the Shades below, in order to speak with him. The Prophetess encouraged him to go, but told him he could not succeed unless he went into a certain Place and pluck'd a golden Bough or Shrub, which he should carry in his Hand, and by that means obtain Directions where he should find his Father.

THESE are the Words

---§---

Sed non ante dater telluris operta subire,
Auricomos quam quis decerpserit arbore foetus.
Hoc fibi pulchra suum ferri Proserpina munus
Instituit. Primo avulso, non deficit alter Aureus, & similis frondescit virga metallo.

_____ ipsa volens facilisque sequetur.

In the neighbouring Grove

There stands a Tree, the Queen of Stygian Jove
Claims it her own; thick Woods and gloomy Night Conceal the happy Plant from mortal Sight.

One Bough it bears, but wond'rous to behold,
The ductile Rind and Leaves of radiant Gold;
This from the vulgar Branches must be tom,
And to fair Proserpine the Present born,
E're Leave be given to tempt the' nether Skies;
The first thus rent, a second will arise,
And the same Metal the same Room supplies.
The willing Metal will obey thy Hand,
Following with Ease.

---§---

Dryden.

Anchises, the great Preserver of the Trojan Name, could not have been discovered but by the help of a Bough which was pluck'd from the Tree; nor it seems could Hiram, the Grand-Master of Masonry, have been found but by the Direction of a Shrub, which (says the Dissector) came easily up. The principal Cause of Aeneas's Descent into the Shades was to enquire of his Father the Secrets of the Fates, which should some Rime be fulfil'd among his Posteriority: The Occasion of the Brethren's searching so diligently for their Master was, it seems, to receive from him the secret Word of Masonry, which should be deliver'd down as a Test to their Fraternity to After-Ages. This remarkable Verse follows

Proeterea jacet exanimum tibi corpus amict, Heu nescis!
The Body of your Friend lies near you dead, Alas, you know not how I

This Person was Misenus that was murdered and buried Monte sub aero, under a high Hill, as (says the Dissector) Master Hiram was.
BUT there is another Story in Virgil, that stands in a nearer Relation to the Case of Hiram, and the Accident by which he is said to have been discovered; which is this: Priamus King of Troy, in the Beginning of the Trojan War, committed his Son Polydorus to the Care of Polynestor King of Thrace, and sent with him a great Sum of Money; but after Troy was taken, the Thracian, for the sake of the Money, killed the young Prince, and privately buried him. Aeneas coming into that Country, and accidentally plucking up a Shrub that was near him on the Side of a Hill, discovered the murdered Body of Polydorus.

* Forte fuit juxta tumulus quo cornea summo Virgulta, & densis hastilibus horrida Myrtus Accessi, viridemque ab humo convellere sylvam Conatus, ramis tegerem ut frondentibus aras; Horrendum, & dicta video mirabile monstrum.1 Eloquar an sileam ? gemitus lacrymabilis Imo Auditur tumulo, & vox reddit a furt ad autres : 2 Quid miserum, AEnea, laceras ? jam parce sepulto. Not far a rising Hillock stood in View, Sharp Myrtles on the Sides and Cornets grew, There while I went to trop the sylvan Scenes, And shade our Altar with the leafy Greens, I pull’d a Plant, with Horror I relate A Prodigy so strange and full of Fate. Scarce dare I tell the Sequel; from the Womb Of wounded Earth, and Caverns of the Tomb, A Groan as of a troubled Ghost renew’d My Fright, and then these dreadful Wounds ensu’d, Why dost thou thus my bury’d Body rend ? 0 spare the Corps of thy unhappy Friend.

DRYDEN.

The Agreement between these two Relations is so exact, that there wants no further Illustration.

VII. WE are told that a Sprig of Cassia was placed by the Brethren at the Head of Hiram’s Grave, which refers to an old Custom in those

* Aeneid. lib. 3.
† Metamor. lib. 15.
VII Mason. Diss. p. 28.

1 Aeneid III ll. 27-38 omitted in the original.
2 So in original: read aures.
POSSIBLE REJOINDERS

THE SISTERHOOD OF FREE SEMPSTRESSES, 1724

This mock parallel between the Brotherhood of Freemasons and the Sisterhood of Free Sempstresses was published in the form of an anonymous letter in Read's Weekly Journal, 25 January 1723/4. Very possibly it was occasioned by the appearance of the catechism, The Grand Mystery of Free—Mosans Discover'd, which was advertised for sale on 20 January 1723/4, though in our opinion (see Introduction, p. 14 above) it can hardly be regarded as a rejoinder; it is rather a skit on freemasonry and women. To our knowledge, it has never been reprinted. Our reprint is from a copy of Read's Weekly Journal in the British Museum.

SIR, There has been a mighty Pother, of late, concerning an ancient Fraternity of Men, who stile themselves Free Masons; and the World is in Dispute what is the Cement that binds them so fast and true to one another, and what are the grand Secrets they pretend to keep in their Possession, exclusive of the rest of Mankind.

I wonder no Body has hitherto taken some Notice of a certain notable Sisterhood, as famous throughout all Ages, and whose ways are as much past finding out; I mean that of Free Sempstresses.

If I may have the Liberty of reserving to myself the meaning of the Words, and they may not be wrested by every Wag to what Sense he pleases, I will here undertake to give you a short Account of that powerful and numerous Society, which I think may as properly be called by the Name of Legion Sisterhood Sempstring was not, when Grandame Eve first invented the Needle to sew Fig Leaves together, to bide her own and her Husband's Nakedness. In process of Time, her She Descendants by the Sempstring Art made that which was only design'd as a covering from Nudity to become a real Ornament. Then, not only the Needle, but the Pin, the Bodkin, the Wire, the Thimble, and many other Implements were used, whereby great Gain as well as Reputation, was acquired by the thrifty and industrious Sisterhood. But as, in all lawful Callings and Professions, there are some so greedy and rapacious among the Craft, that they will join Earth and Heaven to satisfy their vicious and voracious Appetite, it fared so with this honest and reputable Corporation of Sempstresses. Not content with getting a handsome Livelihood by their skill in Needlework, some amongst them were for adding a new Branch to their Trade, a certain Occupation to turn a Penny, which gave great Umbrage to such who detested all destructive Practices, th'o' they might bring some present Profit and Emolument to such as used them. Hereupon Jars and Disputes arose, which ended at length in dividing the Sisterhood; and those who were for the new occupation, and joining it to the Sempstress Art, from that time separated themselves, and ever since went by the Denomination of the Free Sempstresses.

Their Antiquity. The Sisterhood of Free Sempstresses make this Schism to be of very ancient Date, and say that Dalilah was one of the first who gave a Reputation to their Society then in its Infancy. As they brag they have always kept up a fair correspondeunce with the Free Ma sons, their Traditions relate many pleasant Renconters between this same Dalilah and Sampson, who was accounted Grand Master of that Fraternity; and they boast that in those Days the new occupation was in its Achievement, or highest Pitch of Glory.

Their Worthies. They preserve a whole Bead-roll of their Worthies, as they call them, Susannah they will have to be of that Number, and they make her the Author of a certain Apothegm, which being received as a first Principle by the Sisterhood, has since passed into a common Proverb, viz. Like to Like. They have their stories of the Amazons, Sappho, Lais, Pope Joan, Queen Christina, all accepted Free Sempstresses; and they avow, that a great Number of the cloister'd Nuns abroad are secretly admitted into their Sisterhood.

Their Religion. As for their Religion, they are at present to a Woman good Catholicks, and highly esteem the See of Rome, because that Religion leaves people in a State of Nature; because one of their Sisterhood had once the honour to fill the Papal Chair, and because his Holiness protects and encourages their Profession. They say they are well spoken of by the whole College of Cardinals; and that bothe the Regular and Secular Clergy receive their Confessions, and distribute plenary Indulgences gratis, and that for the sake of their Ingenuity and Tractability.

Their Politicks. In Politicks they run entirely into the Doctrine of Passive Obedience and Non Resistance tho' they hate and abominate the very Name, as well as the person of a Pretender.

Their Learning. They may well deserve to be call'd Philo-Math, being great Lovers of, as well as Well-wishers to, the Mathematicks. They are chiefly vers’d in Tacticks. Even Phidias could not out-do many of the Sisterhood in Imagery, for they work to the Life. They have a profound attachment to the Free Masons, and all such as labour in Stones; and some amongst them make their Brags, that let the Fraternity of Free Masons erect never so many Edifices, the Sisterhood of Sempstresses shall undertake to Stock and People them.
The Sisterhood of Free Sempstresses

Their Tenets. They hold that each Sister is to keep only her own Secrets; that their Lodge is wherever 'tis found convenient; that meum and tuum is destructive to the Society of Free Sempstresses; that a Community of all Things is their primum mobile, in like manner as salus populi is the lex suprema in the State; that those who win Gold may wear it; that Women were made for Men; and lastly, that their dernier resort, their greatest Strength and Stress should be in their Tails.

Their Policy. As the Needle is long since become a most insignificant Tool to the Free Sempstress the Sisterhood have abundantly supply’d its place by their Ogles and Wheedles, and a thousand other Politick Inventions and Intrigues; so that they may be said to out-do even Farrar himself at Ways and Means.

Their Admission. They admit all into the Sisterhood who acknowledge the Prevalency of those two Words, which they hold to be a Cabala or Charm, Importunity and Opportunity.

Their Sports. They are Passionate Loyers of a Play call’d Laugh and lie down, which being a laborious Pastime, and attended with great Expence of Spirits, makes them generally a short-lived Race; and except here and there one, they are no sooner dead than rotten.

A LETTER FROM THE GRAND MISTRESS, 1724

The present text is reproduced from the photographic facsimile in Lepper and Crossle, History of the Grand Lodge of Ireland, 1, 449, itself reproduced from the only exemplar known: Tract 12, Box 171, Halliday Collection, Royal Irish Academy, Dublin. The editors state that a second edition was printed in Dublin in 1730. Although published anonymously, it was included in Faulkner’s Dublin editions of Swift’s Works, 1746 edn. Vol. XI, and 1762 edn. Vol. X, and in Hawkesworth’s edn., London, 1774, but has not since been included in any English or American edition of Swift. It was, however, included in a German edition, published in Hamburg, 1760 [Kloss, Bibliographie der Freimaurerei, noted by Chetwode Crawley].

John Harding printed in Dublin 1721-24. In the latter year he was prosecuted for the printing of Swift’s Drapier’s Letters, to which allusion is made in the postscript, and died in gaol. Harding was succeeded as a printer by his widow, Sarah, who printed from 1725-28. The edition of the Letter from the Grand Mistress, published in 1730, which we have not seen, must therefore have been printed by Faulkner, who printed in Dublin 1724-75. He printed much by Swift, and presumably thought that the Letter from the Grand Mistress was of Swift’s writing.

The Letter was first reprinted in modern times, from the 1762 version, by Henry Sadler, to whose volume of Masonic Reprints (1898) W. J. Chetwode Crawley contributed an introductory chapter. In this Chetwode Crawley argued for Swift’s authorship on grounds which are too slight for detailed mention. Bros. Lepper and Crossle accepted this view and tried to extend the claim for Swift’s authorship by suggesting that the ”Mr. John Swift” whose name appears in the 1730 list of members of the Lodge held at the Goat at the foot of the Haymarket [Q.C.A., x, 156] was Dr. Jonathan Swift, overlooking the fact that Swift had by then visited England for the last time, and was consequently not very likely to be a subscribing member of a London lodge. Neither Chetwode Crawley, nor Lepper and Crossle, discuss the problem of authorship from the point of view of style: the style of this pamphlet, loose and ill-phrased, is definitely not that of Swift, who was a master of prose. About one hundred anonymous pamphlets, poems, etc., have at one time or another been attributed to Swift, other than the works he is known to have written: the real authorship of some is known, but not that of A Letter from the Grand Mistress.

When Faulkner took over the printing of this pamphlet he altered the name of the printer to whom the Letters is supposed to be addressed from that of Harding to his own. The 1762 edition contains other minor alterations.

229
and some errors of copying. The final date, in reverse, given in the 1724 edition as Tsrif eht Lirpa Nilbud [Dublin April the First], was also altered to Tsrif eht Tsugua Nilbud [Dublin August the First], for no apparent reason, and, of course, obliterating the confession that this was but an April Fools' Day joke.

We think that the letter was just an eighteenth-century tease, and that, though in part an exposure it is in no way connected with, or a caricature of, The Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd, (London, 1724). The setting is Irish: the sad events one evening in the Lodge at Omagh, Ulster, when the brethren got so drunk that they could not proceed with their initiation ceremony, might appeal especially to Irish readers. We do not accept the tentative suggestion of Lepper and Crossle that the letter which they reprint on p. 450, published in Harding's Dublin Impartial News Letter, 25 July 1724, alludes to the present pamphlet. Whether the pamphlet on the Freemason's Oath, with the remarks upon it of a Young Clergyman, mentioned at the conclusion of the Letter, was ever published, we have not been able to discover. See Introduction, pp. 14-16 above.

A LETTER FROM THE GRAND MISTRESS OF THE FEMALE FREE-MASONS TO MR HARDING THE PRINTER,

Ixion the Impious, Lewd Profane,
Bright Juno Woo'd but Woo'd in Vain. Long had he sigh'd for th' Heavenly Dame,
Jove at length to quench his Flame ;
Some say for Fear, some say for Pity, Sent him a Cloud like Juno Pretty,
As like as if 'twere drawn by Painters, On which he got a Race of Centaurs. A Bite quoth VENUS

a. b. c. Lib. 6th.

Dublin : Printed by John Harding in Molesworth's-Court in Fishamble-Street, 1724.

A LETTER, &c.

Mr. Harding,

Seeing it is of Late become a Fashion in Town, in Writing to all the World, to Address to YOU, our Society of Female Free-Masons has also Chosen you for our Printer; and so without Preface, Art, or Embelishment, (for Truth and a short Paper needs none of 'em) our Female Lodge has the whole Mistery as well as any Lodge in Europe, with proper Instructions in Writing; and what will seem more strange to you, without the least Taint of Perjury. By this Time any Reader who is a Mason, will, I know, laugh, and not without Indignation. But that matters not much, our Sex has long ow'd yours this good Turn You refused to admit Queen Elizabeth, and even Semiramis Queen of Babylon, tho' each of 'em (without Punning) had a great Deal of Male Flesh upon their Bodies; but at last you will be forc'd to own we have it; and thus it was we came by it.

A Gentleman who is a great Friend to all our Members, who has since instructed and form'd us into a Lodge, and whom we therefore call our Guardian, fell in lately with a Lodge of Free-Masons at Oh in U—r. They press'd him hard to come into their Society, and at length prevailed. They wanted an Old Testament to Swear him by. The Inn-keeper's Bible having both Old and New bound up together, wou'd not do: For the Free-Masons Oath being of much older Date than the New Testament, that is from the Building of Soloman's Temple, (for till then it was but a Protestation well Larded over with Curses and Execrations) they are always Sworn on the Old Testament only. They offer to buy the Fellow's Bible, he Consents; but finding they were to Cut away the New Testament from the Old concluded them at once a Pack of Profane Wretches, and very Piously Rescud his Bible. This Custom of Swearing on the Old Testament only, is what has given Birth to the Vulgar Error, That Free-Masons Renounce the New Testament. So they proceed on the Rest of the Ceremony, Deferring the Oath till next Morning, One of 'em having an Old Testament for the Purpose at his House hard by. This 'tis true was a heinous Blunder against the Canons of Free-Masonry: But the Gentlemen were far gone in Punch and Whisky. In short our Friend and present Guardian is made a Free but Unsworn Mason, and was Three Hours gone on his Journey next Morning before the Merry Free-Masons awoke to send for their Old Testament; and what was worse, they had taught him the Form of the Oath against he was to Swear in the Morning.

Now as to the Secret Words and Signais used among Free-Masons, 'tis to be observ'd that in the Hebrew Alphabet (as our Guardian has inform'd our Lodge in Writing there are Four Pair of Letters, of which each Pair is so like, that at first View they seem to be the sanic, Beth and Caph, Gimel and Nun, Cheth and Thau, Daleth and Resch, and on these Depend all their Signals and Grips.
A Letter from the Grand Mistress

Cheth and Thau are shap'd like Two standing Gallowses (of Two Legs each) when Two Masons accost each other, one Cries Cheth, the other answers Thau, signifying that they wou'd sooner be Hang'd on the Gallows than Divulge the Secret.

Then again Beth and Caph are each like a Gallows lying on one of the Side-Posts, and when used as above, imply this Pious Prayer: May all who Reveal the Secret hang upon the Gallows till if fans down. This is their Master Secret, generally call'd the Great Word.

Daleth and Resch are like Two Half Gallowses, or a Gallows cut in Two at the Cross Stick on Top, by which, when pronounced, they Intimate to each other, that they wou'd rather be half hang'd than Name either Word or Signal before any but a Brother so as to be understood.

When one says Gimel, the other answers Nun; then the first again joyning both Letters together repeats Three Times, Gimel-Nun, Gimel-Nun, Gimel-Nun, by which they mean that they are united as one in Interests, Secresy, and Affection. This Last Word has in Time been depraved in the Pronunciation from Gimel-Nun to Gimelun, and at last into Giblun; and sometimes Giblin, which Word being by some Accident discover'd, they now adays pretend its but a Mock Word.

Another of their Words has been maim'd in the Pronunciation by the Illiterate, that is the Letter Lamech, which was the Hush-Word, for when spoke by any Brother in a Lodge it was a Warning to the Rest to have a Care of Lisseners. 'Tis now corruptly pronounced Lam, but the Masons pretend this also is a Mock-Word for the same Reason as Giblin: This Play with the Hebrew Alphabet is very antiently call'd the MANABOLETH.

When one Brother orders another to walk like a Mason, he must walk Four Steps backwards; Four, because of the four Pair of Letters already mentioned, and backwards because the Hebrew is Writ and Read Backwards.

As to their Misterious Grips, they are as follows: If they be in Company where they cannot with Safety Speak the above Words, they take each other by the Hand, one Draws one of the Letters of the Manaboleth with his finger on the other's Hand, which he returns as in Speaking.

It is worth observing, that a certain Lodge in Town Publish'd sometime ago a Sheet full of Mock-Masonry, purely to puzzel and banter the Town, with several false Signs and Words as Mada or Adam, Writ backwards, Boas, Nimrod, Jakins, Pectoral, Guttural, &c. But not one Word of the Real ones, as you see by what has been laid of the MANABOLETH.

After King James the Sixth's Accession to the Throne of England, he reviv'd Masonry, of which he was Grand-Master. Both in Scotland and England it had been entirely suppress'd by Queen Elizabeth, because she cou'd not get into the Secret, all Persons of Quality after the Example of the King got themselves admitted Free-Masons; but they made a Kind of MANABOLETH in English, in Imitation of the True and Ancient one; as I. O. U [1 H. a Gold Key, that is, I owe you each a Gold Key; H CCCC his Ruin. Bach foresees his Ruin. I. C. U. B. YY for me. I see you be too wise for me. And a great Deal more of the sanie foolish Stuff, which took its Rise from a Silly Pun upon the Word Bee; for you must know, that-

- A Bee has in all Ages and Nations been the Grand Hieroglyphick of Masonry, because it excells all other living Creatures in the Contrivance and Commodiousness of its Habitation or Combe; as among many other Authors Doctor McGregor now Professor of Mathemetics in Cambridge (as our Guardian informs us) has Learnedly demonstrated; nay Masonry or Building seems to be of the very Essence or Nature of the Bee, for her Building not the ordinary Way of all other living Creatures, is the Generative Cause which produces the Young ones (you know I suppose that Bees are of Neither Sex.)

For this Reason the Kings of France both Pagans and Christians, always Eminent Free-Masons, carried three Bees for their Arms, but to avoid the Imputation of the Egyptian Idolatry of Worshipping a Bee, Clodexaus their first Christian King call'd 'em Unies or Flower de Luces, in which notwithstanding the small Change made for Disguise Sake, there's still the Exact Figure of a Bee. You have perhaps Read of a great Number of Golden Bees found in the Coffin of a Pagan King of France near Brussels, many Ages after CHRISt, which he had ordered should be Bury'd with him, in Token of his having been a Mason.

The Egyptians, always Excellent and Antient Free-Masons, paid Divine Worship to a Bee under the outward shape of a Bull, the better to conceal the Mistery, which Bull they call'd Apis, is the Latin Word for a Bee, the Enigma of Representing the Bee by a Bull consists in this: that according to the Doctrine of the Pythagorean Lodge of Free-Masons, the Souls of all the Cow-kind transmigrate into Bees, as one Virgil a Poet, much in Favour with the Emperor Augustus, because of his profound Skill in Masonry, has describ'd; and Mr. Dryden has thus English'd.

Aristeus

Four Altars raises, from his Herd he Culls For Slaughter, Four the Fairest of his Bull's, Four Heifers from his Female Store he took, All Fair, and all unknowing to the Yolk;
Nine Mornings thence with Sacrifice and Prayers, The Gods invok'd he to the Grove repairs: Behold a Prodigy 1 for from within The Broken Bowels and the Bloated Skin A buzzing Noise of Bees his Ears alarms, Straight issue thro' the Sides assembling Swarms, &c.

What Modern Masons call a Lodge was for the above Reasons by Antiquity call'd a HIVE of Free-Masons, and for the same Reasons when a Dissention happens in a Lodge the going off and forming another Lodge is to this Day call'd SWARMING.

Our Guardian is of Opinion, that the present Masonry is so tarnish'd by the Ignorance of the working, and some other illiterate Masons, that very many, even whole Lodges fall under the Censure of the venerable Chinese Brachman, whose History of the Rise, Progress, and Decay of Free-Masonry, written in the Chinese Tongue, is lately Translated into a Certain European Language. This Chinese's age says, the greatest Part of Current Masons-Judge of the Mysteries and Use of that Sacred Art, just as a Man perfectly Illiterate judges of an Excellent Book, in which when open'd to him he finds no other Beauties than the regular Uniformity in every Page, the Exactness of the Lines in Length, and Equidistance, the Blackness of the Ink and Whiteness of the Paper, or as the Famous British Free Mason MERLIN says of the Stars in the Firmament, when view'd by a Child, &c. But I shall not trouble you with the Length of the Quotation at present, because Merlin and Fryar Bacon on Free-Masonry are soon to be dress'd up in Modern English, and sold by our Printer

Mr. Harding, if duly encourag'd by Subscribers; and also a Key to Raymundus Lullius, without whose Help our Guardian says it's impossible to came at the Quintessence of Free-Masonry.

But some will perhaps Object, how come your unsworn Guardian by this refin'd and uncommon Knowledge in the great Art? to which I answer that,
The Branch of the Lodge of Soloman's Temple, afterwards call'd the Lodge of St. John of Jerusalem on which our Guardian fortunately hit, is as I can easily prove, the Antientest and Purest now on Earth: The famous old Scottish Lodge of Killwinin of which all the Kings of Scotland have been from Time to Time Grand Masters without Interruption, down from the Days of Fergus, who Reigned there more than 2000 Years ago, long before the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem or the Knights of Malta, to which two Lodges I must nevertheless allow the Honour of having adorn'd the Antient Jewish and Pagan Masonry with many Religious and Christian Rules.

Fergus being eldest Son to the chief King of Ireland, was carefully instructed in all the Arts and Sciences, especially in the natural Magick, and the Caballistical Philosophy (afterwards call'd the Roscruption) by the Pagan Druids of Ireland and Mana, the only true Cabalists then Extant in the Western World. (For they had it immediately from the Phenecians, Chaldeans, and Egyptians (which tho' but a Woman can prove). The Egyptians probably had it immediately from Abraham as the Scripture Plainly hints in the Life of that Patriarch; and 'tis allow'd, I am told by Men of Learning, that the Occult as well as Moral Philosophy of all the Pagans was well besprinkl'd and enrich'd from the Caballistical School of the Patriarchs, and afterwards by the Talmudists and other Inferior Rabbins, tho' the prevailing Idolatry of those Days much deprav'd and vitiat'd it.

Fergus before bis Descent upon the Picts in Scotland rais'd that famous Structure, call'd to this Day Carrick-Fergus after his Name, the most misteriuous Piece of Architecture now on Earth, (not excepting the Pyramids of the Egyptian Masons, and their Hieroglyphicks or Free Masons Signs) as any Skillful Free-Mason may easily perceive by examining it according to the Rules of the Art; he build it as a Lodge for his College of Free Masons in those Days talla Druids, which Word our Guardian assures us signifies an Oak in the Greek Language, because Oak is one of the best Timber-Trees for Building, of which especially the Marine Architecture, the Druids were the only Masters, tho' your Modem Term of Mason implys no more than a Worker in Stone, erroneously enough indeed, or at least far short of the true and antient Term of Druid, since the Marine Architecture the most useful Branch of the Sacred Art, corresponds naturally and perfectly with the Word Druid or Worker in Oak, and had nothing at all to do with Stones of any Kind, 'till Jason a famous Druid or Free-Mason used the Load-stone when he went in Quest of the Golden Fleece as it is call'd in the Enigmaticall Ternis of Free-Masonry, or more properly Speaking of the Cabala, as Masonry was call'd in those Days. The use of the Load Stone was then and long after kept as Secret as any of the other Misteries of the Art, till by the unanimous Consent of all the Great Lodges, the use of it was made publick for the Common Benefit of Mankind. Jason's artificial Frog had it fixt in his Mouth, and having a free Swing in an oaken Bowl half fill'd with Water, always faced the North Pole, which gave rise to the Poetical Fable ; That Jason's Frog was a Little Familiar or Sea Demon presiding over the Navigation like any other Angel Guardian. For Free-Masons in all Ages, as well as now, have been look'd upon to deal with Sprites or Demons, and hence came that Imputation which they have in many Nations lain under, of being Conjurers or Magitians ; Witness Merlin and Fryar Bacon.

'Tis perhaps further worth Remark ing, that Jason took one of the Two Sacred Vocal Odes of the Grove of Dodona to make the Keel of the Argus, for so his Ship was call'd, mysteriously Joyning together Architecture or Masonry, and the Druidical Priesthood or Power of Explaining the Oracles. For our Guardian will have it so, that the Pagan Priesthood was always in the Druids or Masons, and that there was a perceivable Glimering of the Jewish Rites in it, tho' much corrupted, as I said, that the Pagan Worship was chiefly in Groves of Ode that they always lookt upon the Oak as Sacred to Jupiter, which Notion is countenanced (making Allowance for the Paganism) by the Patriarchs, for you see in Genesis, that Abraham Sacrificed under the Oaks of Mamre. Joshua indeed took a great Stone and put it up under the Oak, Emblematically joyning the Two great Elements of Masonry to raise an Altar for the LORD.

Our Guardian also says, that Cesar's Description of the Druids of Gaul is as Exact a Picture of a Lodge of Free Masons as can possibly be Drawn.

His Reasons for the Manabolet are the better worth discovering,
II
The World is in Pain
Our Secrets to gain,
And still let them wonder and gaze on, They ne'er can Divine
The Word or the Sign
Of a Free and an Accepted MASON.

III.
'Tis this and 'tis that,
They cannot tell what;
Why so many Great Men of the Nation,
Shou'd Aprons put on,
To make themselves one,
With a Free and an Accepted MASON.

IV
Great Kings, Dukes and Lords,
Have laid by their Swords,
Our Mistery to put a Good Grace on,
And ne'er been Asham'd,
To hear themselves Nam'd
With a Free and an Accepted MASON.

V
Antiquity's Pride
We have on our Side,
And it maketh Men Just in their Station,
There's nought but what's good,
To be understood
By a Free and an Accepted MASON.

VI.
Then Joyn Hand in Hand,
To each other firm stand;
Let's be merry and put a Bright Face on,
What Mortal can boast,
So noble a Toast,
As a Free and an Accepted MASON.

POSTSCRIPT.
Mr. Harding,
OUR Lodge unanimously desire you'll give their Sincere Respects to your Ingenious DRAPIER, to whose Pen we, as well as the Rest of the Nation, own our selves oblig'd. If he be not already a Free-Mason, he shall be welcom to be our Deputy-Guardian.

Your Humble Servant,

Tsrif cht ¹ Lirpa Nilbud  THALESTRIS.

¹ So in original; should be eht
NOTES

1. Hebrew Words in the Texts. P. 73. The Hebrew characters {image} which Gould in his reprint of A Mason's Examination (History, iii, 488) represents as geometrical figures, read from right to left, R(esh) S(amech), M(em). The writer would seem to have used the wrong form of S, viz., {image}(samech) instead of {image}, which, with a dot on right SH(in). The word is RôSHEM = a symbol or token.

P. 190. Both Hebrew words are printed the wrong way round, i.e., from left to right. The one of the first word, the letter spoken by the Junior, are Play) K(oph) D(aled). The word probably is PAKuD = one who is appointed, one who has been inducted or appointed.

The middle letter of the second word, the one spoken by the Master, is not easy to decipher in the original; it is either D(aled) or R(esh), the first and third characters being TS(adi) and CH(eth). If the middle letter is R(esh), then the word might be TSAR'CHA. He needs, he requires, or equally it might be TSARICH thine enemy, neither of which words appears to fit particularly well into the context. If the middle letter is D(aled), as we have printed it, the word might be TSA-D-CHA thy side (eider as a statement or as a question) which is a possible rejoinder to the Junior, if by "thy side" is understood "thy side of the question" or "that is what you say". It is possible, however, that the writer omitted in addition to the vowels, the semi-vowel A(yin), which should have been printed. In that case, the word might be TSA-A-D'CHA = thy step? which would presumably be a request to the Junior to repeat the steps by which the Master, is instructed the candidate to walk up to the Master.

We have to thank Bro. Rabbi Barnett I. Cohen for his help in preparing this note. We have also to thank Dr. F. H. Cowan for his help in the preparation of this note.

2. List of Regular Lodges. P. 171. Of the 67 Lodges enumerated by Prichard, the following are still in existence: No. 1, now Lodge of Antiquity No. 2; No. 3, now Royal Somerset Flouse and Inverness No. 4; No. 4, now Lodge of Friendship No. 6; No. 6, now British No. 8; No. 7, now Westminster and Keystone No. 10; No. 9, now Royal York No. 16; No. 9o, now Tuscan No. 14; No. 12, now Fortitude and Old Cumberland No. 12; No. 12, now Old Dundee No. 18; No. 13, now Royal Kent Lodge of Antiquity No. 20; No. 19, now Emulation No. 21; No. 23, now Globe No. 23; No. 37, now Castle Lodge of Harmony No. 26 No. 42, now Old King's Arms No. 28; No. 48, now St. Albans No. 29; No. 62 united with No. 5 (St. George's) in 1843 to form what is now St. George's and Corner Stone No. 5.

According to Lane, Handy Book to the Lists of Lodges, p. 179, Lodges Nos. 29 and 51 were omitted by Prichard, hence the numbers given by him after No. 28 are erroneous.

GLOSSARY

Asher, astler, esler, ester, a shlar, i.e., a dressed, hewn block of stone used on outer surface of wall (Wyld), square hewn stone(s) (O.E.D.).

Broach'd dornal, broached ornel. Broached worked with a chisel (O.E.D.) or broaching axe. The terms broachaxes and brochychaxes occur in the York Minster Fabric Rolls, 1399, and in the Durham Account Rolls, 1455-57, respectively. Ornel, a urnell: a kind of soft white building stone (O.E.D.). The term urnel occurs in the Rochester Castle Building Account, 1368. See p. 43, n. 5.

Broached thurnel, a corruption of broached ornel or urnel (Dring, A.Q.C., xxix, 261). See p. 43, n. 5.

Broad ovall, ? a corruption of broached ornel. See broached dornal.

Broched-mall, Dring's reading of a word in the Chetwode Crawley MS. which we read as broked-mall, q.v. See p. 43, n. 5.

Broked-mall, ? a heavy mallet or maul for striking the chisel or broach with which the surface of a stone is broached, i.e., pricked, indented or furrowed. Dring suggests that it is a corruption of broached ornel or urnel.

Common Gudge or judge, a gauge or templet of thin board or metal plate used as a guide in cutting stones. Jedge is defined in Jamieson's Scottish Dictionary as a gauge or standard. A templet, described as a jadge, is pictured among the tools in the Mark Book of the Lodge of Aberdeen (Miller, The Lodge, Aberdeen, facing p. 42). ?= Bible (Underwood, A.Q.C., liv.

Cowan, primary meaning: one who builds dry walls, otherwise denominated a drydiker (Jamieson, op. de); one who builds drystone walls (O.E.D.); secondary meaning (given by both Jamieson and O.E.D.) : a man who does the work of a mason, but has not been regularly apprenticed or bred to the trade.

Dantly Tassley, ? a corruption of pertenashler ' (Dring), q.v.

Diadem, ? a variant of diamond q.v.

Diamond, ? a corruption of dinted ashlar' (Poole, Mise. Lat.,"xi. II), q.v. Dinted ashler, ? a corruption of ' perpendashler ' (Dring), q.v.

Dornal, see broached dornal.

Esler, ester, see Asher.

Gudge, see Common Gudge.

Heal, heill, hele, to Inde, to conceal, to keep secret (O.E.D.).

Indented Tarsel, the expression occurs in Prichard where it is described as "the border round about the Lodge ". Dring suggests that it is a corruption of perpentashler (q.v.); if so, not only the expression, but its meaning, has undergone great modification. 241
Glossary

Judge, see Common gudge or judge.

Mall, see broked-mall.

Ovall, see broad anall.

Parpen, perpen, perpend, a stone which passes through a wall from sicle to side, having two smooth vertical faces (O.E.D).

Parpendashler, parpentashler, a compound word formed from parpen (q.v.) and « ashler.» A dressed or hewn block of stone that extends through a wall from one side to another and serves as a binding stone.

Square, (i) a board having the shape of a square, i.e., a drawing board or primitive tracing board ; (ii) an instrument for measuring or determining right angles.

Thurnel, see broached thurnel.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>INDEX</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Aberdeen, Lodge of, 6, 7, 26</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accepted ceremonies, 22-30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ahiman Rezon, 176</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anderson, Rev. James, 6, 22, 29, 210 Anderson's Constitutions (1723), 3, 7, 15, 16, 20, 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anderson's Constitutions (1733), 4, 13, 17, 210</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Baxter, Bro. R. H., 3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Begemann, W., 22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Briscoe pamphlet, 3, 13n., 15 Buchan MS., 8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cabbala, 11, 15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charges of a Master, 27, 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charges of Wardens, 27, 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charge to new admitted Brethren, 23-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charity, 25-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chesham MS., 2, 4, 18, 19, 174 Chetwode Crawley, W. J., 14, 21, 35, 229</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chetwode Crawley MS., 4, 5, 13, 19, 35-40, 42-4, 142</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clare, Martin, 187, 210</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Classification of Catechisms, 18-19 Constituting a new lodge, 26-7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Defence of Masonry, 17, 18, 210-25 Deloney's Gentle Craft, 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dermott, Laurence, 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Desaguliers, Dr. J. T., 17, 22, 29, 175 Dialogue between Simon and Philip, vi, Xi, 81, 115-16, 141-2, 150, 175-81 Dring, E. H., 187, 241, 242</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Drinkwater No. 1 MS., 8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dumfries No. 2 MS., 4, 5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dumfries No. 4 MS., 4, 9, 19, 26, 3o, 50-68, 149</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edinburgh Register House MS., 4, 5, 7, 8, ro, 18, 19, 26, 31-4, 39, 4o, 42-4, 140, 142</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Essex MS., 2, 4, 12, 8, 19, 16, 182-3 Evolution of Catechisms, 19-21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Free-Masons Accusation and Defence, 13, 15</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Free-Masons Vindication, 16, 184-6

Gould, R. F., 18, 71, 210

Graham MS., vi, 4, 12, 18, 21, 89-96, 182 Grand Mystery Laid Open, 4, 15, 19, 97-8

Grand Mystery of Free-Masons Discover'd, xi, 12, 14, IS, 16, 19, 76-80, 83, 115, 144, 150, 182, 184, 226, 230

Grand Whimsy, 152

Grantham, Bro. Ivor, 28

Harleian MS. 1942, 8

Haughfoot fragment, 7, 40 Hebrew words, 73, 190, 240 Hextall, W. B., 182

Holme, Randle, 9n., 28 Hughan, W. J., 35, 152

Installation ceremony, 22, 26-7 Institution of Free Masons, 2, 4, 12, 19, 30, 83-6, 116

Kevan MS., 7, 18, 39-44

Kevan, P. D., 39

Kilwinning, Lodge of, 6, 29, 32, 37, 43

Lepper and Crossle, 14, 229

Lester from the Grand Mistress, Il, 14-16, 229-39

London Freemasons' Ordinances (1509-10), 28

Masonry Dissected, 2, 3, 10, 17, 19, 20-1, 22, 25, 114-15, 118, 120, 139, 141-2, 149-51, 157-73, 174, 175, 187

Mason's Examination, 6, 13, 15, 19, 20, 71-5

Mason's Confession, 2, 19, 20, 3o, 99-107, 140, 542, 150

Mason Word, I, 9, II, 19, 24, 29, 34, 35, 100

243
Index

MS. Constitutions of Masonry, I-4, 6, 15, 24, 25, 50, 89
Mystery and Motions of Free-Masonry Discovered, 152
Mystery of Free-Masonry, 17, 19, 20, 141, 152-6, 174

Old Charges, 1-4
Opening Prayer, 22, 24 Operative working,
4-9, 25

Pennell's Constitutions (1730, 21, 22, 25 Perjur'd
Free Mason Detected, 3, 18, 187-209
Pocket Companion, 2, 17, 20-1, 23, 25, 210
Poole, Bro. Re*. H., vii, viii, 4, 12, 89, 152, 182, 241
Prichard, see Masonry Dissected
Puerile Signs and Wonders of a Free-Masan, 152

Schaw Statutes, 5
Secrecy, Oath of, 6, 7-9
Sisterhood of Free Sempstresses, 14, 16, 226-8

Sloane MS. 3329, 4, 6, 8, 19, 21, 45-9, 140, 142
Smith, W., 22. See also Pocket Companion
Speculative Ceremonies, Early, 22-30 Swift, Jonathan, 229
Texts, Treatment of the, 30, 31, 45, 51, 89-90, 120
Thorp, J. T., 3, 152
Three Degrees, 26, 21, 15r
Trigradal system, 1, 22, 151
Trinity College, Dublin, MS., 4, 1*, 19, 21, 69-70

Vibert, Lionel, i, 22
Warburton, Dr. Wm., 210 Wilkinson MS., v, vi, 108-51 Wilkinson, S. B., 109-11
Whole Institutions of Free-Masons
Opened, 4, 12, 18, 81, 87-8, 182 Whole Institution of Masonry, xi, 81-7, 175
Wonnacott, W., a10
Working Tools, 28